Soviets Move To Ease Hot Berlin Crisis

Mikoyan Sounds Apparent Bid To Conduct Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Saturday welcomed an apparent Russian move to take the heat off the Berlin crisis in favor of a Four Power conference.

The State Department said it was "glad to see" that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan realizes after his Washington visit that negotiations are more important than Moscow's May 27 deadline for turning over East Berlin to the East German Communists and getting the Allies to pull their forces out of West Berlin.

Meanwhile, high American officials disclosed that allied representatives will meet here about Feb. 2 to begin drafting their proposal for a showdown spring conference with Russia on Berlin and German reunification.

PLAN TO REPLY

They said British, French and American experts will begin putting together a reply to Russia's unacceptable demand for a 28-nation conference to write a German peace treaty on the Kremlin's terms.

Mikoyal told a Moscow press conference Saturday that "the main thing is not the deadline but to have talks" in regard to the Berlin crisis.

"We are glad to see that Mr. Mikoyan feels that artificial pressures regarding the timing of negotiations are not helpful," the State Department replied.

Mikoyan also said "negotiations could be prolonged for a few days or a few months" if the West showed "good will."

The State Department made it clear, however, that this country would discuss Berlin only as "an integral part" of German reunification and European security.

The department said Mikoyan was informed during his conferences with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that such talks would be "useful."

Mikoyan's statement raised some hope that Russia might accept western suggestions for a four power meeting, possibly of foreign ministers.

But so far Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Russians have insisted on trying to isolate the Berlin problem.

Russia's May 27 deadline covered two principal points:

Board May Cut Reimbursements Of Lunch Funds

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education meets in special session Monday with one member predicting it will have to cut the state's 17-cent school lunch fund reimbursement by two cents.

The member declined to be quoted by name.

State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson said in an interview a cut "considerably more" than two cents might be necessary, depending upon what the board decides.

At its last meeting Dec. '9 the board warned parish school boards it might have to reduce the state lunch fund reimbursements after Jan. 1 because a special legislative session in November cut the year's appropriation from $14.-623,245 to $10,126,761.

Gov. Earl Long said several days ago he doesn't object to higher lunch prices for students able to pay, provided free lunches are assured the needy.

Should the state trim its monthly reimbursements, parish schools will have to make up the balance of expense. Some already are charging higher prices to children.

There was no definite indication what the board might do.

Area Youth Dies Of Heart Attack

FERRIDAY (Special) — James David Duncan, 15, of Waterproof, was found dead late yesterday near his home. Dr. J. H. Pankey, Concordia parish coroner, attributed death to a heart attack.

The youth was a student at Waterproof High School and a member of the Tensas First Baptist Church.

Services were incomplete last night but will be announced later by Comer Funeral Home of Ferriday.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Duncan; and a sister, Mrs. Doyle Breland, all of Waterproof.

OFFICERS ARE AMAZED

Murder 'Victim' Turns Up Alive After 3 Months

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Murder charges against two men accused of killing Florida businessman James E. Harrison collapsed Saturday when the "victim" turned up alive in Arizona.

There had been no corpse in the case, but authorities had a "confession" and strong indications that someone had been robbed and killed on a lonely Florida East Coast Highway last Oct. 7.

Even when Harrison dramatically re-appeared, an apparent victim of amnesia, authorities felt they might have a mistaken identity murder mystery on their hands.

THEORY SHAKEN

That theory was shaken, however, when the California convict who "confessed" killing Harrison near here said in Vacaville, Calif., Saturday night that he had lied.

Convict Roy V. Olson, 23, serving a life term for a slaying in Sacramento, Calif., had given authorities a typed and signed statement that he and James E. Leech 21, of Kentucky killed Harrison. Leech denied taking part in the slaying but told police from a Tennessee jail cell that he could show them where Harrison's body was buried in a shallow ditch 10 miles south of here.

Harrison, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., had disappeared with $500 in cash on a business trip. His car was stolen, and authorities connected that with Olson's story that he and Leech hitched a ride with Harrison, killed and robbed him and took his station wagon.

Harrison, flying back to Florida, told newsmen at Dallas, Tex., he could remember nothing. He said it was "just like waking up on Oct. 7." His memory suddenly returned to him on a street in

JES' Ramblin'

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Marion F. Smith, who have been living for the past few months in the Riverside Convalescent Home, will observe their 62nd wedding anniversary today.

The couple's six living children will participate in the party planned for 2 p.m. Two sons, Dorsey Smith and Archie Smith, died at 18 months and 27 years respectively.

Mr. Smith, generally in good health for a man of 80, proudly discussed the wedding celebration with Jes' Ramblin'. Mr. Smith has some difficulty in hearing and although he suffered a back injury at the age of 7, he put in a life of hard work on farms near Farmerville and Huttig, Ark.

When Mr. Smith was 18 and his bride - to - be within four days of the same age, the couple was married in a country church and started off their married life with a home of their own.

The six living children are all nearby, living either in Ouachita Parish, Richland Parish, or in Union County, Ark.

Mr. Smith relates that besides farming, he spent three years working in a mill, and that he "never was much" for joining organizations He did join a Baptist church in the area where he was living.

Mrs. Smith has been blind for some years and a leg injury confines her to her bed. However, with a smile she says she will be glad to observe the day and is looking forward to it as is her husband.

There are no regrets in these lives — just thankfulness. Friends will come to wish them many more pleasures in life.

Cave-In Of Roof Fatal For Three

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (AP)—Three persons—a married couple and a 13-year-old boy—were killed Saturday when the roof of a curling rink at nearby Britannia Lodge collapsed. Eight other persons were injured.

Eleven persons were in the building about noon when the roof caved in under the weight of snow and a heavy wind.

Bar Group Meeting Is Ended Here

The closing phases of the three-day eighth Louisiana Conference of Local Bar Associations and meeting of the House of Delegates of the Louisiana Bar Association here yesterday morning saw members of the legal profession urged to tackle the problem of ethics and etiquettes of their calling.

In other activities, citations of appreciation were formally presented to past presidents of the Louisiana Bar Association, including two from the Monroe area, Thomas Watkins Leigh of Monroe, and George T. Madison of Bastrop.

Approximately 300 lawyers and their wives from throughout the state gathered in Monroe for the winter session which opened Thursday morning and ended at noon yesterday.

In discussing "Potentials of Local Bar Associations," Milton M. Harrison, dean of the Louisiana State University Law School, told the group yesterday morning that they should give strong consideration to ethics and etiquettes of the legal profession, since its status is determined at the local level and members of the bar must have

SPACE CHIEF PREDICTS

Americans To Visit Moon In 10 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a good chance that Americans will circle the moon without landing in the next 10 years, the nation's civilian space chief said Saturday.

Dr. T. Keith Glennan said that in the same decade "an active program should be under way to attempt a similar (circumnavigational) flight to Mars or Venus."

And he added, there is an outside chance that samples of the moon's surface may be brought back to earth by some undisclosed technique.

Outlining in an interview the expectations of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration he heads, Glennan said prospects for success are conditioned on the assumption there will be vigorius national support.

Glennan's prognostications, representing also the thinking of his top scientists, envision such things as:

Good progress toward manned space laboratories orbiting the earth for long periods and being supplied by rockets.

Development and operation of a system of weather satellites having world-wide coverage.

Establishment of practical global systems of communications satellites relaying radio, television and other signals.

Argument Leads To Bus Accident, Two Are Killed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — An argument between a city bus driver and a passenger resulted in the wreck of a bus here early Saturday and the death of two persons—one of them the passenger involved in the dispute.

The bus went out of control under the 6th St. viaduct, hit a curb and crashed into a steel viaduct support.

Fred Hamburg, 62, of Cincinnati the passenger involved in the argument, was killed. James B. Walsh, 63, also of Cincinnati, died almost 12 hours later of his injuries.

Eleven other persons were injured.

George Highlander, 32, driver of the vehicle, told police he had an argument with Hamburg over a transfer and over his driving. He said he turned to say something when he thought Hamburg was about to hit him and lost control of the bus.

Highlander was charged with reckless driving. One passenger told officers the bus was going "very fast" when the mishap occurred.

HOSPITAL CORRIDORS SILENT

Many Of Injured On Serious List

By BOB LUCKETT
Staff Writer

A pall of silence shrouded the seventh floor of St. Francis hospital last night.

Here were most of the victims of Friday night's tragic chemical explosion on the Missouri Pacific line just south of Monroe.

Some were treading the hair's width line between life and death.

Two men were deleted from the critical list . . . and added to the fatality list.

They were Cosby O. Prestage, 47-year-old wrecker engineer of Monroe, and Charles Roy Barnes, 36, of McGehee, Arkansas. Barnes was a train master for Missouri Pacific and had worked for the railroad 14 years.

DEATH LIST

The death list grew to five.

Killed instantly in the hell-hot inferno generated by the chemical blast were O. C. Mitchell, Lake Village, Arkansas; Tom Hill, Montrose, Arkansas; and Paul Tyson, Monroe. All were Negro laborers employed by the railroad.

Friends and relatives of the hospitalized stood bedside vigilance or whispered in the hall or lobby. The calm atmosphere was a sharp contrast to the chaos and confusion that reigned Friday night when the casualties were brought in.

Uniformed policemen were stationed on the seventh floor to keep order among the anxious but there was no excitement now. Just waiting.

In serious condition were Richard W. Graves, 54, 1206 South First, Monroe; Sycamore Cotton, 61; Negro, Winn, Ark.; B. A. Hynum, 63, 513 South Fourth, Monroe; L. M. Elledge, 57, Little Rock, Ark.; Robert K. Semmes, 58, 3201 Lee Ave., Monroe; Huey F. Boyd, 58, 1603 South First, Monroe; Nick Inzina, 41 1304 Alabama, Monroe; Woodrow J. Mooney, 45, Little Rock, Ark.;

Big Search Pressed In Kidnaping

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police checked out 100 anonymous telephone calls Saturday without turning up a clue to the fate of a sick baby who was kidnaped by a woman baby-sitter Thursday.

Authorities hoped to find John Tavarez, who was 23 days old when he was stolen, the same way they recovered a newborn baby who was kidnaped from a hospital earlier this month.

In that case, an anonymous telephone tipster—the 313th—led police to the baby's whereabouts.

Police checked out every call in the Tavarez case in the hope the baby would be found safe in the care of the kidnaper.

But chief of detectives James B. Leggett told newsmen Saturday that the 200 detectives, uniformed police and policewomen assigned to the kidnaping had found nothing.

"It is a case of more doorbell ringing," Leggett said. "No matter how foolish their information might seem, we still plan to check out all information reaching the police."

He said police had been unable to find the taxi driver who carried the baby, his mother and the

FDR's Grandson Weds In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Elliot Roosevelt Jr., grandson of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Jo Anne McFadden were married Saturday in a quiet ceremony in suburban Kenilworth Union Church.

Among the many relatives attending the nuptials in the small church was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President and grandmother of the bridegroom.

Elliott Roosevelt Sr. was his son's best man, while William F. Hanchett Jr., of San Diego, Calif. Miss McFadden's uncle, gave the bride in marriage.

The couple planned to honeymoon in the East before moving to Ft. Benning, Ga., where Elliott Jr. will serve a six-month tour in the Army.

The couple also planned to make their permanent residence in Fort Worth, Tex., where Elliott's mother — Mrs. H.T. Eidson resides.

COURT FAVORS INGRID

Rossellini Is Loser In Custody Battle

PARIS (UPI)—Ingrid Bergman Saturday won temporary custody of her three children in a Paris court and scored another legal victory over Roberto Rossellini in a Rome tribunal.

A French court referee granted the Swedish actress the right to keep the children another suburban home in Choisel but ordered that Rossellini may have them on weekends whenever he is in France. Should Miss Bergman leave France, the Italian film director may have custody as long as she is gone, the referee ruled.

He also held that the children must continue to attend the Italian school in Paris.

The decision was announced Saturday by court referee Rene Drouillat who listened Thursday to pleas from Miss Bergman and Rossellini for custody of the children.

He said the decision would remain in force until a higher French court or an Italian tribunal hands down a permanent decision on the future of Robertino, 8, and twins Isabella and Isotta, 6.

Miss Bergman brought the suit here. Rossellini filed another custoday suit in Rome charging the children were being brought up in a "Protestant atmosphere" while they are Roman Catholics.

The Rome court was to have handed down a decision also Saturday but Miss Bergman's attorneys forced a postponement by pointing out she never had been legally notified of the suit.

Losses Over $100 Million From Floods

United Press International

Several Ohio and Pennsylvania towns and cities reeled Saturday under the onslaught of mid-winter floodwaters, and took drastic action to protect homes and property from destruction.

A "cordon of guards" sealed off the downtown area of Fremont Ohio, where the ice-filled Sandusky River rolled over its banks and climbed to a crest of 17 feet. At Meadville, Pa., dynamite was delivered by helicopter to crews who hoped to blast an ice jam on French Creek and relieve pressure on the Pennsylvania community.

FACE DANGERS

Still other towns faced additional dangers from maverick rivers and streams in Ohio and Pennsylvania, where floodwaters forced at least 25,000 persons from their homes and caused damage well above 100-million dollars. Red Cross headquarters in Washington said preliminary reports indicated at least 3,500 homes were destroyed or damaged by the floods, which also hit Indiana, New York and West Virginia.

A high price in human life also was exacted by the floods and the snowstorm that battered the nation during the past week. A United Press International count showed at least 115 deaths attributed to floods, traffic, exhaustion, exposure and tornadoes.

Meanwhile, a warming trend mushroomed across the plains into the Midwest, breaking a bone-chilling cold wave that followed on the heels of the snowstorm, the worst of the winter. Warmer temperatures were expected to push into New England Sunday.

Federal and state agencies speeded relief to the Ohio- Pennsylvania flood areas after President Eisenhower authorized federal aid Friday.

At Freemont, between 250 to 300 families were evacuated from the

Smoke, Fire Billow High Near Monroe

By SAM HANNA

Demolitionists triggered the remains of an explosive railway wreckage south of Monroe yesterday, blasting it into a ball of fire as the disaster train's death total climbed to five.

Seven badly-burned victims of Friday's catastrophe remained in critical condition last night as the injury list dwindled by two. They died.

That left 32 persons hospitalized, 18 treated and released and five dead in the most unusual but worst disaster in Monroe history.

IDENTIFIED

Two bodies were identified in yesterday's anti-climax. By day's end Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. officials were awaiting dawn to clear the wreckage.

A 47-year-old Monroe man, C. O. Prestage, 1705 S. 5th, died at 9:50 a.m. yesterday and Charles R. Barnes, 36, McGehee, Ark. followed about an hour later.

Meanwhile, Missouri Pacific identified victims as Paul Tyson, 111 Oak, Monroe, and Tom Hill, Montrose, Ark.

They were killed instantly with O. C. Mitchell, Lake Village, Ark. when the explosion occurred at 7 p.m. Friday. All three were Negroes.

The five dead men were Missouri Pacific employes, working as a part of several crews in attempts to clear the wreckage of 33 cars that derailed Thursday at 11:15 p.m.

Of the total of 55 victims, 30 were spectators. But all except two of the seriously injured were Missouri Pacific employes.

A search of the area before the tanks were demolished yesterday failed to reveal any bodies of blast victims or missing persons, officials said.

A demolition team, was brought in yesterday from Barksdale Air Force Base at Shreveport to destroy at least one car loaded with propelyn, a liquidified petroleum gas.

Railroad officials said it was the worst of its type accident in Missouri Pacific history.

The series of freak events was climaxed yesterday when a demolition team from Barksdale Air Force Base destroyed at least

Fred Hamburg, 62, of Cincinnati the passenger involved in the argument, was killed. James B. Walsh, 63, also of Cincinnati, died almost 12 hours later of his injuries.

Eleven other persons were injured.

George Highlander, 32, driver of the vehicle, told police he had an argument with Hamburg over a transfer and over his driving. He said he turned to say something when he thought Hamburg was about to hit him and lost control of the bus.

Highlander was charged with reckless driving. One passenger told officers the bus was going "very fast" when the mishap occurred.

Overcast Skies Seen For Area

Overcast skies with fairly warm temperatures are on the weather menu for today, with possible rain tomorrow.

Yesterday's high was a comfortable 63, with a low of 29. Friday's high and low were 49 and 21.

The two - day weather outlook for Arkansas calls for cloudy skies and rising temperatures.

HOSPITAL CORRIDORS SILENT

Many Of Injured On Serious List

By BOB LUCKETT
Staff Writer

A pall of silence shrouded the seventh floor of St. Francis hospital last night.

Here were most of the victims of Friday night's tragic chemical explosion on the Missouri Pacific line just south of Monroe.

Some were treading the hair's width line between life and death.

Two men were deleted from the critical list . . . and added to the fatality list.

They were Cosby O. Prestage, 47-year-old wrecker engineer of Monroe, and Charles Roy Barnes, 36, of McGehee, Arkansas. Barnes was a train master for Missouri Pacific and had worked for the railroad 14 years.

DEATH LIST

The death list grew to five.

Killed instantly in the hell-hot inferno generated by the chemical blast were O. C. Mitchell, Lake Village, Arkansas; Tom Hill, Montrose, Arkansas; and Paul Tyson, Monroe. All were Negro laborers employed by the railroad.

Friends and relatives of the hospitalized stood bedside vigilance or whispered in the hall or lobby. The calm atmosphere was a sharp contrast to the chaos and confusion that reigned Friday night when the casualties were brought in.

Uniformed policemen were stationed on the seventh floor to keep order among the anxious but there was no excitement now. Just waiting.

In serious condition were Richard W. Graves, 54, 1206 South First, Monroe; Sycamore Cotton, 61; Negro, Winn, Ark.; B. A. Hynum, 63, 513 South Fourth, Monroe; L. M. Elledge, 57, Little Rock, Ark.; Robert K. Semmes, 58, 3201 Lee Ave., Monroe; Huey F. Boyd, 58, 1603 South First, Monroe; Nick Inzina, 41, 1304 Alabama, Monroe; Woodrow J. Mooney, 45, Little Rock, Ark.;

Big Search Pressed In Kidnaping

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police checked out 100 anonymous telephone calls Saturday without turning up a clue to the fate of a sick baby who was kidnaped by a woman baby-sitter Thursday.

Authorities hoped to find John Tavarez, who was 23 days old when he was stolen, the same way they recovered a newborn baby who was kidnaped from a hospital earlier this month.

In that case, an anonymous telephone tipster—the 313th—led police to the baby's whereabouts.

Police checked out every call in the Tavarez case in the hope the baby would be found safe in the care of the kidnaper.

But chief of detectives James B. Leggett told newsmen Saturday that the 200 detectives, uniformed police and policewomen assigned to the kidnaping had found nothing.

"It is a case of more doorbell ringing," Leggett said. "No matter how foolish their information might seem, we still plan to check out all information reaching the police."

He said police had been unable to find the taxi driver who carried the baby, his mother and the

FDR's Grandson Weds In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Elliot Roosevelt Jr., grandson of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Jo Anne McFadden were married Saturday in a quiet ceremony in suburban Kenilworth Union Church.

Among the many relatives attending the nuptials in the small church was Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President and grandmother of the bridegroom.

Elliott Roosevelt Sr. was his son's best man, while William F. Hanchett Jr., of San Diego, Calif. Miss McFadden's uncle, gave the bride in marriage.

The couple planned to honeymoon in the East before moving to Ft. Benning, Ga., where Elliott Jr. will serve a six-month tour in the Army.

The couple also planned to make their permanent residence in Fort Worth, Tex., where Elliott's mother — Mrs. H.T. Eidson resides.

Losses Over $100 Million From Floods

United Press International

Several Ohio and Pennsylvania towns and cities reeled Saturday under the onslaught of mid-winter floodwaters, and took drastic action to protect homes and property from destruction.

A "cordon of guards" sealed off the downtown area of Fremont Ohio, where the ice-filled Sandusky River rolled over its banks and climbed to a crest of 17 feet. At Meadville, Pa., dynamite was delivered by helicopter to crews who hoped to blast an ice jam on French Creek and relieve pressure on the Pennsylvania community.

FACE DANGERS

Still other towns faced additional dangers from maverick rivers and streams in Ohio and Pennsylvania, where floodwaters forced at least 25,000 persons from their homes and caused damage well above 100-million dollars. Red Cross headquarters in Washington said preliminary reports indicated at least 3,500 homes were destroyed or damaged by the floods, which also hit Indiana, New York and West Virginia.

A high price in human life also was exacted by the floods and the snowstorm that battered the nation during the past week. A United Press International count showed at least 115 deaths attributed to floods, traffic, exhaustion, exposure and tornadoes.

Meanwhile, a warming trend mushroomed across the plains into the Midwest, breaking a bone-chilling cold wave that followed on the heels of the snowstorm, the worst of the winter. Warmer temperatures were expected to push into New England Sunday.

Federal and state agencies speeded relief to the Ohio- Pennsylvania flood areas after President Eisenhower authorized federal aid Friday.

At Freemont, between 250 to 300 families were evacuated from the

COURT FAVORS INGRID

Rossellini Is Loser In Custody Battle

PARIS (UPI)—Ingrid Bergman Saturday won temporary custody of her three children in a Paris court and scored another legal victory over Roberto Rossellini in a Rome tribunal.

A French court referee granted the Swedish actress the right to keep the children another suburban home in Choisel but ordered that Rossellini may have them on weekends whenever he is in France. Should Miss Bergman leave France, the Italian film director may have custody as long as she is gone, the referee ruled.

He also held that the children must continue to attend the Italian school in Paris.

The decision was announced Saturday by court referee Rene Drouillat who listened Thursday to pleas from Miss Bergman and Rossellini for custody of the children.

He said the decision would remain in force until a higher French court or an Italian tribunal hands down a permanent decision on the future of Robertino, 8, and twins Isabella and Isotta, 6.

Miss Bergman brought the suit here. Rossellini filed another custoday suit in Rome charging the children were being brought up in a "Protestant atmosphere" while they are Roman Catholics.

The Rome court was to have handed down a decision also Saturday but Miss Bergman's attorneys forced a postponement by pointing out she never had been legally notified of the suit.

Smoke, Fire Billow High Near Monroe

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Demolitionists triggered the remains of an explosive railway wreckage south of Monroe yesterday, blasting it into a ball of fire as the disaster train's death total climbed to five.

Seven badly-burned victims of Friday's catastrophe remained in critical condition last night as the injury list dwindled by two. They died.

That left 32 persons hospitalized, 18 treated and released and five dead in the most unusual but worst disaster in Monroe history.

IDENTIFIED

Two bodies were identified in yesterday's anti-climax. By day's end Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. officials were awaiting dawn to clear the wreckage.

A 47-year-old Monroe man, C. O. Prestage, 1705 S. 5th, died at 9:50 a.m. yesterday and Charles R. Barnes, 36, McGehee, Ark. followed about an hour later.

Meanwhile, Missouri Pacific identified victims as Paul Tyson, 111 Oak, Monroe, and Tom Hill, Montrose, Ark.

They were killed instantly with O. C. Mitchell, Lake Village, Ark. when the explosion occurred at 7 p.m. Friday. All three were Negroes.

The five dead men were Missouri Pacific employes, working as a part of several crews in attempts to clear the wreckage of 33 cars that derailed Thursday at 11:15 p.m.

Of the total of 55 victims, 30 were spectators. But all except two of the seriously injured were Missouri Pacific employes.

A search of the area before the tanks were demolished yesterday failed to reveal any bodies of blast victims or missing persons, officials said.

A demolition team, was brought in yesterday from Barksdale Air Force Base at Shreveport to destroy at least one car loaded with propelyn, a liquidified petroleum gas.

Railroad officials said it was the worst of its type accident in Missouri Pacific history.

The series of freak events was climaxed yesterday when a demolition team from Barksdale Air Force Base destroyed at least

Husband, Wife To Receive LSU Degrees

BATON ROUGE (Special) — A husband and wife will receive doctor's degrees in the same field and at the same commencement exercises for the second time in the history of Louisiana State University January 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Titus M. Johnston will receive Doctor of Philosophy degrees with a major in plant pathology. Coincidentally, the only other similar situation developed in the same department in June, 1957.

Johnston is a native of Bogalusa, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Johnston of 1211 Ave. F. He received a bachelor of science degree from Southeastern Louisiana College in 1955 and a Master of Science in horticulture at LSU in 1956. He received an experiment station fellowship to finance his M. S. study and a Dow Chemical fellowship to finance his doctoral work.

His wife, the former Peggy Stumbo, is the daughter of Mrs. Della Stumbo of Harold, Ky. Mrs. Johnston received her B. S. degree from the University of Kentucky in 1952 and M. S. in botany from the same university in 1954. During her graduate study she has gained financial aid from a teaching assistance-ship and an Atomic Energy Commission grant.

The couple met while studying at LSU and were married in 1956. Both hope to do research work with a university or with the U. S. Department of Agriculture after receiving their degrees.

PH.D FAMILY — Peggy and Titus Johnston get ready to become the second husband and wife team in the history of Louisiana State University to receive doctor of philosophy degrees at the same time. Both will receive identical degrees at the Jan. 27 commencement exercises.

School Razed By Flames To Be Replaced

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Our Lady of the Angels school which burned Dec. 1 at a cost of 93 lives will be replaced with a new $750,000 completely fire-proofed structure, it was announced Saturday.

James Barry, retained as architect, said construction of the three story building will take about a year.

"We have been instructed by Msgr. Joseph F. Cussen, pastor of Our Lady of the Angels, to exceed the city codes in making the new school the safest possible," Barry said.

Barry said the new school will be of brick and reinforced concrete and that floors and four stairways all will be of concrete. Stairwell exit doors will be of aluminum.

Each of the two corridors on every floor will end at one of the stairwells, he said.

The new school will have 32 classrooms, a kindergarten section a lunchroom and a library, with a capacity of 1,600 pupils.

The Our Lady of the Angels fire caused the deaths of 90 children and 3 nuns and injured close to 100.

GOP 'Truth Task Force' In Operation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Saturday a GOP "truth task force" would answer all Democratic attacks on President Eisenhower's missile program and other projects.

The Illinois Republican told reporters that this approach had been cleared with the conference of all 34 GOP senators and already has gone into operation.

Democrats headed by Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) have the administration missile program under fire. Johnson's Preparedness and Space committees, on both of which Symington also sits, will start a searching missile inquiry next Thursday.

But the battle will go far beyond the missile program. It will center on the Eisenhower budget and Democratic proposals in housing and other fields which would crack the President's 77-billion dollar anti - inflation budget ceiling.

Dirksen made it clear that each majority charge on missiles and other issues will be answered. The Republicans used self-styled "truth squads" to counter Democratic charges in various political campaigns.

"We believe the whole story ought to be told," Dirksen said. "We want to give the facts without equivocation so the chips can fall where they will."

Sen. Francis Case (R-S. D.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, filled the first Dirksen "task force" assignment Friday. He gave no GOP answer to Symington's claim that by 1961 Russia will have better than a four - to - one lead over the United States in long-range military missiles.

Case told the Senate that the Truman administration caused an 18-month lag in development of such missiles by ordering 75 million dollars transferred from research and development in 1947. Case said Symington, who was Truman's air secretary in 1947, had nothing to do with the transfer.

Case added that America's "very great deterrent strength" does not depend on any one weapon.

Suspect In Bus Driver Stabbing Waives Hearing

LUCEDALE, Miss. (UPI) — Comer Gilmore, 46 of Defuniak Springs, Fla. waived a preliminary hearing Saturday and was bound over to a George Count grand jury for stabbing a bus driver on a night run from Mobile to Memphis.

Gilmore is charged with assault and battery with intent to kill driver J. L. Ketton, 47, of Mobile, early Thursday shortly after the bus passed through Lucedale.

He was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Gilmore's wife has requested that he be committed to Whitfield State Mental Hospital. Officers said papers in his pocket indicated he was en route to the veterans hospital in Memphis for a mental examination at the time of the attack.

Keeton, who was released from a hospital Saturday morning, said Gilmore suddenly attacked him with a pocket knife. Another passenger broke up a tussle between the two and Gilmore fled down the highway. He was arrested as he walked toward Mobile.

Car-Truck Crash On Baton Rouge Bridge Is Fatal

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A car-truck collision Saturday on the Mississippi River Bridge here killed one man and critically injured another, both in the auto.

Killed was James R. Stewart, 29, of Jackson. State Police said he was an Army medical paratrooper on leave.

Injured was Vernon Brown of Pineville.

Troopers said the auto hit the rear of the trailer-truck, careened into the bridge railing and overturned. Both men were thrown out.

Survivors in addition to the parents include his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rebecca Span of London, Eng.; and paternal grandfather, Wade C. Kern of Longview, Tex.

PLAN NEW MISSILE

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Air Force plans to proceed with work on a new air-launched ballistic missile with a range of more than 1,000 miles, according to a government official. Bids from several companies to produce the new weapon already are being considered, he added.

LEADERS EXPECT SUCCESS

Drive For Hawaii Statehood Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A drive to confer statehood on Hawaii gets underway in Congress Monday with its backers highly confident of success.

Exactly three weeks ago Alaska became the 49th state. Hawaii would be the 50th. It is being given a better than even chance.

Public hearings on the statehood bill will start before the House Interior Committee. Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton has been called as the first witness and will throw the administration's support behind it.

Statehood forces scored their first victory Friday when the committee shouted approval of a proposal by Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D-N. Y.) that the full committee conduct the hearings rather than rely on a subcommittee.

O'Brien, who spearheaded the successful drive for House approval of Alaskan statehood, will preside. He said that by-passing time - consuming subcommittee hearings had cleared the way for committee approval of the measure by mid - February.

The House three times has approved Hawaiian statehood. The vote was 196 to 133 in 1947, 262 to 110 in 1950, and 274 to 138 in 1953. The first two measures died in the Senate. The third died in the House after the Senate coupled it with Alaskan statehood.

Because of its population, which at last report exceeded 560,000, Hawaii would be entitled to two House members, as well as two senators. Alaska got only one House member. More than one-third of Hawaii's people are of Japanese extraction. Only one-fourth are Caucasians.

Hawaii consists of eight major islands and many smaller ones. Lying 2,200 miles southwest of California, it is a territory of sugar, pineapples and tourists.

AMOMG REPUBLICAN LEADERS

Nixon Still Heavy Nominee Favorite

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Soundings among Republican organization leaders indicate that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is still a heavy favorite for the 1960 presidential nomination.

Many of them admit an interest or curiosity about Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who won a spectacular victory in New York last November by bucking the national Democratic trend. But none of them appears to be in a hurry to start a Rockefeller-For-President bandwagon rolling.

These inferences could be drawn from talks this week with members of the Republican National Committee, which also includes most of the GOP state chairmen. The committee met here to begin planning for the 1960 campaign.

More than a few of the members feel a deep sense of obligation to Nixon. When they wanted political help in Washington, they felt he was more likely to be sympathetic than the White House. When they wanted a big name to come into their states in recent campaigns, they usually wanted Nixon and he usually responded. They have not forgotten.

These Republican leaders generally are also realists, who want to win. They recognize that much can happen between now and the GOP national convention in the summer of 1960. A drastic shift in public opinion polls—indicating that Rockefeller was a much stronger vote-getter than Nixon—would create a strong demand for the nomination of Rockefeller.

"But we'll nominate Nixon if the polls show they are about even," was the prediction of a national committeeman from a large industrial state.

The South does not have a strong voice in the GOP even though President Eisenhower carried four states of the confederacy in 1952 and five in 1956.

It was conceded, but considered an unlikely possibility, that either Nixon or Rockefeller could stub a political toe with fatal results before the 1960 convention.

Without extraordinary handicaps, any New York governor is a potential candilate for president by virtue of his job as chief executive in the state with the largest delegation at national conventions and with the largest bloc of electoral votes in presidential elections.

Republican organization leaders appear to have much curiosity about Rockefeller. They want to know what he stands for, whether he can make an impressive record as governor of New York and whether he is what they regard as a "real" Republican.

They think they can wait a while for answers to these questions. Meanwhile, they are more concerned about the reasons for the Republican defeats last November and about finding a formula to reverse the trend.

Parents Give Up Hopes Son Is Not Dead

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williamson ended a 24-hour search for their missing son Saturday and gave him up as lost in a dormitory fire at Mississippi State University.

The Columbus, Miss., couple had searched the campus since early Friday hoping to find Henry Allen Williamson, a 20-year-old freshman, alive.

They talked with his friends and teachers and checked his favorite hangouts time and time again before finally accepting the belief that Henry is dead.

Authorities said all students in the 500-room dormitory had evacuated the building early Friday but the Williamson youth was believed to have rushed back to his room to rescue a prized short wave radio set.

Newspapers, radio and television stations continued to broadcast appeals for any information on the youth's whereabouts but hope was growing dimmer as time passed.

Workmen knocked down a few remaining brick pillars early Saturday and continued their grim search through the tons of rubble. The search was called off late Friday because officials feared the pillars would fall.

Some 900 students were left without a college home by the blaze and many of them lost their personal belongings.

The university said it would take about three million dollars to replace the dormitory, one of the largest in the nation.

Flames Destroy Girls Dormitory

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — An early-morning fire destroyed a dormitory at Campbell College for Negroes Saturday. Thirty scantily-clad girls managed a quick evacuation and there were no injuries.

The school's kitchen was on the first floor of the three-story building and firemen said the blaze apparently started there about 1 a.m.

Glorida Robinson of Shreveport, La., and Louisa Jordan of Miami, Fla. awakend to find their room filled with smoke and they notified the other girls. Officials said the dormitory housed 60 coeds but half of them were gone for the weekend.

Practically all of the girls' personal belongings were lost in the blaze. Some coeds fled the building in pajamas or gowns and others had on less.

School Razed By Flames To Be Replaced

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Our Lady of the Angels school which burned Dec. 1 at a cost of 93 lives will be replaced with a new $750,000 completely fire-proofed structure, it was announced Saturday.

James Barry, retained as architect, said construction of the three story building will take about a year.

"We have been instructed by Msgr. Joseph F. Cussen, pastor of Our Lady of the Angels, to exceed the city codes in making the new school the safest possible," Barry said.

Barry said the new school will be of brick and reinforced concrete and that floors and four stairways all will be of concrete. Stairwell exit doors will be of aluminum.

Each of the two corridors on every floor will end at one of the stairwells, he said.

The new school will have 32 classrooms, a kindergarten section a lunchroom and a library, with a capacity of 1,600 pupils.

The Our Lady of the Angels fire caused the deaths of 90 children and 3 nuns and injured close to 100.

GOP 'Truth Task Force' In Operation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Saturday a GOP "truth task force" would answer all Democratic attacks on President Eisenhower's missile program and other projects.

The Illinois Republican told reporters that this approach had been cleared with the conference of all 34 GOP senators and already has gone into operation.

Democrats headed by Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) have the administration missile program under fire. Johnson's Preparedness and Space committees, on both of which Symington also sits, will start a searching missile inquiry next Thursday.

But the battle will go far beyond the missile program. It will center on the Eisenhower budget and Democratic proposals in housing and other fields which would crack the President's 77-billion dollar anti - inflation budget ceiling.

Dirksen made it clear that each majority charge on missiles and other issues will be answered. The Republicans used self-styled "truth squads" to counter Democratic charges in various political campaigns.

"We believe the whole story ought to be told," Dirksen said. "We want to give the facts without equivocation so the chips can fall where they will."

Sen. Francis Case (R-S. D.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, filled the first Dirksen "task force" assignment Friday. He gave no GOP answer to Symington's claim that by 1961 Russia will have better than a four - to - one lead over the United States in long-range military missiles.

Case told the Senate that the Truman administration caused an 18-month lag in development of such missiles by ordering 75 million dollars transferred from research and development in 1947. Case said Symington, who was Truman's air secretary in 1947, had nothing to do with the transfer.

Case added that America's "very great deterrent strength" does not depend on any one weapon.

Suspect In Bus Driver Stabbing Waives Hearing

LUCEDALE, Miss. (UPI) — Comer Gilmore, 48 of Defuniak Springs, Fla. waived a preliminary hearing Saturday and was bound over to a George Count grand jury for stabbing a bus driver on a night run from Mobile to Memphis.

Gilmore is charged with assault and battery with intent to kill driver J. L. Ketton, 47, of Mobile, early Thursday shortly after the bus passed through Lucedale.

He was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Gilmore's wife has requested that he be committed to Whitfield State Mental Hospital. Officers said papers in his pocket indicated he was en route to the veterans hospital in Memphis for a mental examination at the time of the attack.

Keeton, who was released from a hospital Saturday morning, said Gilmore suddenly attacked him with a pocket knife. Another passenger broke up a tussle between the two and Gilmore fled down the highway. He was arrested as he walked toward Mobile.

Car-Truck Crash On Baton Rouge Bridge Is Fatal

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A car-truck collision Saturday on the Mississippi River Bridge here killed one man and critically injured another, both in the auto.

Killed was James R. Stewart, 29, of Jackson. State Police said he was an Army medical paratrooper on leave.

Injured was Vernon Brown of Pineville.

Troopers said the auto hit the rear of the trailer-truck, careened into the bridge railing and overturned. Both men were thrown out.

Rites Scheduled Infant Who Died

OAK GROVE (Special) —Funeral services for Roger DeLano Kern, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy DeLano Kern of Houston, who died at a local clinic from strangulation due to pneumonia, will be held sometime Sunday in Carthage, Tex.

Local arrangements were under the direction of Kidder-Cox Funeral Home.

PLAN NEW MISSILE

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Air Force plans to proceed with work on a new air-launched ballistic missile with a range of more than 1,000 miles, according to a government official. Bids from several companies to produce the new weapon already are being considered, he added.

LEADERS EXPECT SUCCESS

Drive For Hawaii Statehood Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A drive to confer statehood on Hawaii gets underway in Congress Monday with its backers highly confident of success.

Exactly three weeks ago Alaska became the 49th state. Hawaii would be the 50th. It is being given a better than even chance.

Public hearings on the statehood bill will start before the House Interior Committee. Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton has been called as the first witness and will throw the administration's support behind it.

Statehood forces scored their first victory Friday when the committee shouted approval of a proposal by Rep. Leo W. O'Brien (D-N. Y.) that the full committee conduct the hearings rather than rely on a subcommittee.

O'Brien, who spearheaded the successful drive for House approval of Alaskan statehood, will preside. He said that by-passing time - consuming subcommittee hearings had cleared the way for committee approval of the measure by mid - February.

The House three times has approved Hawaiian statehood. The vote was 196 to 133 in 1947, 262 to 110 in 1950, and 274 to 138 in 1953. The first two measures died in the Senate. The third died in the House after the Senate coupled it with Alaskan statehood.

Because of its population, which at last report exceeded 560,000, Hawaii would be entitled to two House members, as well as two senators. Alaska got only one House member. More than one-third of Hawaii's people are of Japanese extraction. Only one-fourth are Caucasians.

Hawaii consists of eight major islands and many smaller ones. Lying 2,200 miles southwest of California, it is a territory of sugar, pineapples and tourists.

AMOMG REPUBLICAN LEADERS

Nixon Still Heavy Nominee Favorite

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Soundings among Republican organization leaders indicate that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is still a heavy favorite for the 1960 presidential nomination.

Many of them admit an interest or curiosity about Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who won a spectacular victory in New York last November by bucking the national Democratic trend. But none of them appears to be in a hurry to start a Rockefeller-For-President bandwagon rolling.

These inferences could be drawn from talks this week with members of the Republican National Committee, which also includes most of the GOP state chairmen. The committee met here to begin planning for the 1960 campaign.

More than a few of the members feel a deep sense of obligation to Nixon. When they wanted political help in Washington, they felt he was more likely to be sympathetic than the White House. When they wanted a big name to come into their states in recent campaigns, they usually wanted Nixon and he usually responded. They have not forgotten.

These Republican leaders generally are also realists, who want to win. They recognize that much can happen between now and the GOP national convention in the summer of 1960. A drastic shift in public opinion polls—indicating that Rockefeller was a much stronger vote-getter than Nixon—would create a strong demand for the nomination of Rockefeller.

"But we'll nominate Nixon if the polls show they are about even," was the prediction of a national committeeman from a large industrial state.

The South does not have a strong voice in the GOP even though President Eisenhower carried four states of the confederacy in 1952 and five in 1956.

It was conceded, but considered an unlikely possibility, that either Nixon or Rockefeller could stub a political toe with fatal results before the 1960 convention.

Without extraordinary handicaps, any New York governor is a potential candilate for president by virtue of his job as chief executive in the state with the largest delegation at national conventions and with the largest bloc of electoral votes in presidential elections.

Republican organization leaders appear to have much curiosity about Rockefeller. They want to know what he stands for, whether he can make an impressive record as governor of New York and whether he is what they regard as a "real" Republican.

They think they can wait a while for answers to these questions. Meanwhile, they are more concerned about the reasons for the Republican defeats last November and about finding a formula to reverse the trend.

Parents Give Up Hopes Son Is Not Dead

STARKVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williamson ended a 24-hour search for their missing son Saturday and gave him up as lost in a dormitory fire at Mississippi State University.

The Columbus, Miss., couple had searched the campus since early Friday hoping to find Henry Allen Williamson, a 20-year-old freshman, alive.

They talked with his friends and teachers and checked his favorite hangouts time and time again before finally accepting the belief that Henry is dead.

Authorities said all students in the 500-room dormitory had evacuated the building early Friday but the Williamson youth was believed to have rushed back to his room to rescue a prized short wave radio set.

Newspapers, radio and television stations continued to broadcast appeals for any information on the youth's whereabouts but hope was growing dimmer as time passed.

Workmen knocked down a few remaining brick pillars early Saturday and continued their grim search through the tons of rubble. The search was called off late Friday because officials feared the pillars would fall.

Some 900 students were left without a college home by the blaze and many of them lost their personal belongings.

The university said it would take about three million dollars to replace the dormitory, one of the largest in the nation.

Flames Destroy Girls Dormitory

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — An early-morning fire destroyed a dormitory at Campbell College for Negroes Saturday. Thirty scantily-clad girls managed a quick evacuation and there were no injuries.

The school's kitchen was on the first floor of the three-story building and firemen said the blaze apparently started there about 1 a.m.

Glorida Robinson of Shreveport, La., and Louisa Jordan of Miami, Fla. awakend to find their room filled with smoke and they notified the other girls. Officials said the dormitory housed 60 coeds but half of them were gone for the weekend.

Practically all of the girls' personal belongings were lost in the blaze. Some coeds fled the building in pajamas or gowns and others had on less.

DAVIS BINGHAM

D. B. Bingham Appointed To NE Faculty

Davis Blair Bingham of Tennessee has been appointed to the fine arts faculty of Northeast State, it was announced yesterday by Fine Arts Dean Harry M. Lemert. He replaces Lee W. Fiser, who resigned recently to accept another teaching post.

Bingham will teach voice and direct the college choral groups.

He holds the bachelor of music degree from the University of Chattanooga, the master of sacred music degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and presently is pursuing work toward the doctorate at George Peabody College. He has studied voice under James Wood, Emmy Land Wolff, Doris Doe and Louis Nicholas.

REPERTORY

Bingham has performed principal, roles in a wide repertory of opera in Chattanooga, Louisville and Nashville and has appeared as soloist with the Louisville Symphony and in many oratories and cantatas throughout the mid-south.

During the Korean War Bingham saw service with the U. S. Armed Forces in the Far East. In this period he organized and directed the famous 8th Army Choir which won for him citations from Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the 8th Army. He also has been the recipient of the Tennessee Federated Music Clubs award in voice and the Chattanooga Music Clubs scholarship. His work has included extensive experiences in directing choral groups, both sacred and secular.

Bingham is married to the former Gloria Ann Price of Dalton, Ga. and the father of two children. Mrs. Bingham also is a trained musician, having studied piano with Harold Cadek of the University of Chattanooga.

Union Officials Named In Suit At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (AP) —L. A. Sumrall claims he paid three union officials $4,901 to avoid prosecution for a theft of union funds, then was indicted.

In a state district court suit filed Friday, Sumrall said he hadn't stolen anything and he wanted his money back.

He named Goodrich K. Fritz Jr., Jackson, Miss., union official, and Leo F. Interarity and J. W. White, officials of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers Union, Local 728.

Sumrall was indicted last fall for theft by the East Baton Rouge Parish Grand jury. He had been ousted as union business agent after an audit revealed a $4,000 shortage.

Sumrall said Fritz told him if he returned the $3,900 and $966 he was accused of taking, there would be no prosecution or publicity in the case.

The former union official said he turned over the cash to Innerarity and White in two payments last August, despite the fact he was innocent.

Airman To Get Alabama Medal Fo Heroic Act

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI)—A young airman, on a "busman's holiday," will receive the Alabama commendation medal for saving the life of an Air National Guard pilot at Birmingham.

Airman second class Michael T. Aldridge of Tyndall is being cited for heroism in going to the aid of Col. John Montgomery, who crash-landed in an F-84F early in December at Birmingham Municipal Airport.

On leave from Tyndall for a visit at his home in Birmingham, Aldridge and his wife were watching aircraft land at the field.

Aldridge noted a plane acting as though it were in trouble. The plane had experienced a flame-out while in the landing pattern and crash-landed short of the runway, rolled across a road, through a fence and stopped near the runway.

Aldridge raced to the plane and with the aid of another volunteer, removed the injured pilot from the aircraft.

The other volunteer, M. W. Gates of Birmingham, also will receive the commendation medal.

Burial will follow in Clark Memorial burial park under the direction of Sims and Gundy Funeral Home of Rayville.

Surviving are the widow, Pauline B. Jackson, and two sons: William M., Jr., Monroe, and M. Britton, Austin, Texas.

Florida Demo Says Budget Red Ink Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George A. Smathers Saturday accused the Eisenhower administration of even relying on "bad weather'" in its hopes for a "precariously balanced" budget.

The Florida Democrat, a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said that "in fact, the proposed budget will require the worst sort of weather possible so that crops will fall far below normal and the government will thus be able to cut back its farm surplus payments."

Also Smathers said in a telecast (for Florida stations), "the administration counts on Congress to pass tax increases in order to balance the budget" but "it's doubtful whether Congress will go along."

Smathers also doubted that the budget could be kept out of the red.

"Two years ago the President missed his estimate by 13 1-2 billion dollars," he said. "This year we will be fortunate if we can have a balanced budget."

Another Democrat, Sen. Philip A. Hart (Mich.)) said in a speech at Bangor, Maine, that efforts to reach the moon and probe outer space are important but "It is just as necessary that we meet the demands for housing and education, provide equality of opportunity for Americans here at home, and mobilize our drive to improve public health for all peoples."

Smathers said the "fight against inflation is the most important we have except for our struggle to maintain our military posture.'" He added:

Money Askers Abound

One of the most popular forms of campaigns in the United States is soliciting funds for the treatment of various kinds of diseases.

The Savannah, Ga., Morning News made a survey covering organizations of this kind and came up with some surprising information. Among its findings were:

There are 19 organizations passing the hat for the blind; seven for disabled veterans; six for the crippled, four for mental illness; five for cancer; two each for muscular dystrophy, polio, leprosy, brain injury and alcoholism; one each for heart disease, retarded children, cerebral palsy, deafness, tuberculosis, multiple sclerosis, arthritis, myasthenia gravis, nephrosis, facial disfigurements, tropical diseases, diabetes, allergic diseases, hemophilia and paraplegia.

These organizations include only those seeking money for study and treatment of diseases. The number carrying on campaigns for other purposes is also extremely large.

A Chamber of Commerce official spoke with the voice of many when he said:

"We are punch-drunk trying to keep up with these appeals."

Not all of the groups blanket the nation nor do they all conduct house-to-house campaigns. Those that do have tried to arrange their time so that the calendar will be carved up into non-overlapping segments. It is easy to see, however, that with some 50 nation-wide campaigns competing with thousands of lesser causes and local appeals the calendar is cluttered all along the line, with a good many money-drives running simultaneously.

New causes are constantly springing up but none of the old groups ever die. The organizations never quit, even if the causes run out. They simply enlarge their scope and turn to some new endeavor.

The idea that the need for a certain organization, especially one that is nationwide in scope and carried on with a large personnel, is about to run out is enough to cause a panic among the workers.

This happened recently when the Salk vacine proved so effective against polio that there were indications that the National Foundation for Polio might no longer be needed or that the need might be greatly reduced. The organization extended its activities to cover arthritis and birth injuries and changed the name so that it could cover any kind of work. The name was changed to the National Foundation, leaving off the limiting phrase "for polio."

More money is said to be raised annually for muscular dystrophy than for mental ailments, although the number of dystrophy patients was set at 200,000 for 9,000,000 mental patients.

Today the tuberculosis associations raise and spend more money than ever before, although the tuberculosis mortality rate has been cut from 200 to 8 per 100,000. Whether tuberculosis is a priority problem for which $26 million a year should be collected is an academic question so long as the Christmas seal sale remains a gold mine.

It is a well known fact that many of the organizations have built up support and sympathy through many years of consistent urging and that many of the contributors continue to give from force of habit without considering whether the original need still exists.

Showing how the independent campaign organizations shun consolidated drives or any curtailment on their individual activities is the battle cry issued in May 1957 by Dr. Robert W. Wilkins of the Heart Association. He said: "Divided we stand, united we fall."

It is certain that uniting the many campaigns would mean that the elaborate setups of some of the organizations would fall and that far less of the money would go to personnel and overhead. This would mean greatly increased funds for the causes themselves but the causes are secondary in many of these organizations as far as the personnel is concerned.

Some of the groups spend lavishly on organization and personnel but are niggardly with the funds when they are applied to the causes in question.

It must be said for some of these organizations that they have been of tremendous value and that their work may have been the means of wiping out their own usefulness. In other words, some of them have been so successful that they have worked themselves out of jobs. Reduction in polio and tuberculosis and a number of other diseases may be attributed largely to the organizations which obtained funds to fight those ailments.

The disturbing factor is that so many of these organizations have sprung up that the average person has no way of knowing which is worthy or which will use the money in a way to do the most good.

As long ago as the mid-1940's the National Health Council, a coordinating committee controlled by the various health agencies, sponsored a survey by its members and its report called the existing fund-raising situation "preposterous."

In the Monroe area, there seems to be a drive going on all the time. In fact, during many months there are as many as four simultaneously. It is quite obvious residents of the area are tired of such a situation.

A few years ago because there were so many different drives, the people here decided to do something about it. They organized the United Givers, with the slogan "Give Once For All." That was an excellent idea, but a few of the various organizations did not see fit to participate, some because of national policy. As a result, there are still too many drives.

There can be no doubt but what some way must be found for limiting the number of drives. It would seem that if the various organizations are really sincere, their officials would not hesitate to join in the United Givers campaign. This would solve many problems now faced by residents of this area.

It would seem only reasonable that those health organizations which have not become a part of United Givers should do so irrespective of national policy. As long as these organizations meet their quotas and the needs of the community, the local boards should have sufficient autonomy to decide for themselves how their funds should be raised.

"Politicians who are 100 per cent honest are hard to find," says a columnist. Of course. Whether we like to admit it or not, politicians are people.

Some half a century ago and even later people who condemned the smoking of cigarettes, calling them "coffin nail," evidently were psychic.

In one respect, at least, the love of money is most certainly not the root of all evil. It is a good thing that the love the preponderant majority of people have for money is strong enough to overcome their distaste for work.

Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) said in an address to college graduates, "Politics needs new blood." He might well have added that it also needs new gray matter.

It is estimated that the American standard of living would be 34 per cent lower if it had been acquired on a strictly cash basis.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Man's Right To Protest Is Declared Fundamental

One sometimes gets more light on events in what is known as fan mail than anywhere else. Sometimes, I refer to such letters in this column. That which I received from Bert A. Doering of St. Louis is one of several on the same subject and in the same tone. I take two paragraphs from Doering's letter as particularly pertinent:

"You spoke about Mr. Mikoyan being confronted by a picket line in this country composed of alien refugees, including Hungarians, Bulgarians, Poles, Czechs and other foreigners. You said these refugees marched in protest against Mikoyan, and were duly dispersed by the police, although picket lines are supposed to be respected. Your perverted views about respecting such picket lines are extremely obnoxious. "These damned alien refugees who should be extremely grateful for being afforded asylum in this country now presume to exercise their will in this country by forming picket lines in protest against the visit to this country by a foreign dignitary who is here with the full approval of our government. These uncouth alien refugees should be taught how to behave themselves in this country, or sent back from whence they came."

Those "damned aliens" are refugees who have been given asylum in this country because in their own they fought for those principles of life and conduct for which we stand in the United States. Because they believed in our way of life, many such persons in the satellite countries have been shipped to Siberia or were murdered. A very few fortunate ones found their way to the United States.

Here they are suddenly confronted with the butcher of Budapest, one of the men who participated in the genocide of Hungary. They find that preparations are made to wine and dine this man, that he is received by bankers and ammufacturers as a friend, and no voice is raised protesting his presence in our midst. So they organize to protest and to tell their story — a story of murder and rapine, a story of genocide, a story of horrors.

Doering says further:

'It is quite possible that the rude and riotous demonstrations of these uncouth refugees was inspired by the vituperative language of Government spokesmen in their references to Government officials of Soviet Russia. These Government spokesmen are just as uncouth and ill-mannered as these alien refugees who want to take over the country after they get here. And you approve this conduct!"

Yes, I do approve of the right to protest and only regret that at the moment I was unable to go on the picket line against Mikoyan who came here to do this country only harm. The right to protest is fundamental in the American way of life. It emanates from the right to petition. This is not a police state in which the citizens must be silent while the officials act for them. Nor need we fear to speak our minds on political and social questions. Therein lies the strength of our nation.

Undoubtedly some Americans helped to cook up this Hollywood farce of bringing Anastas Mikoyan to this country on a publicity man's Odyssey through our land. Harry Truman, with characteristic down-to-earth wisdom, speaks of them:

"I hope that the recent crop of diplomatic tourists does not get us into more complications at a time when the free world is trying to find how to deal with the Communist world."

Neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave Mikoyan an inch because apparently he would not budge an inch. He used television, radio and every device of communications to influence public opinion against the stated views of the government of the United States, to separate the people from their government.

According to Doering that was all right because Mikoyan was a guest of the United States. Who invited him? Let a committee of Congress discover who invited him. Mikoyan, himself, said on "Meet the Press," in reply to a question, that he came here to visit the Russian ambassador. The President has not admitted that he invited Mikoyan to this country and the President did not give him a formal reception. Guests of the government of the United States usually stay at Blair House is Washington. Such a courtesy was not extended to Mikoyan. The secreary of state does not admit to inviting him. Nobody does.

Jets May Limit Branch Offices

How might the jet age remake the industrial and commercial face of our nation, what might it mean to employes, businessmen, housewives — millions of adult Americans who have never even flown in a plane?

You've heard plenty of glittering generalities about the impact of jet planes on our civilization. But in practical terms, what might this revolution in aviation mean to you and me?

It well may mean the end, perhaps a reversal, of the trend toward the opening of branch offices by major corporations—thus mean that countless numbers of white collar workers who otherwise would be uprooted by their organizations in coming years and be transferred far from home will be able to stay where they are.

"When a corporation can send crack salesmen or top executives from New York to San Francisco in less than five hours, a major reason to staff expensive branch offices all over the country is eliminated. Because of the coming of jet travel, many companies are already shelving plans to open branch offices. More will do so."

It well may simultaneously speed the decentralization of American industry and factories, though — spur the location of new plants in areas that until now have been considered too remote to be appropriate.

"The new rapidity of transportation and the certain tremendous expansion of cargo traffic on airlines means that no area is out of the way now. Transportation difficulties will not be the big factor in location decisions that they have been through this century."

It will make commuting between cities hundreds of miles apart a practical thing, even for middle-income families.

"With Miami only 2¼ hours away from New York City, for instance, this report can become a suburb of northern cities for thousands of businessmen. Getting to Miami by plane for a weekend can be a lot easier than getting by car to a country home only 50 miles away. And the same situation will apply to other cities and resorts all over the country."

It will force revolutionary progress in the distribution of goods of light weight or small bulk or high cost — and by so doing, it could make the housewife's shopping chores spectacularly easier.

"An ideal situation would be one in which a merchant kept a sample in every size and color of, say, a dress in stock but didn't tie up huge amounts of money in ware-housing each size and color. When customers asked for specific sizes and colors, the merchants could order them, get the goods to the customers overnight. Admittedly, this is a merchant's ideal, but there's no doubt that the new speeds of travel will dramatically alter distribution methods and warehousing techniques."

It will compel an upheaval in today's structure of airports, for the economics of the jets and their terminals mean that they cannot be brought into every city which now has an airport for piston planes.

"What is likely is the concentration of pure jet traffic in relatively few points in each state — with passengers being brought to the jetport by helicopter, conventional aircraft or highspeed freeways."

And the jet age surely will vastly expand the world markets of American companies, for no nation will be more than a few hours away by plane. "It could double U.S. markets in a few years. . . "

Airline history was made last month when National Airline became the first domestic airliner to start commercial jet passenger service in the United States — a truly sensational beat over its giants competitors.

Thus, when Walter Sternberg, senior vice president of National, flew in from the company's Miami headquarters this week (135 minutes by jet), I called on him to ask him for practical hints about the future. The above are some of his more provacative forecasts.

"And we haven't even begun to think," Sternberg emphasized again and again. "Every concept of time, distance, distribution and transportation is being made obsolete. Think what it means to have no spot on earth more than 24 hours away from an airport. Think what could develop."

Placement Law Gains In Favor

The fresh blows struck at massive resistance against public school integration in the state of Virginia by both state and federal courts, have heightened the interest of all interested groups in both North and South — moderates, segregationists and integrationists, alike, though for different reasons, in the recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in the Alabama pupil placement law, which the court upheld.

Moderates hope more and more that this decision is the fresh light they have predicted the Supreme Court would in time throw on its previous rulings. Segregationists have said that Southern resistance forced the court to act, while integrationists in North and South are inclined to be distrustful of the whole business.

The rulings of lower courts this week leave little hope for school closings and private tuition, which Virginia has described as massive resistance, but the Alabama case may supply a new viewpoint.

What has happened in brief is that the high court, in the case of the Alabama Pupil Placement Act, which was previously approved by a three judge lower federal court, has held that a colored pupil seeking transfer to an all white school can reasonably be rejected for failure to meet the standard admission criteria upon which admissions to that school are based. In case of such rejection the pupil must prove under the usual rules of evidence that he is being subjected to racial discrimination.

SEEK SIMILAR LAW

At least five other Southern states are reported to be moving toward legislative enactment of similar laws. It must be noted that every case which comes to the federal courts under a placement law will be considered on its merits, though Alabama seems to have made headway toward a solution of its difficulties. In that case, four colored children in Birmingham, who sought transfer to a white school nearer their own homes were held to have offered no evidence that racial discrimination motivated the decision rather than the criteria set up by the pupil placement law.

Among the criteria set forth in the Alabma law are the pupil's health, home environment, personal, and moral standards, suitability and adequacy; and whether his admission will mean threats, friction, disorder, breaches of the peace, ill will and economic retaliation. Those who have studied the high court's finding believe this list covers about every logical cause of exclusion.

The decision supports what laymen who follow the court carefully realize, that no decision is ever so sweeping in its terms that it will not be modified and rationalized by subsequent decisions. That does not mean that pupil placement laws may be used as a means of continuing school segregation by statute, but it does indicate in the opinion of legal experts that the Supreme Court has given much consideration to all phases of the integration situation since its original ruling.

STATE'S RIGHTS CONSIDERED

That ruling fundamentally said that pupils could not be denied the right to attend schools of their choice. But when a state acts to set up new criteria, the high court is obligated to consider the right of a state to control its own schools, within the revised meaning given that constitutional authority by the court.

Discussion of the court's action by interested parties here has raised the following probabilities (1) that it provides a way in which states find themselves in the greatest difficulty over integration can keep the situation in hand, and by which many all white schools can constitutionally be preserved (2) that only where they are adopted as a pattern to preserve segregation, and this can be proved by evidence in court, will the court be inclined to override placement laws (3) that it will, in general lengthen the period which must elapse before colored children in states opposing integration cannot be excluded on some of the criteria stated in the Alabama law.

The last conclusion of course, depends in considerable measure upon the U. S. Supreme Court which has shown some twisting and turning in its interpretation of the Constitution.

The court action however, may mark the decline of the bitterness which has grown out of past integration decisions.

Views Of Our Readers

ARKANSAS SITUATION

Emerson, Ark.

The 86th Congress is now in session. What they will do about the Civil Rights situation, especially in the South, no one knows. Neither do we know what they will do about the school problems in the South that confront us today. But we do know that all public schools in Little Rock remain closed.

I, for one, think that we should be proud that we have a governor like Orval Faubus. We highly commend the stand that he has taken in regard to integration in our schools, and I think the entire South should commend him for standing up for our principles, and our traditions that the state of Arkansas and the South have enjoyed all these years.

An Arkansas legislature declared Friday that the racial trouble that arose in the Little Rock schools was fostered by the Communist party. I do not think this is entirely so. I believe we should place a large portion of this trouble to our present administration which was largely agitated by some of the people close to the head of our Federal Government.

I think the people of the South were glad when the 86th Congress seated Dr. Dale Alford as Congressman. We feel like he will be a great help to our state, and will work hand in hand with Governor Faubus, for he is 100 per cent in favor of segregation.

I read an editorial in the Shreveport Times some time ago, which said in part, "When President Eisenhower deplored the closing of schools in the integration crisis, he looked Southward, and addressed his message of sorrow to Virginia and Arkansas.

The article went farther when it said that the President should have looked in a mirror. The man as responsible as any one for the closing of schools in the U. S. A. in this September 1958, is the President who appointed a California politician, Earl Warren, as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. That President, of course, is Dwight D. Eisenhower.

We remember very well that the American voters did not see fit to elect Earl Warren in the Vice Presidency with Thomas E. Dewey, his running mate. Overriding the vote of the judgement of the people in 1948, President Eisenhower for political reasons, named Warren to head the Judiciary, a foremost important post, for which he had no adequate experience. Again before we direct our blame in regard to the Little Rock situation, let us say once more, let Dwight D. Eisenhower look in the mirror.

Legislators End School Lunch Probe

CHALMETTE, La. (UPI) — A special legislative committee has wound up its investigation of the school lunch program in St. Bernard parish after learning that the parish purchases food without asking for bids.

School Supt. Joseph Davis Jr., told the committee at a final session Friday that the purchase of food for the program was not open to bid "because there is so little variation in the prices that no possibility of substantial savings would be indicated."

Asked why the parish hiked the price of pay lunches from 15 to 20 cents in elementary schools and from 20 to 25 cents at Chalmette High, Davis answered it was done in anticipation of a cut in state funds for the program.

Davis told the committee, headed by Sen. B. B. Rayburn, that the school board tells the principals of the 10 public schools in the parish whom to buy from.

He said that although no bids were taken, his office keeps tabs on the market prices by checking with other sellers. He maintained that the prices paid are the same as they would be if the foodstuffs were purchased from the lowest bidder.

"We telephone around to other suppliers from whom we aren't purchasing," he said, "and if the prices are out of line and our supplier refuses to correct them, we take it up with the wholesalers.

He said that a total of 56,228 free meals were served in the parish's schools during the last school year.

Argument Over Marks In School Has Tragic End

JACKSON (UPI)—A 16-year-old boy shot and killed his mother Saturday in an argument over his marks in school.

Mrs. Robert Hartwell Bowling was killed just after lunch in her home.

Witnesses said her husband, an insurance man, was standing in the front yard talking to neighbors when a younger son ran out of the house screaming that his brother had "gone crazy and killed mother."

Doering says further:

'It is quite possible that the rude and riotous demonstrations of these uncouth refugees was inspired by the vituperative language of Government spokesmen in their references to Government officials of Soviet Russia. These Government spokesmen are just as uncouth and ill-mannered as these alien refugees who want to take over the country after they get here. And you approve this conduct!"

Yes, I do approve of the right to protest and only regret that at the moment I was unable to go on the picket line against Mikoyan who came here to do this country only harm. The right to protest is fundamental in the American way of life. It emanates from the right to petition. This is not a police state in which the citizens must be silent while the officials act for them. Nor need we fear to speak our minds on political and social questions. Therein lies the strength of our nation.

Undoubtedly some Americans helped to cook up this Hollywood farce of bringing Anastas Mikoyan to this country on a publicity man's Odyssey through our land. Harry Truman, with characteristic down-to-earth wisdom, speaks of them:

"I hope that the recent crop of diplomatic tourists does not get us into more complications at a time when the free world is trying to find how to deal with the Communist world."

Neither President Eisenhower nor Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave Mikoyan an inch because apparently he would not budge an inch. He used television, radio and every device of communications to influence public opinion against the stated views of the government of the United States, to separate the people from their government.

According to Doering that was all right because Mikoyan was a guest of the United States. Who invited him? Let a committee of Congress discover who invited him. Mikoyan, himself, said on "Meet the Press," in reply to a question, that he came here to visit the Russian ambassador. The President has not admitted that he invited Mikoyan to this country and the President did not give him a formal reception. Guests of the government of the United States usually stay at Blair House is Washington. Such a courtesy was not extended to Mikoyan. The secreary of state does not admit to inviting him. Nobody does.

Jets May Limit Branch Offices

How might the jet age remake the industrial and commercial face of our nation, what might it mean to employes, businessmen, housewives — millions of adult Americans who have never even flown in a plane?

You've heard plenty of glittering generalities about the impact of jet planes on our civilization. But in practical terms, what might this revolution in aviation mean to you and me?

It well may mean the end, perhaps a reversal, of the trend toward the opening of branch offices by major corporations—thus mean that countless numbers of white collar workers who otherwise would be uprooted by their organizations in coming years and be transferred far from home will be able to stay where they are.

"When a corporation can send crack salesmen or top executives from New York to San Francisco in less than five hours, a major reason to staff expensive branch offices all over the country is eliminated. Because of the coming of jet travel, many companies are already shelving plans to open branch offices. More will do so."

It well may simultaneously speed the decentralization of American industry and factories, though — spur the location of new plants in areas that until now have been considered too remote to be appropriate.

"The new rapidity of transportation and the certain tremendous expansion of cargo traffic on airlines means that no area is out of the way now. Transportation difficulties will not be the big factor in location decisions that they have been through this century."

It will make commuting between cities hundreds of miles apart a practical thing, even for middle-income families.

"With Miami only 2¼ hours away from New York City, for instance, this report can become a suburb of northern cities for thousands of businessmen. Getting to Miami by plane for a weekend can be a lot easier than getting by car to a country home only 50 miles away. And the same situation will apply to other cities and resorts all over the country."

It will force revolutionary progress in the distribution of goods of light weight or small bulk or high cost — and by so doing, it could make the housewife's shopping chores spectacularly easier.

"An ideal situation would be one in which a merchant kept a sample in every size and color of, say, a dress in stock but didn't tie up huge amounts of money in ware-housing each size and color. When customers asked for specific sizes and colors, the merchants could order them, get the goods to the customers overnight. Admittedly, this is a merchant's ideal, but there's no doubt that the new speeds of travel will dramatically alter distribution methods and warehousing techniques."

It will compel an upheaval in today's structure of airports, for the economics of the jets and their terminals mean that they cannot be brought into every city which now has an airport for piston planes.

"What is likely is the concentration of pure jet traffic in relatively few points in each state — with passengers being brought to the jetport by helicopter, conventional aircraft or highspeed freeways."

And the jet age surely will vastly expand the world markets of American companies, for no nation will be more than a few hours away by plane. "It could double U.S. markets in a few years. . ."

Airline history was made last month when National Airline became the first domestic airliner to start commercial jet passenger service in the United States — a truly sensational beat over its giants competitors.

Thus, when Walter Sternberg, senior vice president of National, flew in from the company's Miami headquarters this week (135 minutes by jet), I called on him to ask him for practical hints about the future. The above are some of his more provacative forecasts.

"And we haven't even begun to think," Sternberg emphasized again and again. "Every concept of time, distance, distribution and transportation is being made obsolete. Think what it means to have no spot on earth more than 24 hours away from an airport. Think what could develop."

Placement Law Gains In Favor

The fresh blows struck at massive resistance against public school integration in the state of Virginia by both state and federal courts, have heightened the interest of all interested groups in both North and South — moderates, segregationists and integrationists, alike, though for different reasons, in the recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in the Alabama pupil placement law, which the court upheld.

Moderates hope more and more that this decision is the fresh light they have predicted the Supreme Court would in time throw on its previous rulings. Segregationists have said that Southern resistance forced the court to act, while integrationists in North and South are inclined to be distrustful of the whole business.

The rulings of lower courts this week leave little hope for school closings and private tuition, which Virginia has described as massive resistance, but the Alabama case may supply a new viewpoint.

What has happened in brief is that the high court, in the case of the Alabama Pupil Placement Act, which was previously approved by a three judge lower federal court, has held that a colored pupil seeking transfer to an all white school can reasonably be rejected for failure to meet the standard admission criteria upon which admissions to that school are based. In case of such rejection the pupil must prove under the usual rules of evidence that he is being subjected to racial discrimination.

SEEK SIMILAR LAW

At least five other Southern states are reported to be moving toward legislative enactment of similar laws. It must be noted that every case which comes to the federal courts under a placement law will be considered on its merits, though Alabama seems to have made headway toward a solution of its difficulties. In that case, four colored children in Birmingham, who sought transfer to a white school nearer their own homes were held to have offered no evidence that racial discrimination motivated the decision rather than the criteria set up by the pupil placement law.

Among the criteria set forth in the Alabma law are the pupil's health, home environment, personal, and moral standards, suitability and adequacy; and whether his admission will mean threats, friction, disorder, breaches of the peace, ill will and economic retaliation. Those who have studied the high court's finding believe this list covers about every logical cause of exclusion.

The decision supports what laymen who follow the court carefully realize, that no decision is ever so sweeping in its terms that it will not be modified and rationalized by subsequent decisions. That does not mean that pupil placement laws may be used as a means of continuing school segregation by statute, but it does indicate in the opinion of legal experts that the Supreme Court has given much consideration to all phases of the integration situation since its original ruling.

STATE'S RIGHTS CONSIDERED

That ruling fundamentally said that pupils could not be denied the right to attend schools of their choice. But when a state acts to set up new criteria, the high court is obligated to consider the right of a state to control its own schools, within the revised meaning given that constitutional authority by the court.

Discussion of the court's action by interested parties here has raised the following probabilities (1) that it provides a way in which states find themselves in the greatest difficulty over integration can keep the situation in hand, and by which many all white schools can constitutionally be preserved (2) that only where they are adopted as a pattern to preserve segregation, and this can be proved by evidence in court, will the court be inclined to override placement laws (3) that it will, in general lengthen the period which must elapse before colored children in states opposing integration cannot be excluded on some of the criteria stated in the Alabama law.

The last conclusion of course, depends in considerable measure upon the U. S. Supreme Court which has shown some twisting and turning in its interpretation of the Constitution.

The court action however, may mark the decline of the bitterness which has grown out of past integration decisions.

Views Of Our Readers

Emerson, Ark.

The 86th Congress is now in session. What they will do about the Civil Rights situation, especially in the South, no one knows. Neither do we know what they will do about the school problems in the South that confront us today. But we do know that all public schools in Little Rock remain closed.

I, for one, think that we should be proud that we have a governor like Orval Faubus. We highly commend the stand that he has taken in regard to integration in our schools, and I think the entire South should commend him for standing up for our principles, and our traditions that the state of Arkansas and the South have enjoyed all these years.

An Arkansas legislature declared Friday that the racial trouble that arose in the Little Rock schools was fostered by the Communist party. I do not think this is entirely so. I believe we should place a large portion of this trouble to our present administration which was largely agitated by some of the people close to the head of our Federal Government.

I think the people of the South were glad when the 86th Congress seated Dr. Dale Alford as Congressman. We feel like he will be a great help to our state, and will work hand in hand with Governor Faubus, for he is 100 per cent in favor of segregation.

I read an editorial in the Shreveport Times some time ago, which said in part, "When President Eisenhower deplored the closing of schools in the integration crisis, he looked Southward, and addressed his message of sorrow to Virginia and Arkansas.

The article went farther when it said that the President should have looked in a mirror. The man as responsible as any one for the closing of schools in the U. S. A. in this September 1958, is the President who appointed a California politician, Earl Warren, as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. That President, of course, is Dwight D. Eisenhower.

We remember very well that the American voters did not see fit to elect Earl Warren in the Vice Presidency with Thomas E. Dewey, his running mate. Overriding the vote of the judgement of the people in 1948, President Eisenhower for political reasons, named Warren to head the Judiciary, a foremost important post, for which he had no adequate experience. Again before we direct our blame in regard to the Little Rock situation, let us say once more, let Dwight D. Eisenhower look in the mirror.

Legislators End School Lunch Probe

CHALMETTE, La. (UPI) — A special legislative committee has wound up its investigation of the school lunch program in St. Bernard parish after learning that the parish purchases food without asking for bids.

School Supt. Joseph Davis Jr., told the committee at a final session Friday that the purchase of food for the program was not open to bid "because there is so little variation in the prices that no possibility of substantial savings would be indicated."

Asked why the parish hiked the price of pay lunches from 15 to 20 cents in elementary schools and from 20 to 25 cents at Chalmette High, Davis answered it was done in anticipation of a cut in state funds for the program.

Davis told the committee, headed by Sen. B. B. Rayburn, that the school board tells the principals of the 10 public schools in the parish whom to buy from.

He said that although no bids were taken, his office keeps tabs on the market prices by checking with other sellers. He maintained that the prices paid are the same as they would be if the foodstuffs were purchased from the lowest bidder.

"We telephone around to other suppliers from whom we aren't purchasing," he said, "and if the prices are out of line and our supplier refuses to correct them, we take it up with the wholesalers.

He said that a total of 56,228 free meals were served in the parish's schools during the last school year.

Argument Over Marks In School Has Tragic End

JACKSON (UPI)—A 16-year-old boy shot and killed his mother Saturday in an argument over his marks in school.

Mrs. Robert Hartwell Bowling was killed just after lunch in her home.

Witnesses said her husband, an insurance man, was standing in the front yard talking to neighbors when a younger son ran out of the house screaming that his brother had "gone crazy and killed mother."

Murder 'Victim' Turns Up Alive

Phoenix, Ariz. He wore a T-shirt which he did not recognize, slacks which were his own, and had only 67 cents and a package of cigarets.

In Vacaville, prison officials said Olson hoped to get a plane trip to Florida and lead officers on a cross-continent "wild goose chase." He said he implicated Leech "more or less going along with the act."

California authorities said Olson had read of the Harrison case and knew some of the details, and that Florida officers who questioned him "gave him enough leads so he could make up a believable story." They said Olson and Leech had been hitchhiking in the South about the time Harrison disappeared.

Authorities here believed that Harrison's amnesia might have been the result of a robbery-beating the night he disappeared.

Harrison said he was struck on the head by a man who had forced his way into his station wagon with a gun.

When Harrison's station wagon was found several days later there were bloodstains inside.

Harrison's wife, visiting her mother in Miami, was notified of the finding of her husband. She sent him his plane fare.

Officers said Harrison had no wallet or money, but a picture transmitted from Phoenix by United Press International established his identity.

The unexpected events amazed local officers who had evidence indicating that Harrison was stabbed to death and buried in a make-shift grave south of here Oct. 7.

Authorities said the murder may have occurred but the victim may have been a man who had beaten and robbed Harrison and drove off with his car.

Harrison, formerly of Taylorville, Ill., said a white man with a gun forced his way into his car at Cocoa, Fla., and made him drive to Jacksonville.

"We arrived in Jacksonville and he instructed me to pull into a parking lot and there the lights went out," Harrison said. He said the man apparently struck him from the rear.

Lt. Roy Sands of the Duval County criminal investigation division said Harrison's attacker may have taken the car and met up with Olson and Leech later that day. The man could have had Harrison's wallet with his identification papers on him, causing Olson and Leech to think he was Harrison, Sands said.

Harrison, who operates a window sash business with his brother, was to fly to Florida from Phoenix Saturday night. He was to be met at Tampa by Brevard County officials who will question him further about the mysterious case.

Meanwhile, local officials sent a hold order on Leach, who was arrested in Jellico, Tenn., Friday.

Olson, 23, was still in the Vacaville, Calif., correctional center serving a five years-to-life sentence for the murder of a Sacramento television announcer. Extradition papers had been sent to Gov. LeRoy Collins for his approval and forwarded to California.

Harrison turned up missing after leaving Indian River City to make a business appointment in nearby Cocoa. Investigation of foul play was launched when his blood-stained station wagon was spotted here Oct. 14.

When Olson made his confession last week, officers began a search for Harrison's body which Olson said was buried in a shallow grave 10 miles south of here.

and American forces from West Berlin, permitting it to become a demilitarized Red-encircled "free city."

A Soviet turn-over to the East German Communists of its control powers in the Eastern Sector and along the allied access corridor.

American officials flatly rejected Mikoyan's statement that the Eisenhower administration was "not making the necessary efforts" to settle East-West problems.

They cited repeated Western attempts to solve German and European problems and recalled that Russia reneged on its 1955 summit meeting agreement to reunify Germany under free elections.

Bright Free, But Attorney Goes To Jail

attorney to go free pending a ruling by a higher court.

Bright was one of five Atlantans indicted for the Oct. 12 blast that shattered the Temple and did damage of nearly $100,000.

Prosecutor Tom Luck indicated that the others woull be brought to trial as early as possible. He said the solicitor general's office, to which he is attached, expected to decide soon the next to be tried.

The four are Wallace H. Allen, Kenneth Chester Griffin and brothers Robert and Richard Bowling. They are free on bond but Bright, who had a mistrial in December, was held in jail until his acquittal.

Jury foreman Henry D. Furniss disclosed that the decision for Bright's acquittal had been unanimous on the first vote He said the jurors felt the state simply had not presented sufficient evidence for a conviction. The chief prosecution witness was an FBI informer who said Bright had been a member of a group dedicated to anti-Jewish violence.

The defense denied this and presented as an alibi witness an attractive brunette married woman who testified that she and Bright were watching for satellites in the early morning hours The Temple was blasted.

Board May Cut Reimbursements Of Lunch Funds

lunch fund figures for the board session Monday, said there are two alternatives for the board in view of the reduced state appropriation.

These are:

1. Cutting the 17-cent lunch reimbursement rate to match the remainder of the appropriation for the rest of the school year.

2. Continuing the current 16-cent rate for lunch with milk until milk runs out.

The board member commenting on the question said he understands no more than a two-cent cut is favored.

The state reimburses 14 cents of its own money and three cents of federal aid for each class A school lunch with milk severed to students.

The state appropriations supports the state part of the reimbursement. About 99 per cent of all scool lunches are class A with milk.

While local expenses vary, most students meals cost an average 27 cents.

Americans To Visit Moon In 10 Years

propulsion, with the probability of developing rockets having up to six million pounds thrust—much higher than present capabilities.

Development of a nuclear powered engine for space rockets.

Glennan did not go into details on how it might be possible to bring back samples of the moon's surface without landing a manned space vehicle. He said it is expected that a number of unmanned space probes will go into orbit around the moon or planets within the next 10 years.

"Soft landings of instrumented payloads will have been attempted on the Moon, Mars and Venus to determine many surface and atmospheric properties of these bodies and whether life in some form exists. It is marginally possible that samples of the moon's surface may be transported to earth," Glennan said.

As for progress toward manned space flight, Glennan said that vehicles capable of orbiting the moon and re-entering the earth's atmosphere "will be relatively well developed (toward the objective) to return the occupants of space laboratories in orbit around the earth."

"The space rendezvous problem should be successfully solved so that logistic support for these laboratories could be supplied from the ground," he added. "Experiments conducted within unmanned orbiting laboratories should have done much toward improving the comfort and safety of space travellers."

Glennan emphasized, however, that much work remains to assure safety before any attempt is made to send man into space, at least for any prolonged period.

Glennan also said it's expected that the next 10 years should see development of navigation satellites to guide specially equipped ships across the seas by signals from space.

"Geodetic satellites will have been used to improve our measurements of the earth and the relative location of its land masses," he said.

"Remotely operated astronomical and radio telescopes will be operating in orbit and relaying new information on the stars back to the earth.

"Auxiliary power supplies for electronic equipment (in satellites) will be very advanced, making strong use of fission and solar heat sources."

As for the weather satellite system, glennan envisioned a network in which a number of satellites would be in polar orbits 500 to 1,000 miles high, and other satellites would be orbiting above the equator at 22,000 miles altitude. The latter would be at a height where their orbiting time would jibe with the rotation of the earth —24 hours. Thus, they would in effect be standing still with respect to any point on the earth.

Satellites in both types of orbit would feed information into a national weather center, Glennan said.

"Basic scientific understanding, climatology, forecasting, and weather control techniques should all benefit" from such a system, he said.

Fred A. Blanche of Baton Rouge, vice president of Louisiana Bar Association, presiding over the closing session, announced an award of merits program, declaring "increased activities of local bar associations in the field of public relations and civic endeavor merit recognition."

The period from 10:30 a.m. until 12 noon was devoted to a panel discussion on "Comparisons Of, And Differences Between Federal and State Civil Jury Trials" with John T. Hood, Jr., of Lake Charles Fourteenth Judicial District Court Judge, serving as moderator. On the panel were Charles L. Mayer and Whitfield Jack, both of Shreveport.

DENIES ATLAS REPORT

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — A Defense Ministry spokesman Friday denied a London Daily Mail report that the United States was building an Atlas missile base near Peshawar. The Soviet Union last year accused Pakistan of building missile bases at several spots, including near the Afghanistan border. Reports at the time said President Iskander Mirza offered to take the Soviet ambassador on a personal tour of the area to disprove the reports, but the ambassador refused.

Delegation Sets Tour Of Schools

A Morrilton, Ark. delegation will tour facilities of the Ouachita Parish school system here Wednesday, Supt. W. W. Ward announced yesterday.

Six school officials from Morrilton are scheduled to inspect the Ouachita system and its special programs, according to Ward.

He explained that the Morrilton system received a Rockefeller Foundation grant for facility expansion.

According to Ward, the Morrilton officials expressed desire to inspect the Ouachita facilities in hopes of obtaining ideas for expansion in their own system.

"We're flattered that they chose our system and will do anything possible to aid them in their inspection," Ward said.

downtown area, a low-lying section of the city. Stores were closed, and police, state highway patrolmen and National Guardsmen formed a "cordon of guards" around the area to protect homes and stores and prevent looting.

Safety director Richard Maier said the Sandusky was expected to remain at its crest unless an ice pack broke up at Ballville Dam, one mile south of the city.

Another ice jam caused the inundation of most of Meadville, Pa., after unsuccessful efforts Friday to "bomb" out the jam by plane. Officials decided to make another attempt to break the ice pack by dynamite and ease the city's crisis. Additional dynamite was flown in by helicopter. But there was a danger of flash flooding at Cochranton and Franklin, downstream from the ice heap, if the backed-up waters should suddenly break through.

Thousands of persons had to evacuate their homes at Meadville, while other families were marooned in heatless homes. Rescuers, in amphibious trucks and Coast Guard boats tried futilely to reach the marooned.

Another danger spot in Ohio was at Pameroy, located on the great bend of the Ohio River as it swings across the southern tip of the Buckeye state. Downtown streets were flooded, and stores closed. Volunteers worked to stem the rush of the river, which generally was contained by levees in other areas.

A victory against the river also would stem floodwaters that crept into 11 connecting mines and threatened to idle about 5,000 workers in the economically-distressed area.

Murder 'Victim' Turns Up Alive

Phoenix, Ariz. He wore a T-shirt which he did not recognize, slacks which were his own, and had only 67 cents and a package of cigarets.

In Vacaville, prison officials said Olson hoped to get a plane trip to Florida and lead officers on a cross-continent "wild goose chase." He said he implicated Leech "more or less going along with the act."

California authorities said Olson had read of the Harrison case and knew some of the details, and that Florida officers who questioned him "gave him enough leads so he could make up a believable story." They said Olson and Leech had been hitchhiking in the South about the time Harrison disappeared.

Authorities here believed that Harrison's amnesia might have been the result of a robbery-beating the night he disappeared.

Harrison said he was struck on the head by a man who had forced his way into his station wagon with a gun.

When Harrison's station wagon was found several days later there were bloodstains inside.

Harrison's wife, visiting her mother in Miami, was notified of the finding of her husband. She sent him his plane fare.

Officers said Harrison had no wallet or money, but a picture transmitted from Phoenix by United Press International established his identity.

The unexpected events amazed local officers who had evidence indicating that Harrison was stabbed to death and buried in a make-shift grave south of here Oct. 7.

Authorities said the murder may have occurred but the victim may have been a man who had beaten and robbed Harrison and drove off with his car.

Harrison, formerly of Taylorville, Ill., said a white man with a gun forced his way into his car at Cocoa, Fla., and made him drive to Jacksonville.

"We arrived in Jacksonville and he instructed me to pull into a parking lot and there the lights went out," Harrison said. He said the man apparently struck him from the rear.

Lt. Roy Sands of the Duval County criminal investigation division said Harrison's attacker may have taken the car and met up with Olson and Leech later that day. The man could have had Harrison's wallet with his identification papers on him, causing Olson and Leech to think he was Harrison, Sands said.

Harrison, who operates a window sash business with his brother, was to fly to Florida from Phoenix Saturday night. He was to be met at Tampa by Brevard County officials who will question him further about the mysterious case.

Meanwhile, local officials sent a hold order on Leach, who was arrested in Jellico, Tenn., Friday.

Olson, 23, was still in the Vacaville, Calif., correctional center serving a five years-to-life sentence for the murder of a Sacramento television announcer. Extradition papers had been sent to Gov. LeRoy Collins for his approval and forwarded to California.

Harrison turned up missing after leaving Indian River City to make a business appointment in nearby Cocoa. Investigation of foul play was launched when his blood-stained station wagon was spotted here Oct. 14.

When Olson made his confession last week, officers began a search for Harrison's body which Olson said was buried in a shallow grave 10 miles south of here.

Soviets Move To Ease Hot Berlin Crisis

and American forces from West Berlin, permitting it to become a demilitarized Red-encircled "free city."

A Soviet turn-over to the East German Communists of its control powers in the Eastern Sector and along the allied access corridor.

American officials flatly rejected Mikoyan's statement that the Eisenhower administration was "not making the necessary efforts" to settle East-West problems.

They cited repeated Western attempts to solve German and European problems and recalled that Russia reneged on its 1955 summit meeting agreement to reunify Germany under free elections.

Bright Free, But Attorney Goes To Jail

attorney to go free pending a ruling by a higher court.

Bright was one of five Atlantans indicted for the Oct. 12 blast that shattered the Temple and did damage of nearly $100,000.

Prosecutor Tom Luck indicated that the others woull be brought to trial as early as possible. He said the solicitor general's office, to which he is attached, expected to decide soon the next to be tried.

The four are Wallace H. Allen, Kenneth Chester Griffin and brothers Robert and Richard Bowling. They are free on bond but Bright, who had a mistrial in December, was held in jail until his acquittal.

Jury foreman Henry D. Furniss disclosed that the decision for Bright's acquittal had been unanimous on the first vote. He said the jurors felt the state simply had not presented sufficient evidence for a conviction. The chief prosecution witness was an FBI informer who said Bright had been a member of a group dedicated to anti-Jewish violence.

The defense denied this and presented as an alibi witness an attractive brunette married woman who testified that she and Bright were watching for satellites in the early morning hours The Temple was blasted.

Board May Cut Reimbursements Of Lunch Funds

lunch fund figures for the board session Monday, said there are two alternatives for the board in view of the reduced state appropriation.

These are:

1. Cutting the 17-cent lunch reimbursement rate to match the remainder of the appropriation for the rest of the school year.

2. Continuing the current 16-cent rate for lunch with milk until milk runs out.

The board member commenting on the question said he understands no more than a two-cent cut is favored.

The state reimburses 14 cents of its own money and three cents of federal aid for each class A school lunch with milk severed to students.

The state appropriations supports the state part of the reimbursement. About 99 per cent of all scool lunches are class A with milk.

While local expenses vary, most students meals cost an average 27 cents.

Americans To Visit Moon In 10 Years

propulsion, with the probability of developing rockets having up to six million pounds thrust—much higher than present capabilities.

Development of a nuclear powered engine for space rockets.

Glennan did not go into details on how it might be possible to bring back samples of the moon's surface without landing a manned space vehicle. He said it is expected that a number of unmanned space probes will go into orbit around the moon or planets within the next 10 years.

"Soft landings of instrumented payloads will have been attempted on the Moon, Mars and Venus to determine many surface and atmospheric properties of these bodies and whether life in some form exists. It is marginally possible that samples of the moon's surface may be transported to earth," Glennan said.

As for progress toward manned space flight, Glennan said that vehicles capable of orbiting the moon and re-entering the earth's atmosphere "will be relatively well developed (toward the objective) to return the occupants of space laboratories in orbit around the earth."

"The space rendezvous problem should be successfully solved so that logistic support for these laboratories could be supplied from the ground," he added. "Experiments conducted within unmanned orbiting laboratories should have done much toward improving the comfort and safety of space travellers."

Glennan emphasized, however, that much work remains to assure safety before any attempt is made to send man into space, at least for any prolonged period.

Glennan also said it's expected that the next 10 years should see development of navigation satellites to guide specially equipped ships across the seas by signals from space.

"Geodetic satellites will have been used to improve our measurements of the earth and the relative location of its land masses," he said.

"Remotely operated astronomical and radio telescopes will be operating in orbit and relaying new information on the stars back to the earth.

"Auxiliary power supplies for electronic equipment (in satellites) will be very advanced, making strong use of fission and solar heat sources."

As for the weather satellite system, glennan envisioned a network in which a number of satellites would be in polar orbits 500 to 1,000 miles high, and other satellites would be orbiting above the equator at 22,000 miles altitude. The latter would be at a height where their orbiting time would jibe with the rotation of the earth —24 hours. Thus, they would in effect be standing still with respect to any point on the earth.

Satellites in both types of orbit would feed information into a national weather center, Glennan said.

"Basic scientific understanding, climatology, forecasting, and weather control techniques should all benefit" from such a system, he said.

organization, learning and a spirit of service.

Fred A. Blanche of Baton Rouge, vice president of Louisiana Bar Association, presiding over the closing session, announced an award of merits program, declaring "increased activities of local bar associations in the field of public relations and civic endeavor merit recognition."

The period from 10:30 a.m. until 12 noon was devoted to a panel discussion on "Comparisons Of, And Differences Between Federal and State Civil Jury Trials" with John T. Hood, Jr., of Lake Charles Fourteenth Judicial District Court Judge, serving as moderator. On the panel were Charles L. Mayer and Whitfield Jack, both of Shreveport.

DENIES ATLAS REPORT

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — A Defense Ministry spokesman Friday denied a London Daily Mail report that the United States was building an Atlas missile base near Peshawar. The Soviet Union last year accused Pakistan of building missile bases at several spots, including near the Afghanistan border. Reports at the time said President Iskander Mirza offered to take the Soviet ambassador on a personal tour of the area to disprove the reports, but the ambassador refused.

Bowling

Jaycee bowling started Wednesday night and although most of the bowlers were lacking in experience the teams bowled on a handicap basis to make the competition even closer.

Each team has at least five members and bowling starts at 8:50 p.m. on the dot. Louis Whitfield noted that the main purpose is for relaxation and fellowship rather than hard-pressure competition.

Different View

A man entered a pawnshop and asked for a loan. The proprietor was ready to make the transaction but asked nine per cent interest.

The customer, instantly angry, snorted, "Nine per cent is neither right nor legal." "Don't you know the Lord looks down on such a transaction?"

"Well, my friend," the proprietor retorted. "'when the Lord looks down on it he sees that nine upside down like a six and it passes all right."

Delegation Sets Tour Of Schools

A Morrilton, Ark. delegation will tour facilities of the Ouachita Parish school system here Wednesday, Supt. W. W. Ward announced yesterday.

Six school officials from Morrilton are scheduled to inspect the Ouachita system and its special programs, according to Ward.

He explained that the Morrilton system received a Rockefeller Foundation grant for facility expansion.

According to Ward, the Morrilton officials expressed desire to inspect the Ouachita facilities in hopes of obtaining ideas for expansion in their own system.

"We're flattered that they chose our system and will do anything possible to aid them in their inspection," Ward said.

downtown area, a low-lying section of the city. Stores were closed, and police, state highway patrolmen and National Guardsmen formed a "cordon of guards" around the area to protect homes and stores and prevent looting.

Smoke And Fire Billow In Area

one car loaded with propelyn, a liquidified petroleum gas.

Shaped charges containing amatol and TNT exploded the wreckage at 5:06 p.m. yesterday, sending balls of boiling fire rolling into the sky beneath a billowing stream of black smoke that could be seen for miles around.

OBSERVERS

Officials and reporters watched from safe distance as policemen blocked off a six mile radius surrounding the scene. Observers who witnessed both blasts said yesterday's was minor in comparison.

Crews will begin clearing the last of the wreckage today and the State Police said the area would be "off limits" for spectators. U.S. 165 will be closed, but traffic will be routed around the scene.

D. T. Barksdale, Missouri Pacific Louisiana Division superintendent, of Monroe said, when the explosion o c c u r r e d Friday, the wreckage was being treated as "we would any other wreck with inflammable cargo."

"I've never heard of any other accident like this in the United States," Barksdale said. "It was a terrible type of thing to have happened, but I don't know of any other thing we could have done to prevent it."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which regulates cargo transported by railroads, issued no additional precautions pertaining to the highly-explosive chemicals on the 139-car train, Barksdale said.

"Our precautions were no different than if the cargo had been any other inflammable goods," he stated. "We intended to clean up the wreckage to clear the track."

The Friday night explosion came 18 hours after a journal box caught fire on the northbound train, causing 33 cars to jump the track.

UNUSUAL

"It's unusual that the explosion would have come that long after the wreck," W. C. Kaiser, Missouri Pacific official, of St. Louis said shortly after arriving in Monroe yesterday.

"This is the worst disaster of its type in the company's history," he stated.

The train was en route from Alexandria to St. Louis when it derailed 3½ miles south of Monroe. Hundreds of spectators visited the scene Friday.

But only officials and newsmen were allowed to go past blockades set up three miles beyond the scene yesterday. "We're lucky it wasn't worse," Barksdale said.

Even as demolitionists waited for their charges to explode airplanes flew over the area. One craft flew within range of the wreckage at the exact moment the blast was timed to discharge.

That was 5 p.m. A flare of fire signalled the coming of the blast at 5:06 p.m., a jar thumped the peaceful countryside and the impact followed a second later. Then the rolls of fire and smoke began.

Located within 500 yards of the burning wreckage, the Capitol Store Fixtures Co. miraculously escaped serious damage. Windows in the building were knocked out Friday night.

Barksdale said damages suffered by the railroad company could not be estimated until "several more days." But it is believed the total will go far beyond $1-million.

The train was loaded with pulpwood, cotton, butadaine (a form of rubber) and propelyn. Two tank cars contained the explosive propelyn, but officials were unable to pinpoint them. Car numbers were burned in the continuous fires.

Four cars burned yesterday prior to the detonation — one with bulk rubber and another with butadaine. The content of the remaining two burning cars was unknown.

That left officials in fear that a second serious explosion could occur. Although most of the explosive cargo was believed to have been burned by last night, officials took caution amid the possibilities of a secondary explosion.

The wreck ripped up parts of the Missouri Pacific track. New rail is scheduled to arrive today. Barksdale said it would take "a day or so, maybe two or three" to clear the entire wreckage.

But company officials hope to clear the track as soon as possible. Kaiser pointed out that the track was the company's main line.

"We have to clear it for railway traffic," he stated.

Veteran newspapermen and observers considered the disaster Northeast Louisiana's biggest in history. Although more persons have been killed in a single accident here, observers failed to recall when more injuries and greater damages were sustained.

The scene Friday night was one of a panicky firetrap. The explosion sent waves of fire looming over the heads of fleeing crewmen and spectators.

The exploding tank, which had been drawn clear of the wreckage, landed 200 feet away in a cotton field and several victims were caught attempting to escape in its path.

Every available ambulance in the Twin Cities rushed victims to the St. Francis Hospital. Private autos c a r r i e d others. Doctors, nurses and volunteers, assisted by blood donors, worked untiringly to render treatment.

The hospital emergency room reeked of burned flesh and desperate relatives cried and screamed in the corridors. Outside policemen held back curiosity seekers.

Barksdale was at the scene when the explosion occurred. He said he had stepped into railway diner when he heard the blast.

RUMBLING

"I had been there for only three or four seconds when I heard it," he said. "It was a rumbling thunderous kind of a noise and you could feel an atmospheric change immediately."

"I ran outside and started running toward the scene," he continued. "I got to our field telephone and called our downtown office. I told them to contact every available ambulance in the city and advised them to notify the hospital. That wasn't necessary. Everybody in Monroe saw and heard it."

The blast, which eyewitnesses said brightened the sky, was seen for miles and there was one report that a pilot flying over Marshall, Tex., 150 miles from Monroe saw it.

Streets and highways leading to the scene were jammed as ambulances attempted to get victims to the hospital. "If it hadn't been for the police, the death toll would have been greater," Barksdale said. "Those men should be thanked to the high heavens."

Even yesterday police had difficulty in turning spectators away. One officer said a woman and several children attempted to get past a blockade to snap pictures.

Barksdale said earlier in the day he would make no attempts to move the wreckage "until an expert who knows more about explosives than I do advises me what to do."

He summoned explosive experts and the demolition team from Shreveport. Col. Herbert Hoover headed the five-man crew from the 20th Avaiation Depot Squadron.

Forty-pounds of charges were placed beneath two cars. The "shaped charges" are designed to penetrate steel. They did and the fires continued to burn last night.

Sheriff Bailey Grant and the State Police assisted the demolitionists. Reserve officers commanded by Major Emil Wisakowsky stood by to fire a 50-mm machine gun into the wreckage if called on.

Ralph Johnson, Missouri Pacific division general manager, of Little Rock risked his life following the blast. He walked within steps of the wreckage to inspect the burning cars.

One airman, Tech Sgt. Harold B. Kelly of Pensacola, Fla. was taken to the St. Francis with acid burns. He stepped through a crust of acid-splattered salt while setting the charges.

Kelly's burns were not serious, however.

Rites Scheduled For Blast Victims

As the death toll mounted yesterday in the wake of Friday night's rail tank car explosion south of Monroe, services for several of the victims were announced.

They include

COSBY O. PRESTAGE

Funeral services for Cosby O. Prestage, 49-year-old Monroe man who died early Saturday as a result of burns received in the Friday night explosion, will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Mulhearn Funeral Home Chapel.

The Rev. Turner Davis will officiate, with interment in Riverview Cemetery by Mulhearn.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mabel Prestage, 1706 S. 5th St., Monroe; one step-daughter, Mrs. Barbara Jean Burks, Fort Worth, Tex.; his mother, Mrs. Ella Prestage, Monroe; a sister, Mrs. Louise Patrick, Monroe, and one niece.

Mr. Prestage was head of the wrecking crew which was clearing the tracks following the Thursday night derailment. He was a member of the Southside Baptist Church, where he was active on the building committee, and had been in the National Guard for 24 years.

Mr. Prestage held the rank of Master Sergeant in the guard, and saw 5 years of active duty during World War II, being stationed in Europe and Australia.

Military rites are scheduled for graveside, and commanders of all Monroe National Guard units request all guard members to attend in uniform.

Pallbearers, all master sergeants in the guard, will be E. B. Clower, Charles Dean, Gerald Coker, Gilbert Lee, Quentin Johnson and Jack Williamson.

CHARLES ROY BARNES

Final rites for Charles Roy Barnes, McGehee, Ark., resident and a Missouri Pacific employee for 14 years, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the First Assembly of God Church in West Monroe.

Officiating will be the Revs. F. D. Wall, E. L. Tanner and Cline D. Ellis. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

The 36-year-old man died Saturday morning after he was injured Friday night in the tank car explosion.

He was a member of the Desha County Blue Lodge of McGhee, was a Scottish Rite Mason and a Shriner. Masonic rites will be conducted at graveside.

Mr. Barnes is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Barnes, McGhee; one son, David Barnes, McGhee; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Barnes Sr., West Monroe and three sisters, Mrs. Buddy Oglesbee, Mrs. J. N. Foster, and Mrs. Fermon Tidwell, all of West Monroe.

Pallbearers will be Jimmy Love, Vance Driskell, Lewis Rothchild, Vernon Dyer, D. T. Barksdale and E. M. Vandiver.

Rackets Hearing Set For Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee finally has rounded up enough able-bodied witnesses to get its 1959 hearings underway, a spokesman said Saturday.

Barring another last-minute hitch, it will resume public sessions Tuesday by putting the Teamsters and Carpenter unions back on the griddle.

Five of the first six witnesses the committee had called sent regrets, explaining they could not appear for reasons of health. There also was some doubt about the sixth.

But the committee, which originally planned to renew the investigations a week or so earlier, will proceed anyhow under a revised time table.

The lead-off witness will be Roland McMasters, a Detroit Teamster official—if he shows up. He is the only one of the ailing six the committee has not heard from.

The committee had Public Health Service physicians examine some of the other five to make certain they had bona fide ailments.

suspect from a city hospital to the Tavarez home Thursday. The baby was taken to the hospital for medical treatment and the kidnaper befriended the mother by offering to baby-sit.

The baby, son of Jose Tavarez, 30-year-old Dominican-born laborer earning $45 a week, and his 21-year-old wife, Doraliza, was taken by a woman who identified herself as Mrs. Gladys Garcia.

"Mrs. Garcia" offered to sit with the Tavarez' three children—Carmine Josephine, 5, Doris, 3, and John, w h i l e Mrs. Tavarez went house hunting.

When Mrs. Tavarez returned to her $21.15-a-week, 1½ room flat in what has been described as "the worst slum block in New York," the volunteer sitter and the baby were gone.

Tavarez and his wife appealed on radio and television for the return of the 8½-pound baby, who was ill with a cold and chest congestion when he was taken into the freezing cold winter weather.

The kidnaping occurred in a block on Manhattan's upper side that has been the subject of a crusade by the Rev. James A. Gusweller, rector of a nearby Protestant Episcopal church. He has urged a clean-up campaign of the area to get rid of alleged prostitution, narcotics peddling, muggings and thefts.

Smoke And Fire Billow In Area

one car loaded with propelyn, a liquidified petroleum gas.

Shaped charges containing amatol and TNT exploded the wreckage at 5:06 p.m. yesterday, sending balls of boiling fire rolling into the sky beneath a billowing stream of black smoke that could be seen for miles around.

OBSERVERS

Officials and reporters watched from safe distance as policemen blocked off a six mile radius surrounding the scene. Observers who witnessed both blasts said yesterday's was minor in comparison.

Crews will begin clearing the last of the wreckage today and the State Police said the area would be "off limits" for spectators. U.S. 165 will be closed, but traffic will be routed around the scene.

D. T. Barksdale, Missiouri Pacific Louisiana Division superintendent, of Monroe said, when the explosion occurred Friday, the wreckage was being treated as "we would any other wreck with inflammable cargo."

"I've never heard of any other accident like this in the United States," Barksdale said, "it was a terrible type of thing to have happened, but I don't know of any other thing we could have done to prevent it."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which regulates cargo transported by railroads, issued no additional precautions pertaining to the highly-explosive chemicals on the 139-car train, Barksdale said.

"Our precautions were no different than if the cargo had been any other inflammable goods," he stated. "We intended to clean up the wreckage to clear the track."

The Friday night explosion came 18 hours after a journal box caught fire on the northbound train, causing 33 cars to jump the track.

UNUSUAL

"It's unusual that the explosion would have come that long after the wreck," W. C. Kaiser, Missouri Pacific official, of St. Louis said shortly after arriving in Monroe yesterday.

"This is the worst disaster of its type in the company's history," he stated.

The train was en route from Alexandria to St. Louis when it derailed 3½ miles south of Monroe. Hundreds of spectators visited the scene Friday.

But only officials and newsmen were allowed to go past blockades set up three miles beyond the scene yesterday. "We're lucky it wasn't worse," Barksdale said.

Even as demolitionists waited for their charges to explode airplanes flew over the area. One craft flew within range of the wreckage at the exact moment the blast was timed to discharge.

That was 5 p.m. A flare of fire signalled the coming of the blast at 5:06 p.m., a jar thumped the peaceful countryside and the impact followed a second later. Then the rolls of fire and smoke began.

Located within 500 yards of the burning wreckage, the Capitol Store Fixtures Co. miracously escaped serious damage. Windows in the building were knocked out Friday night.

Barksdale said damages suffered by the railroad company could not be estimated until "several more days." But it is believed the total will go far beyond $1-million.

The train was loaded with pulpwood, cotton, butadaine (a form of rubber) and propelyn. Two tank cars contained the explosive propelyn, but officials were unable to pinpoint them. Car numbers were burned in the continuous fires.

Four cars burned yesterday prior to the detonation — one with bulk rubber and another with butadaine. The content of the remaining two burning cars was unknown.

That left officials in fear that a second serious explosion could occur. Although most of the explosive cargo was believed to have been burned by last night, officials took caution amid the possibilities of a secondary explosion.

The wreck ripped up parts of the Missouri Pacific track. New rail is scheduled to arrive today. Barksdale said it would take "a day or so, maybe two or three" to clear the entire wreckage.

But company officials hope to clear the track as soon as possible. Kaiser pointed out that the track was the company's main line.

"We have to clear it for railway traffic," he stated.

Veteran newspapermen and observers considered the disaster Northeast Louisiana's biggest in history. Although more persons have been killed in a single accident here, observers failed to recall when more injuries and greater damages were sustained.

The scene Friday night was one of a panicky firetrap. The explosion sent waves of fire looming over the heads of fleeing crewmen and spectators.

The exploding tank, which had been drawn clear of the wreckage, landed 200 feet away in a cotton field and several victims were caught attempting to escape in its path.

Every available ambulance in the Twin Cities rushed victims to the St. Francis Hospital. Private autos carried others. Doctors, nurses and volunteers, assisted by blood donors, worked untiringly to render treatment.

The hospital emergency room reeked of burned flesh and desperate relatives cried and screamed in the corridors. Outside policemen held back curosity seekers.

Barksdale was at the scene when the explosion occurred. He said he had stepped into railway diner when he heard the blast.

RUMBLING

"I had been there for only three or four seconds when I heard it," he said. "It was a rumbling thunderous kind of a noise and you could feel an atmospheric change immediately."

"I ran outside and started running toward the scene," he continued. "I got to our field telephone and called our downtown office. I told them to contact every available ambulance in the city and advised them to notify the hospital. That wasn't necessary. Everybody in Monroe saw and heard it."

The blast, which eyewitnesses said brightened the sky, was seen for miles and there was one report that a pilot flying over Marshall, Tex., 150 miles from Monroe saw it.

Streets and highways leading to the scene were jammed as ambulances attempted to get victims to the hospital. "If it hadn't been for the police, the death toll would have been greater," Barksdale said. "Those men should be thanked to the high heavens."

Even yesterday police had difficulty in turning spectators away. One officer said a woman and several children attempted to get past a blockade to snap pictures.

Barksdale said earlier in the day he would make no attempts to move the wreckage "until an expert who knows more about explosives than I do advises me what to do."

He summoned explosive experts and the demolition team from Shreveport. Col. Herbert Hoover headed the five-man crew from the 20th Avaiation Depot Squadron.

Forty-pounds of charges were placed beneath two cars. The "shaped charges" are designed to penetrate steel. They did and the fires continued to burn last night.

Sheriff Bailey Grant and the State Police assisted the demolitionists. Reserve officers commanded by Major Emil Wisakowsky stood by to fire a 50-mm machine gun into the wreckage if called on.

Ralph Johnson, Missouri Pacific division general manager, of Little Rock risked his life following the blast. He walked within steps of the wreckage to inspect the burning cars.

One airman, Tech Sgt. Harold B. Kelly of Pensacola, Fla. was taken to the St. Francis with acid burns. He stepped through a crust of acid-splattered salt while setting the charges.

Kelly's burns were not serious, however.

BURNING RAIL CAR

2 Deputies First To Spot Trouble

Two Ouachita Parish deputies were the first to spot a burning railway car that caused 32 other cars to derail here Thursday night, 18 hours later exploding into a freak, tragic disaster.

Deputies W. E. Bowman and Amos Standfield were on routine patrol on U. S. 165 south of Monroe when they drove along side the Missouri Pacific Railroad 139-car unit heading north.

They signalled the engineer that one car was on fire and minutes later saw the train begin to spill off its track. Hours later they assisted in rescue efforts when one car exploded.

Here is their account of a Thursday night "routine" patrol:

Deputy Bowman said, "We saw the hot box. We first saw it in Bosco. It was red hot and throwing sparks. The sparks attracted our attention.

"We caught up with the engine. Standfield flashed his light at the engineer. They flashed back and tooted their whistle a couple of times. I don't know whether they thought we were trying to signal them or just waving at them.

"They were already slowing down, probably for the approach to Monroe around 11 p. m. After we flashed the light we dropped back to look at the box again. When we got near the hot box we saw the box start piling up.

SUDDEN

"It seemed to me like all of a sudden flames engulfed the car with the hot journal box. The front portion of the train kept going, dragging one car behind. Then the rear cars started piling up around the area where the derailment occurred. After the pile-up there was a huge explosion came within a few seconds.

"Then we radioed headquarters to dispatch firefighting equipment and additional help in the handling of traffic."

This is Deput Standfield's statement:

"I flashed the light at the engineer. We were on regular patrol when the train came through Bosco. The journal was hot on the right side of a pulpwood car approximately 20 cars from the engine

"I told my partner I didn't believe the train would make it into Monroe. I never could attract the attention of a man sitting in the caboose. I did attract the engineer. He flashed a flashlight back at us. Seemingly they understood what we meant. They tooted the horn.

"We dropped back to the hot box. Then I glanced up ahead and saw a break in the train with the forward section dragging a pulpwood car.

"Then I saw the rear section of the train coming. The tank cars started piling up and a terrific explosion occurred. The flames mushroomed I know 200 feet. It was too close for comfort.

"We drove a safe distance from the wreckage and fire and then radioed for help."

Rail Officials Praise Many Who Assisted

Private citizens, officials, doctors, firemen, policemen, any and all persons who helped in the Friday night rescue efforts of the train explosion received recognition from the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company here yesterday.

D. T. Barksdale, Louisiana Division superintendent, offered his company's "appreciation and heartfelt thanks" to those who participated in aiding victims in Friday night's tragic explosion.

"If it hadn't been for the policemen (State Police and local policemen) directing traffic at the scene, the death toll would have been greater," Barksdale said.

PRAISE

"The citizens of this city should be proud of the way they responded Friday night," he explained, "the hospital was jammed with blood donors; of course there were some curosity seekers, but you would have that any where you go."

"I want to especially pay tribute to the firemen, the State Police, the local policemen, depues, the officials who were present to help, doctors, nurses and he St. Francis hospital for the reat effort which they extended,'" he superintendent stated.

Newsmen privately paid tribute) St. Francis Hospital director E. Burgyone, who quickly set) a speedy system of identifying victims brought to the hospil.

Special tribute was paid to amilance drivers by both Barksdale id reporters who worked at the enes of activity. Persons who ove victims to the hospital in eir private autos were thanked so.

In general, Barksdale said. Monroe should be proud."

SAM RUBIN JR.

Rubin Named To Post In Heart Drive

Organization of the 1959 Heart Fund in Ouachita Parish moved forward another step today with the appointment of Sam Rubin Jr. as vice chairman of the campaign.

The drive will be conducted here during Heart Month, Feb. 1-28.

Rubin will assist James C. "Jake" Ussery who last month accepted the post of chairman for the annual drive which supports the Heart Association's research, education and community service programs.

The new vice chairman is active in local civic affairs and is a past recipient of the Junior Chamber of Commerce "Oustanding Young Man of the Year" award.

More than 32 million heart fund dollars have gone into research during the past 10 years. A large part of the local collections remain in Louisiana and in the parish. A minimum of 50 per cent of the funds go for national research.

PROCLAMATION

Monroe Mayor W. L. "Jack" Howard has officially proclaimed February as Heart Month and urges good support and cooperation from citizens, businesses and organizations.

Gov. Earl K. Long has issued a similar proclamation for the entire state

The American Heart Association is the only national voluntary health agency devoted exclusively to combating diseases of the heart and circulation, and its local affiliate, the Louisiana Heart Association, has made great progress in the fight against heart diseases through research, officials noted.

Feb. 22 has been proclaimed as Heart Sunday and an army of volunteers will conduct a door-to-door campaign to raise funds.

DA Report Shows Crime On The Rise

Burglaries, murders, armed and simple robberies, thefts and drunk driving offenses soared here during 1958.

District Attorney Albin P. Lassiter released a report for the past year yesterday, and indicated that crime increased in Ouachita and Morehouse parishes.

A total of 4,966 cases were handled by the D.A.'s office in 1958, compared to 3,508 during 1957.

The increase in Morehouse Parish was from 477 in 1957 up to 653 in 1958.

Of the cases handled, 3,694 warrants were issued or charges were filed last year, another sharp rise over 1957's total of 3,182.

One of the largest increases was in thefts, with 299 reported for 1958, and 266 in 1957.

Increases in other crimes are shown by the following totals, with the 1958 figure listed first, the 1957 next in parentheses: burglary, 100 (83); murder and manslaughter: 16, (15); armed robbery, 9 (3); simple robbery, 14 (8); driving while intoxicated, 341 (320); driving without an operator's license, 440 (366); driving with an improper muffler, 125, none for 1957.

Decreases were noted in five categories: non-support, 215 (237); issuing worthless checks, 29 (34); reckless driving, 588, (583); speeding, 282, (424); and forgeries, 57, (77).

The District Attorney's office obtained 3,037 convictions last year, compared with 2,889 in 1957. Sixty-eight persons were acquitted in 1958, 66 in 1957; 413 cases were dropped in 1958, 289 in 1957; and 475 cases are still pending from last year, as opposed to 338 at this time one year ago.

Winners Named In Dixieland Bridge Tourney

Dixieland Bridge Tournament was played in Jackson Friday. The team of four was won by Hughes Mendel, Monroe; Fred Berger, Natchez, Miss.; Lou Gervich, New Orleans, La.; Jason Floyd, Gulfport, Miss.

Total of 60 boards and 21 teams competing in tournament.

Scott Named President Of Shrine Club

Eugene B. Scott was named president of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club at the groups 1959 election of officers Thursday night.

Five vice-presidents were voted in at the meet. They were Carl Thompson, Joe F. Smith, Wesley Burdine, Homer Lowry and J. M. Gustafson.

Assuming the posts of secretary and treasurer were James A. Daniel and A. N. DeSeamus respectively.

The following were elected to the board of directors:

J. C. Moak, Leo M. Baer, Virgil Crawford, Jack Sebastain, Sam R. Kirk, R. O. Rogers, W. C. Sullivan, H. M. James. Russell Jordan, W. S. Neild, Bailey Grant, James T. Knott, A. J. Allen, Collins Lang, Joe Kalil, Arlie Williamson, George B. Franklin Jr. and R. W. Anderson.

Other business included the donation of $54.16 to the Goodfellows, approval of the annual audit and an affirmative vote to sponsor concession stands at this year's rodeo in West Monroe.

Plans were made for club members to work today on street collections for the 1959 March of Dimes.

BURNING RAIL CAR

2 Deputies First To Spot Trouble

Two Ouachita Parish deputies were the first to spot a burning railway car that caused 32 other cars to derail here Thursday night, 18 hours later exploding into a freak, tragic disaster.

Deputies W. E. Bowman and Amos Standfield were on routine patrol on U. S. 165 south of Monroe when they drove along side the Missouri Pacific Railroad 139-car unit heading north.

They signalled the engineer that one car was on fire and minutes later saw the train begin to spill off its track. Hours later they assisted in rescue efforts when one car exploded.

Here is their account of a Thursday night "routine" patrol:

Deputy Bowman said, "We saw the hot box. We first saw it in Bosco. It was red hot and throwing sparks. The sparks attracted our attention.

"We caught up with the engine. Standfield flashed his light at the engineer. They flashed back and tooted their whistle a couple of times. I don't know whether they thought we were trying to signal them or just waving at them.

"They were already slowing down, probably for the approach to Monroe around 11 p. m. After we flashed the light we dropped back to look at the box again. When we got near the hot box we saw the box start piling up.

SUDDEN

"It seemed to me like all of a sudden flames engulfed the car with the hot journal box. The front portion of the train kept going, dragging one car behind. Then the rear cars started piling up around the area where the derailment occurred. After the pile-up there was a huge explosion came within a few seconds.

"Then we radioed headquarters to dispatch firefighting equipment and additional help in the handling of traffic."

This is Deput Standfield's statement:

"I flashed the light at the engineer. We were on regular patrol when the train came through Bosco. The journal was hot on the right side of a pulpwood car approximately 20 cars from the engine

"I told my partner I didn't believe the train would make it into Monroe. I never could attract the attention of a man sitting in the caboose. I did attract the engineer. He flashed a flashlight back at us. Seemingly they understood what we meant. They tooted the horn.

"We dropped back to the hot box. Then I glanced up ahead and saw a break in the train with the forward section dragging a pulpwood car.

"Then I saw the rear section of the train coming. The tank cars started piling up and a terrific explosion occurred. The flames mushroomed I know 200 feet. It was too close for comfort.

"We drove a safe distance from the wreckage and fire and then radioed for help."

Rail Officials Praise Many Who Assisted

Private citizens, officials, doctors, firemen, policemen, any and all persons who helped in the Friday night rescue efforts of the train explosion received recognition from the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company here yesterday.

D. T. Barksdale, Louisiana Division superintendent, offered his company's "appreciation and heartfelt thanks" to those who participated in aiding victims in Friday night's tragic explosion.

"If it hadn't been for the policemen (State Police and local policemen) directing traffic at the scene, the death toll would have been greater," Barksdale said.

PRAISE

"The citizens of this city should be proud of the way they responded Friday night," he explained, "the hospital was jammed with blood donors; of course there were some curosity seekers, but you would have that any where you go."

"I want to especially pay tribute to the firemen, the State Police, the local policemen, deputies, the officials who were present to help, doctors, nurses and the St. Francis hospital for the great effort which they extended,'" the superintendent stated.

Newsmen privately paid tribute to St. Francis Hospital director S. E. Burgyone, who quickly set up a speedy system of identifying victims brought to the hospital.

Special tribute was paid to ambulance drivers by both Barksdale and reporters who worked at the scenes of activity. Persons who drove victims to the hospital in their private autos were thanked also.

In general, Barksdale said, "Monroe should be proud."

Schedule Set On Northeast Registration

Registration for the Spring semester at Northeast Louisiana State College has been scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, January 28-29, it has been announced by Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions.

Dormitories for the second semester will reopen at 2:30 p.m Tuesday, January 27 and the college cafeteria will serve the opening meal on that day. Classwork begins at 8 a.m., Friday, January 30.

New students will report to the Admissions Office, 239 Administration Building, to begin registration. Students registered during the fall term will report directly to their division heads, said Hanna.

PREPARATION

Students should be prepared to furnish transcripts of their high school courses and other college credits, if any; certificates of eligibility, and physical examination forms.

Forms may be obtained from the college by writing the director of admissions. New students who file applications of admission before the term begins are sent examination forms to be signed by the student's own physician to provide a medical history. The certificates of eligibility must be returned by each new student with the signature of his high school principal and superintendent, as required by law.

Students will follow this alphabetical schedule of registration: Wednesday, January 28: L-Mc, 8-9 a.m.; M-N, 9-10 a.m.; P-Q-R, 10-11 a.m.; S, 11-12 noon; T-U-V, 1-2 p.m.; W-X-Y-Z, 2-3 p.m.; late registrants, 3-4 p.m. Thursday, January 29: A-B, 8-9 a.m.; C., 9-10 a.m.; D-E, 10-11 a.m.; F.G, 11-12 noon; H, 1-2 p.m.; I-J-K, 2-3 p.m.; late registrants, 3-4 p.m.

Students who do not register on Wednesday and Thursday will be charged a late registration fee of $5.

Registration for special classes meetings evenings and Saturdays has been set from 8-12 a.m. Saturday, January 24 and on Monday and Tuesday, January 26-27 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Classes begin the week of Feb. 2.

Rayville Tribute

Rayville forms its Arch of Triumph for two sons of Richland parish—Billy "Red" Hendrix and David McCarty—when the town celebrates its "Hendrix - McCarty Day" with LSU Coach Paul Dietzel on hand for the big doings Friday evening.

Joe Kalil, Rayville alderman and head of a committee arranging for the event, has announced Dietzel, 1958's man of destiny in college football, has definitely accepted the town's invitation and will be guest speaker before the Methodists Men's Club Friday night.

HENDRIX (85)
McCARTY (74)

The stir around Rayville stems from the fact that LSU went unbeaten in the 1958 football season, claimed the national championship, won the Sugar Bowl game with Clemson, brought Dietzel honors as "coach of the year," and the two Rayville High School products had a big hand in bringing it all about.

Hendrix, an end, captained the Bayou Bengals. This 185-pounder is in his senior year at LSU and is majoring in physical education. Tackle McCarty is a 200-pound junior majoring in geology.

Planning for the Friday program calls for a parade to form at the Rayville High campus, pass through the town about 4 p.m., and end at the Rayville High gymnasium where a special program is due to honor Hendrix, McCarty, and Dietzel. The ex-Rayville Hornet stars will be presented plaques from the citizens of Rayville. LSU alumni of the area will present a plaque to Coach Dietzel. The Methodist Men's supper will follow that night.

Northeast Cagers

Classroom examinations are over and the Northeast State basketball club, idle in the gym business the past week, gets back into action in a Gulf States Conference clash with the tough McNeese State Cowboys here Tuesday night.

The Feed Bag

It's the season for football banquets hereabouts. The Northeast State Indians will be given their annual grid supper Thursday evening at the Student Center on the campus; and the Neville High Tigers, who were honored at a special feed given by their dads over a week ago, will have their regular annual affair tomorrow night.

The Ouachita Lions were feted by their Lionettes here Thursday, and earlier in the week we journeyed to Ruston for the Louisiana Tech football banquet.

Northeast is trying to keep secret the idenity of its guest speaker until the night of the Redskin banquet, but the address is promised of "a well known coach from the midwest."

Accepting the hospitality of Coach Joe Aillet, his staff, and the Bulldogs at Louisiana Tech last Monday, we finally had our first chance to hear Justin Wilson, son of the late Harry D. Wilson who was for so long Louisiana's commissioner of agriculture, deliver many of his 'Cajun tales. Wilson is all the entertainer everybody who has ever heard him has been telling us.

In the midst of all his humor, Wilson dropped one gem for thought — that success should be measured by a person's happiness. Coach Bob Ellen of Ouachita, in attendance at the Tech fete, passed on Wilson's success gauge at the Lion supper Thursday.

In addition to all the awards presented by the various Ruston businesses and individuals to the Tech grid heroes, we were pleased to see Major L. J. Fox get a special plaque as recognition for his long years of service at Louisiana Tech although he is no longer actively coaching. Just thought it would be nice if Tech can do the same in other years for their other "jobs well done" in behalf of the Bulldogs. Possibly that of Kenneth Hewins, for many years boss of the Tech publicity department, who, in our opinion, has one of the best sports publicity operations of any college regardless of its size. There was a time when Hewins was "the whole department" — reporter, photographer, engraver and whatnot. In recent years the help of such men as Pete Dosher and Jess Covington lighten his load.

TUESDAY NIGHT

McKoin To Meet Terranova Here

Irish Johnny McKoin, state welterweight champion and currently north Louisiana's hottest fighter after his bloody decision over Al Boudreaux two weeks ago, faces Californian Joey Terranova Tuesday night at B&B Arena here in a 10-round main event.

Terranova, a tough, hard-to-hit battler from Los Angeles will only be McKoin's second foe in over five months. The Bastrop brawler came off a five-month layoff to beat Boudreaux for the state welter title before one of Monroe's bigger boxing crowds in some time.

Dewayne Garris, Monroe knockout artist, meets highly-rated former Golden Gloves champion Loen Langley in the top prelim. Langley, a Greenville, Miss., boy, scored 28 knockouts in 30 pro fights as an amateur.

Matchmaker Ray Kruger saw Langley fight as an amateur at Greenville and calls him "a real tough boy."

Young Ladell Pate of West Monroe will appear on the card against an unannounced opponent while Lee Crews and Jimmy Boyer, both of Bastrop, will tangle in another prelim.

Henry "Kid" Burton and Dynamite" Dean, two colored Monroe middleweights, will tangle in a third bout. Kruger hopes to line up another four-rounder before Tuesday and an exhibition featuring two of the West Monroe Athletic Club's amateurs is also slated.

All the preliminary matches will be four-rounders.

Prices will go back to the old scale for Tuesday night's card with reserved seats selling for $2.50, general admission for $1.25 and children for 60 cents. Ringside seats are on sale in Monroe at Fink's Clothing on DeSiard.

Nats Use Fast Break To Beat Cincy, 123-102

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The precision-smooth Syracuse Nationals used their fast-break to outrace the Cincinnati Royals 123-102 in a National Basketball Assn. game Saturday night.

The Nationals got added strength from their bench in defeating the Royals for the sixth time in seven games this season. The hosts shot to an 11-point margin at one stage in the opening quarter and increased it to 29 points midway in the third period.

The first club got off to a flashing start with outstanding performances by Dolph Schayes, John Kerr, Ed Conlin and Larry Costello.

The first - to - play outfit was largely responsible for the Nationals setting a new first half shooting percentage record of .610.

Auburn Rolls To 24th Win Over Georgia

Techmen Now Sole Owners Of 1st Place

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech's cagers took time out from final exams to pass a test of another sort here tonight, handing Northwestern State an 88-59 defeat to take over sole possession of the Gulf States Conference lead.

The win was Tech's fourteenth of the season and left the Bulldogs with a 4-0 GSC mark. NSC has won three and lost one in the GSC.

The Techmen, playing without starting guard Jim Tullos, hit a scorching 54 per cent of their shots from the field, while NSC was connecting on only 29.6 per cent.

Tech had four players in double figures, with Jack Moreland hitting 28, Ray Germany 20, Ron Woodward 18, and Ron Futrell 12.

Jimmy Leach had 15 and Larry Skinner 11 for the Demons. Tech dominated the backboards, getting 53 to 37 for NSC. Moreland grabbed 22 rebounds.

An overflow crowd of 6,000 saw the Bulldogs move in front early on two quick buckets by Moreland. NSC could never get closer than five points after the early minutes as Tech jumped to a 39-25 halftime lead.

Tech continued to build up its lead in the second half, moving to its largest margin of 31 points with five minutes left in the contest.

After exams, Tech goes to Hattiesburg to play Mississippi Southern Feb. 2.

Dodson Boys, Calvin Girls Win Crowns

CALVIN, La. (Special) —Dodson boys upset favored Cloutierville 50-46, and Calvin girls edged Winnfield, 48-43, in overtime to capture the championships of the Calvin Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Joe Evelyn Carpenter poured in 38 points to spark Calvin over Winnfield in the girls' finals. All-state Carol Garrett led Winnfield with 21 points. The score was tied at 40-40 at the conclusion of the regulation game.

Glen Smiley sacked 30 points to pace Dodson's win. Don Vercher was the losers' leader with 27 markers.

Calvin beat Dodson, 41-29, in the girls' semi-finals with Miss Carpenter scoring 14 for the winners and Sharon Carpenter leading Dodson with 12. Winnfield, sparked by Garrett's 31 points, beat Atlanta, 46-33, in the other division semi-final. Dorothy Bandy got 18 for Atlanta.

Cloutierville routed Winnfield, 51 19, in a morning quarter-final game. Vercher got 17 for the winners and Tommy Latham canned 7 for the losers.

Clourtierville then whipped Verda, 60-38, in the semi-finals with Vercher scoring 21 and James 13 for the losers. Dodson gained the finals by turning back Calvin, 54-46. Glen Smiley led the winners with 23 points and Max Evans got 32 for the losers.

Calvin's Max Evans won the boys' free throw contest with 42 of 50 and Calvin's Jo Carpenter hit 37 of 50 to take the girls' crown.

The boys' all-tournament team—Don Vercher, Cloutierville; Max Evans, Calvin; Jerry Barnes, Atlanta; Glen Smiley, Dodson; Thomas White, Cloutierville.

The girls' all-tournament —Dorothy Bandy, Atlanta; Carol Garrett, Winnfield; Jo Carpenter, Calvin; Elaine Taylor, Dodson; Shirley Key, Calvin; Dorothy Bates, Winnfield.

Wichita Rallies To Take 79-73 Win Over Loyola

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Wichita overcame an 11-point deficit in the last half to defeat Loyola of New Orleans 79-73 Saturday night.

Al Tate, with 28 points, led the Wichita surge, helped by Virgil Brady with 18 and Ron Heller with 13. Loyola's Bob McLaughlin took game honors with 29.

Loyola led 35-26 at the half and built an 11-point lead before Wichita caught up with 13 minutes left and went ahead to stay at 43-42 on Brady's field goal. The Wolfpack faded gradually after that.

Each team made 30 field goals, but Wichita sank 19 of 30 free throws while Loyola potted 13 of 17 and that proved the difference.

Oscar Scores 38 As Cincy Beats Xavier

CINCINNATI (AP)—Oscar Robertson pitched in 38 points Saturday afternoon as the fast-breaking University of Cincinnati Bearcats broke open their annual hometown rivalry game with Xavier University in the last half for a 92-66 basketball victory.

The game between the sixth rated Bearcats and Xavier's 1958 NIT champions was nationally televised.

Robertson turned in a brilliant scoring performance but had to share honors with Cincinnati's Bob Wiesenhahn, a 6 foot 4 sophomore who turned in a tremendous rebounding job. He also contributed 13 points to the Cincinnati cause.

Xavier's Musketeers never were ahead although they managed to pull into a tie three times in the first half.

The victory was Cincinnati's 11th in 13 games. Xavier has an 8-6 record.

AT FORT LAUDERDALE

Streit, Goodwin Meet For Crown

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Tiny Mrs. Marlene Streit of Toronto and dainty Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., a pair of five - foot swingers, won their semi - final matches Saturday and will face one another in the Sunday championship round if the Helen Lee Doherty golf tournament.

Mrs. Streit defeated Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., one up, and Miss Goodwin eliminated Barbara Mc Intire, Lake Park, Fla., 3 and 1.

They will play a 36-hole championship round for the title.

Mrs. Streit, the 1958 runner-up, was two down with three holes to play. But she won the last three in a row.

On 16, Miss Burns hit her tee shot just to the fringe of a par three green but recovered with two putts. Miss Burns missed a nine foot - putt for a bogey four.

On the 17th, Miss Burns drove down the middle of the fairway and a strong wind carried Mrs. Streit's ball into the woods. But she played an intentional slice through a two foot wide opening in the trees to within 10 yards of the green. She got down in par while Miss Burns took another bogey when her second shot went over the green.

Miss Burns was only seven feet from the cup on the 18th but she two - putted for a bogey five. Mrs. Streit dropped a six foot putt for a par that won the match.

Miss Goodwin won the first hole of her match and never trailed. The climax came on the 16th hole where Miss Goodwin hit a six iron shot to within four feet of the par three hole. But Miss Mc Intire put her drive in the water. Faced with a two - stroke penalty, she conceded the hole.

On the 17th, Miss Goodwin two putted from 15 feet for a par while Miss Mc Intire had a bogey five that ended the match.

Both matches were played in winds ranging from 20 to 35 miles an hour.

INDOOR TRACK

Morrow Takes 70-Yard Dash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bobby Morrow, a Texas speedster who won three Olympic gold medals, made an auspicious indoor track debut tonight by winning the 70 yard dash in the Evening Star games before a crowd of 5,300.

Morrow nosed out Ken Kave, of the Falcon track club, in 7.2 seconds. Morrow led for about 40 yards, dropped slightly behind Kave, anl then nosed into the lead at the tape. Dave Sime of Duke, who holds the meet record, was not here. He was entered but withdrew.

Lee Calhoun, North Carolina College, came back after sitting out a year's suspension and won the 70-yard high hurdles in 8.3 seconds. He defeated Elias Gilbert, Winston Salem Teachers, who won the event last year when Olympic champion Calhoun was not competing.

John Humcke, New York Athletic club, twisted and turned and tortured his way to a new meet record of 6:45.8 in the one-mile walk. The old record of 6:54.2 also was held by Humcke.

Glenn Davis, making his Eastern Indoor debut, failed to live up to expectations in the 600 yard run. The event was won by Nick Ellis, a big lad from Morgan State in 1:13.8. Josh Culbreath, Philadelphia Pioneer club, was second, a yard behind. Davis, Olympic champion in the 400 meter hurdles, ran second most of the way and was nosed out of that spot in the last two years.

Morrow clinched the meet's spring title by winning the 80-yard dash in 8.1 seconds, considerably shy of Sime's meet mark of 7.8 seconds. Robert Brown, unattached, was second in the 80 Kave was dead last.

Round Table Sets Record At Arcadia

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Round Table, carrying a staggering 132 pounds, set a new track record Saturday as he romped home by five lengths in the $28,250 San Marcos Handicap over a mile and one quarter on the grass at Santa Anita.

The time of 1:58 2-5 was also a new North American grass course record.

Spotting the field 15 to 26 pounds racing's all - time money winner led all the way around the rolling course and pulled away at will in the back stretch. Willie Shoemaker was looking back through the stretch as the table glided to the wire.

The winner's share of $16,700 boosted the Table's total earnings to $1,363,189.

Little Eddie Schmidt was second followed by Andrew Alan and Anxious Moment.

Round Table, the heavy favorite, paid $3.10, $2.60 and $2.20; Eddie Schmidt returned $4.90 and $3.20, and Andrew Alan $3.10.

Ray's Amoco To Play Eros Monday Night

BASTROP, La. (Special)—Ray's Amoco, currently sporting a record of one win and one loss, travels to Eros for an encounter with the strong Eros independent quint Monday night at 7 p.m.

Ray's nosed out the Eros team in their last meeting, 59-52, at the Beekman High School gym.

Starting for Ray's will be Big Paul Reed, 6-4 forward, Horace Chacey, 6-foot forward, guards Charlie Johnson and Ellis Kendall, and center Carlton Olstein, a 6-6 cager.

HOST GIRLS TRIUMPH

Forest Wins At Lake Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) —Forest boys routed Oak Grove, 52-27, and Lake Providence girls turned back Pioneer, 42-33, to win the championships of the annual Lake Providence Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Betty Johnson shot in 25 points to pace Lake Providence girls over Pioneer while the losers' Mary Ross led her team with 21 markers.

Glen Kelly sacked 22 points for Forest to take high-point honors in the boys' finals. Sammy King was high for Oak Grove with 12.

Forest crushed Tallulah, 70-23, in the semi-finals with Glen Kelly again the leading scorer with 20 points. Jerry Fairbanks was tops for Tallulah with 7 points.

Oak Grove gained the finals with a 27-26 squeaker over Lake Providence. Ronnie Myrick was high for the winners in the low-scoring game with 8 points while Paul Green got 11 for Lake Providence.

Lake Providence girls beat St. Francix Xavier of Vicksburg, 35-27, in the girls' semi-finals with Miss Johnson scoring 20 points. Stegall got 11 for the losers.

Pioneer whipped Oak Grove, 37-23, in the other girls' semi-final. Mary Ross got 25 for Pioneer and Barbara Richey scored 19 for Oak Grove.

Principal L. L. Kilgore and coach Jim Herrington of Lake Providence presented team trophies to the four finalists and individual awards to the squad mem bers.

Lee, Jefferson Take Honors In Cage Meet

Lee Junior High boys and Jefferson girls captured first place honors in the second annual Jefferson basketball tournament completed here last night.

The Lee quint edged West Monroe, 33-31, in the finals after dropping Swartz in the semi-final contest, 35-18. Howard topped the victors in the championship game, scoring 14 points. Worthey had 11 for West Monroe. In the semi-final, Adler's 11 paced Jefferson, while Freeman hit 14 for Swartz.

The host Jefferson girls downed Ouachita in the final contest, 45-32, as Courson netted 33 counters. Glenn had 22 for Ouachita. Courson again tallied 32 in the semi-final win over Lee, 53-33. McSherry collected 12 for Lee.

In consolation games the Fisk Union girls dumped Lee, 24-21, on 9 points by Delancey. Crowe dropped in 16 for the Lee sextet. Jefferson's boys tripped Swartz, 47-34, as Gannaway scored 18 for the winners and Ramsey had 17 for the losers

Kennedy tossed in 20 markers as Ouachita beat Fisk in a girls' semi-final tilt, while West Monroe nipped Jefferson in the boys' bracket, 30-29. Bowen had 23 for the losing girls, while Robinson topped the winning boys with 19 and Canal netted 18 for Jefferson.

Sportsmanship trophies went to Sterlington girls and Swartz boys.

Named to the all-tournament girls team were Glenn of Ouachita, Courson of Jefferson, Richey of Fisk, Hemphill of Sterlington, Rowan of Lee and Johnson of Jefferson.

Boys' team all-tournament selections were Heard, West Monroe, Fallin, Jefferson, Freeman, Swartz, and Howard and Saget of Lee.

Mills Tops At Foul Line In Southeastern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Don Mills of Kentucky has replaced Tulane's Vic Klinker as the top foul shooter in the Southeastern Conference but both Baliey Howell of Mississippi State and Gene Tormohlen of Tennessee continued to dominate field goal accuracy and rebounding.

The 6 - 6 Mills, a junior for the Wildcats, has connected with 66 foul shot tries in 78 attempts for a .846 average. Klinker dropped all the way to fifth with .808.

Howell, who leads in scoring with a 29.2 point - per - game average, has a .513 mark in field goal shooting, according to statistics released by SEC commissioner Bernie Moore's office Saturday. He has connected on 135 of 263 tries.

Teammate Jerry Keeton is second with an average of .487 on 57 of 117 attempts and Auburn's Jimmy Lee, who had been pressing Howell, fell to third with 55 of 115 for .478.

In rebounding, the 6 - 8 Tormohlen has pulled in 220 rebounds in 12 games for an 18.3 per game average while Howell is second. The Maroon ace has grabbed 208 in 14 games for a 14.9 average.

Memphis State Gains 65-63 Win Over Ole Miss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Big Jim Hockaday hit a field goal as the game ended Saturday night to give Memphis State University a 65 - 63 triumph over the Mississippi Rebels.

Mississippi, trailing by 15 points, staged a whirlwind rally to take a two point, 63 - 61 lead with less than four minutes to play.

Ivan Richmann grabbed the ball after Louis Griffin failed on a free shot to give the Rebels a two point lead. The Rebels froze the ball for two minutes until Skip Wolfe stole it and connected with a layup to deadlock the score at 63 - all with 1:40 to play.

Mississippi had another chance but again Memphis State got the ball and passed it around until, with two seconds to go, Hockaday scored the winning two points.

2 More Clubs Enter Local Tournament

Peacock Cleaners of Shreveport and the Ruston Independents, a team of Tech boys, have joined four other clubs as entries in next month's Merchants Independent Baksetball Tournament here, tourney promoter Fuzzy Huff announced yesterday.

Huff said entries are coming in slow for the tourney and he is anxious to have all the entries in a week before the tournament. He urges any teams interested to contact him at the Alvis Hotel. Huff hopes to have at least 12 teams in the meet.

First, second and third place trophies will be awarded in the tournament along with trophies for the best dressed team, the best coach, sportsmanship, most valuable player and the meet's high scorer. An all-tournament team will be selected.

Two door prizes will be given away, a barbeque pit and a cuff link set.

Huff said he hopes to have a high school girls game immediately preceding the finals of the tournament, to be held in the Neville gym.

Huff's team, Nancy's Steak House, Eros, Bastrop and First Presbyterian of Shreveport are other tournament entries.

Nancy's will hold a practice session at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Neville.

Knicks Take Overtime Win Over Pistons

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Braun's 30-foot set shot with 15 seconds left in an overtime period was the clincher as the New York Knicks defeated Detroit's Pistons 122-118 Saturday in a National Basketball Assn. game.

Braun's overhead set, his only field goal after the intermission, gave the Knicks a 120-116 lead and a cushion against Phil Jordon's hook shot for Detroit with eight seconds to go. The Pistons, trying for a steal of the ball, fouled Ray Felix on the ensuing pass in and the 6-11 Knick center closed out the scoring with two free throws as time ran out.

The Knicks, who led by 14 points midway in the second half and seemed headed for an easy victory, then fell apart in the face of the driving play of ex-Knicks Wally Dukes and Gene Shue. With that pair doing almost all the heavy work, Detroit moved from an 80-66 deficit into a 103-99 lead with 2:40 left in the fourth period.

The Knicks pulled up to a 105-all tie behind Ken Sears and Willie Naulls with 1:20 left. Then Dukes and New York's Richie Guerin traded fielders to send the game into overtime at 107-all.

In the extra period, Shue and George Yardley got the Pistons a 116-114 lead with 1:45 showing on the clock. Sears hit two free throws around a field goal by Naulls before Braun hit the clincher from the head of the free throw circle.

Sears led all scorers with 30 points. Dukes had 24, Yardley 23 and Shue 19 for the Pistons. It was New York's fifth victory in six games with Detroit.

Rebel Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Rebel League at 7 o'clock Monday night in West Monroe's city court room.

All parents of boys ages 13, 14 and 15 are urged to attend.

McCARTY (74)

Hendrix, an end, captained the Bayou Bengals. This 185-pounder is in his senior year at LSU and is majoring in physical education. Tackle McCarty is a 200-pound junior majoring in geology.

Planning for the Friday program calls for a parade to form at the Rayville High campus, pass through the town about 4 p.m., and end at the Rayville High gymnasium where a special program is due to honor Hendrix, McCarty, and Dietzel. The ex-Rayville Hornet stars will be presented plaques from the citizens of Rayville. LSU alumni of the area will present a plaque to Coach Dietzel. The Methodist Men's supper will follow that night.

Northeast Cagers

Classroom examinations are over and the Northeast State basketball club, idle in the gym business the past week, gets back into action in a Gulf States Conference clash with the tough McNeese State Cowboys here Tuesday night.

The Feed Bag

It's the season for football banquets hereabouts. The Northeast State Indians will be given their annual grid supper Thursday evening at the Student Center on the campus; and the Neville High Tigers, who were honored at a special feed given by their dads over a week ago, will have their regular annual affair tomorrow night.

The Ouachita Lions were feted by their Lionettes here Thursday, and earlier in the week we journeyed to Ruston for the Louisiana Tech football banquet.

Northeast is trying to keep secret the idenity of its guest speaker until the night of the Redskin banquet, but the address is promised of "a well known coach from the midwest."

Accepting the hospitality of Coach Joe Aillet, his staff, and the Bulldogs at Louisiana Tech last Monday, we finally had our first chance to hear Justin Wilson, son of the late Harry D. Wilson who was for so long Louisiana's commissioner of agriculture, deliver many of his 'Cajun tales. Wilson is all the entertainer everybody who has ever heard him has been telling us.

In the midst of all his humor, Wilson dropped one gem for thought — that success should be measured by a person's happiness. Coach Bob Ellen of Ouachita, in attendance at the Tech fete, passed on Wilson's success gauge at the Lion supper Thursday.

In addition to all the awards presented by the various Ruston businesses and individuals to the Tech grid heroes, we were pleased to see Major L. J. Fox get a special plaque as recognition for his long years of service at Louisiana Tech although he is no longer actively coaching. Just thought it would be nice if Tech can do the same in other years for their other "jobs well done" in behalf of the Bulldogs. Possibly that of Kenneth Hewins, for many years boss of the Tech publicity department, who, in our opinion, has one of the best sports publicity operations of any college regardless of its size. There was a time when Hewins was "the whole department" — reporter, photographer, engraver and whatnot. In recent years the help of such men as Pete Dosher and Jess Covington lighten his load.

TUESDAY NIGHT

McKoin To Meet Terranova Here

Irish Johnny McKoin, state welterweight champion and currently north Louisiana's hottest fighter after his bloody decision over Al Boudreaux two weeks ago, faces Californian Joey Terranova Tuesday night at B&B Arena here in a 10-round main event.

Terranova, a tough, hard-to-hit battler from Los Angeles will only be McKoin's second foe in over five months. The Bastrop brawler came off a five-month layoff to beat Boudreaux for the state welter title before one of Monroe's bigger boxing crowds in some time.

Dewayne Garris, Monroe knockout artist, meets highly-rated former Golden Gloves champion Loen Langley in the top prelim. Langley, a Greenville, Miss., boy, scored 28 knockouts in 30 pro fights as an amateur.

Matchmaker Ray Kruger saw Langley fight as an amateur at Greenville and calls him "a real tough boy."

Young Ladell Pate of West Monroe will appear on the card against an unannounced opponent while Lee Crews and Jimmy Boyer, both of Bastrop, will tangle in another prelim.

Henry "Kid" Burton and Dynamite" Dean, two colored Monroe middleweights, will tangle in a third bout. Kruger hopes to line up another four-rounder before Tuesday and an exhibition featuring two of the West Monroe Athletic Club's amateurs is also slated.

All the preliminary matches will be four-rounders.

Prices will go back to the old scale for Tuesday night's card with reserved seats selling for $2.50, general admission for $1.25 and children for 60 cents. Ringside seats are on sale in Monroe at Fink's Clothing on DeSiard.

Nats Use Fast Break To Beat Cincy, 123-102

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The precision-smooth Syracuse Nationals used their fast-break to outrace the Cincinnati Royals 123-102 in a National Basketball Assn. game Saturday night.

The Nationals got added strength from their bench in defeating the Royals for the sixth time in seven games this season. The hosts shot to an 11-point margin at one stage in the opening quarter and increased it to 29 points midway in the third period.

The first club got off to a flashing start with outstanding performances by Dolph Schayes, John Kerr, Ed Conlin and Larry Costello.

The first - to - play outfit was largely responsible for the Nationals setting a new first half shooting percentage record of .610.

Auburn Rolls To 24th Win Over Georgia

Tech Crushes Demons, 88-59

Techmen Now Sole Owners Of 1st Place

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech's cagers took time out from final exams to pass a test of another sort here tonight, handing Northwestern State an 88-59 defeat to take over sole possession of the Gulf States Conference lead.

The win was Tech's fourteenth of the season and left the Bulldogs with a 4-0 GSC mark. NSC has won three and lost one in the GSC.

The Techmen, playing without starting guard Jim Tullos, hit a scorching 54 per cent of their shots from the field, while NSC was connecting on only 29.6 per cent.

Tech had four players in double figures, with Jack Moreland hitting 28, Ray Germany 20, Ron Woodward 18, and Ron Futrell 12.

Jimmy Leach had 15 and Larry Skinner 11 for the Demons. Tech dominated the backboards, getting 53 to 37 for NSC. Moreland grabbed 22 rebounds.

An overflow crowd of 6,000 saw the Bulldogs move in front early on two quick buckets by Moreland. NSC could never get closer than five points after the early minutes as Tech jumped to a 39-25 halftime lead.

Tech continued to build up its lead in the second half, moving to its largest margin of 31 points with five minutes left in the contest.

After exams, Tech goes to Hattiesburg to play Mississippi Southern Feb. 2.

Dodson Boys, Calvin Girls Win Crowns

CALVIN, La. (Special) —Dodson boys upset favored Cloutierville 50-46, and Calvin girls edged Winnfield, 48-43, in overtime to capture the championships of the Calvin Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Joe Evelyn Carpenter poured in 38 points to spark Calvin over Winnfield in the girls' finals. All-state Carol Garrett led Winnfield with 21 points. The score was tied at 40-40 at the conclusion of the regulation game.

Glen Smiley sacked 30 points to pace Dodson's win. Don Vercher was the losers' leader with 27 markers.

Calvin beat Dodson, 41-29, in the girls' semi-finals with Miss Carpenter scoring 14 for the winners and Sharon Carpenter leading Dodson with 12. Winnfield, sparked by Garrett's 31 points, beat Atlanta, 46-33, in the other division semi-final. Dorothy Bandy got 18 for Atlanta.

Cloutierville routed Winnfield, 51 19, in a morning quarter-final game. Vercher got 17 for the winners and Tommy Latham canned 7 for the losers.

Clourtierville then whipped Verda, 60-38, in the semi-finals with Vercher scoring 21 and James 13 for the losers. Dodson gained the finals by turning back Calvin, 54-46. Glen Smiley led the winners with 23 points and Max Evans got 32 for the losers.

Calvin's Max Evans won the boys' free throw contest with 42 of 50 and Calvin's Jo Carpenter hit 37 of 50 to take the girls' crown.

The boys' all-tournament team—Don Vercher, Cloutierville; Max Evans, Calvin; Jerry Barnes, Atlanta; Glen Smiley, Dodson; Thomas White, Cloutierville.

The girls' all-tournament —Dorothy Bandy, Atlanta; Carol Garrett, Winnfield; Jo Carpenter, Calvin; Elaine Taylor, Dodson; Shirley Key, Calvin; Dorothy Bates, Winnfield.

Wichita Rallies To Take 79-73 Win Over Loyola

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Wichita overcame an 11-point deficit in the last half to defeat Loyola of New Orleans 79-73 Saturday night.

Al Tate, with 28 points, led the Wichita surge, helped by Virgil Brady with 18 and Ron Heller with 13. Loyola's Bob McLaughlin took game honors with 29.

Loyola led 35-26 at the half and built an 11-point lead before Wichita caught up with 13 minutes left and went ahead to stay at 43-42 on Brady's field goal. The Wolfpack faded gradually after that.

Each team made 30 field goals, but Wichita sank 19 of 30 free throws while Loyola potted 13 of 17 and that proved the difference.

Oscar Scores 38 As Cincy Beats Xavier

CINCINNATI (AP)—Oscar Robertson pitched in 38 points Saturday afternoon as the fast-breaking University of Cincinnati Bearcats broke open their annual hometown rivalry game with Xavier University in the last half for a 92-66 basketball victory.

The game between the sixth rated Bearcats and Xavier's 1958 NIT champions was nationally televised.

Robertson turned in a brilliant scoring performance but had to share honors with Cincinnati's Bob Wiesenhahn, a 6 foot 4 sophomore who turned in a tremendous rebounding job. He also contributed 13 points to the Cincinnati cause.

Xavier's Musketeers never were ahead although they managed to pull into a tie three times in the first half.

The victory was Cincinnati's 11th in 13 games. Xavier has an 8-6 record.

SPORTS

Streit, Goodwin Meet For Crown

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Tiny Mrs. Marlene Streit of Toronto and dainty Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., a pair of five - foot swingers, won their semi - final matches Saturday and will face one another in the Sunday championship round if the Helen Lee Doherty golf tournament.

Mrs. Streit defeated Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., one up, and Miss Goodwin eliminated Barbara Mc Intire, Lake Park, Fla., 3 and 1.

They will play a 36-hole championship round for the title.

Mrs. Streit, the 1958 runner-up, was two down with three holes to play. But she won the last three in a row.

On 16, Miss Burns hit her tee shot just to the fringe of a par three green but recovered with two putts. Miss Burns missed a nine foot - putt for a bogey four.

On the 17th, Miss Burns drove down the middle of the fairway and a strong wind carried Mrs. Streit's ball into the woods. But she played an intentional slice through a two foot wide opening in the trees to within 10 yards of the green. She got down in par while Miss Burns took another bogey when her second shot went over the green.

Miss Burns was only seven feet from the cup on the 18th but she two - putted for a bogey five. Mrs. Streit dropped a six foot putt for a par that won the match.

Miss Goodwin won the first hole of her match and never trailed. The climax came on the 16th hole where Miss Goodwin hit a six iron shot to within four feet of the par three hole. But Miss Mc Intire put her drive in the water. Faced with a two - stroke penalty, she conceded the hole.

On the 17th, Miss Goodwin two putted from 15 feet for a par while Miss Mc Intire had a bogey five that ended the match.

Both matches were played in winds ranging from 20 to 35 miles an hour.

INDOOR TRACK

Morrow Takes 70-Yard Dash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bobby Morrow, a Texas speedster who won three Olympic gold medals, made an auspicious indoor track debut tonight by winning the 70 yard dash in the Evening Star games before a crowd of 5,300.

Morrow nosed out Ken Kave, of the Falcon track club, in 7.2 seconds. Morrow led for about 40 yards, dropped slightly behind Kave, anl then nosed into the lead at the tape. Dave Sime of Duke, who holds the meet record, was not here. He was entered but withdrew.

Lee Calhoun, North Carolina College, came back after sitting out a year's suspension and won the 70-yard high hurdles in 8.3 seconds. He defeated Elias Gilbert, Winston Salem Teachers, who won the event last year when Olympic champion Calhoun was not competing.

John Humcke, New York Athletic club, twisted and turned and tortured his way to a new meet record of 6:45.8 in the one-mile walk. The old record of 6:54.2 also was held by Humcke.

Glenn Davis, making his Eastern Indoor debut, failed to live up to expectations in the 600 yard run. The event was won by Nick Ellis, a big lad from Morgan State in 1:13.8. Josh Culbreath, Philadelphia Pioneer club, was second, a yard behind. Davis, Olympic champion in the 400 meter hurdles, ran second most of the way and was nosed out of that spot in the last two years.

Morrow clinched the meet's spring title by winning the 80-yard dash in 8.1 seconds, considerably shy of Sime's meet mark of 7.8 seconds. Robert Brown, unattached, was second in the 80. Kave was dead last.

Round Table Sets Record At Arcadia

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Round Table, carrying a staggering 132 pounds, set a new track record Saturday as he romped home by five lengths in the $28,250 San Marcos Handicap over a mile and one quarter on the grass at Santa Anita.

The time of 1:58 2-5 was also a new North American grass course record.

Spotting the field 15 to 26 pounds racing's all - time money winner led all the way around the rolling course and pulled away at will in the back stretch. Willie Shoemaker was looking back through the stretch as the table glided to the wire.

The winner's share of $16,700 boosted the Table's total earnings to $1,363,189.

Little Eddie Schmidt was second followed by Andrew Alan and Anxious Moment.

Round Table, the heavy favorite, paid $3.10, $2.60 and $2.20; Eddie Schmidt returned $4.90 and $3.20, and Andrew Alan $3.10.

Ray's nosed out the Eros team in their last meeting, 59-52, at the Beekman High School gym.

Starting for Ray's will be Big Paul Reed, 6-4 forward, Horace Chacey, 6-foot forward, guards Charlie Johnson and Ellis Kendall, and center Carlton Olstein, a 6-6 cager.

HOST GIRLS TRIUMPH

Forest Wins At Lake Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) —Forest boys routed Oak Grove, 52-27, and Lake Providence girls turned back Pioneer, 42-33, to win the championships of the annual Lake Providence Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Betty Johnson shot in 25 points to pace Lake Providence girls over Pioneer while the losers' Mary Ross led her team with 21 markers.

Glen Kelly sacked 22 points for Forest to take high-point honors in the boys' finals. Sammy King was high for Oak Grove with 12.

Forest crushed Tallulah, 70-23, in the semi-finals with Glen Kelly again the leading scorer with 20 points. Jerry Fairbanks was tops for Tallulah with 7 points.

Oak Grove gained the finals with a 27-26 squeaker over Lake Providence. Ronnie Myrick was high for the winners in the low-scoring game with 8 points while Paul Green got 11 for Lake Providence.

Lake Providence girls beat St. Francix Xavier of Vicksburg, 35-27, in the girls' semi-finals with Miss Johnson scoring 20 points. Stegall got 11 for the losers.

Pioneer whipped Oak Grove, 37-23, in the other girls' semi-final. Mary Ross got 25 for Pioneer and Barbara Richey scored 19 for Oak Grove.

Principal L. L. Kilgore and coach Jim Herrington of Lake Providence presented team trophies to the four finalists and individual awards to the squad members.

Lee, Jefferson Take Honors In Cage Meet

Lee Junior High boys and Jefferson girls captured first place honors in the second annual Jefferson basketball tournament completed here last night.

The Lee quint edged West Monroe, 33-31, in the finals after dropping Swartz in the semi-final contest, 35-18. Howard topped the victors in the championship game, scoring 14 points. Worthey had 11 for West Monroe. In the semi-final, Adler's 11 paced Jefferson, while Freeman hit 14 for Swartz.

The host Jefferson girls downed Ouachita in the final contest, 45-32, as Courson netted 33 counters. Glenn had 22 for Ouachita. Courson again tallied 32 in the semi-final win over Lee, 53-38. McSherry collected 12 for Lee.

In consolation games the Fisk Union girls dumped Lee, 24-21, on 9 points by Delancey. Crowe dropped in 16 for the Lee sextet. Jefferson's boys tripped Swartz, 47-34, as Gannaway scored 18 for the winners and Ramsey had 17 for the losers

Kennedy tossed in 20 markers as Ouachita beat Fisk in a girls' semi-final tilt, while West Monroe nipped Jefferson in the boys' bracket, 30-29. Bowen had 23 for the losing girls, while Robinson topped the winning boys with 19 and Canal netted 18 for Jefferson.

Sportsmanship trophies went to Sterlington girls and Swartz boys.

Named to the all-tournament girls team were Glenn of Ouachita, Courson of Jefferson, Richey of Fisk, Hemphill of Sterlington, Rowan of Lee and Johnson of Jefferson.

Boys' team all-tournament selections were Heard, West Monroe, Fallin, Jefferson, Freeman, Swartz, and Howard and Saget of Lee.

Mills Tops At Foul Line In Southeastern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Don Mills of Kentucky has replaced Tulane's Vic Klinker as the top foul shooter in the Southeastern Conference but both Baliey Howell of Mississippi State and Gene Tormohlen of Tennessee continued to dominate field goal accuracy and rebounding.

The 6 - 6 Mills, a junior for the Wildcats, has connected with 66 foul shot tries in 78 attempts for a .846 average. Klinker dropped all the way to fifth with .808.

Howell, who leads in scoring with a 29.2 point - per - game average, has a .513 mark in field goal shooting, according to statistics released by SEC commissioner Bernie Moore's office Saturday. He has connected on 135 of 263 tries.

Teammate Jerry Keeton is second with an average of .487 on 57 of 117 attempts and Auburn's Jimmy Lee, who had been pressing Howell, fell to third with 55 of 115 for .478.

In rebounding, the 6 - 8 Tormohlen has pulled in 220 rebounds in 12 games for an 18.3 per game average while Howell is second. The Maroon ace has grabbed 208 in 14 games for a 14.9 average.

Memphis State Gains 65-63 Win Over Ole Miss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Big Jim Hockaday hit a field goal as the game ended Saturday night to give Memphis State University a 65 - 63 triumph over the Mississippi Rebels.

Mississippi, trailing by 15 points, staged a whirlwind rally to take a two point, 63 - 61 lead with less than four minutes to play.

Ivan Richmann grabbed the ball after Louis Griffin failed on a free shot to give the Rebels a two point lead. The Rebels froze the ball for two minutes until Skip Wolfe stole it and connected with a layup to deadlock the score at 63 - all with 1:40 to play.

Mississippi had another chance but again Memphis State got the ball and passed it around until, with two seconds to go, Hockaday scored the winning two points.

2 More Clubs Enter Local Tournament

Peacock Cleaners of Shreveport and the Ruston Independents, a team of Tech boys, have joined four other clubs as entries in next month's Merchants Independent Baksetball Tournament here, tourney promoter Fuzzy Huff announced yesterday.

Huff said entries are coming in slow for the tourney and he is anxious to have all the entries in a week before the tournament. He urges any teams interested to contact him at the Alvis Hotel. Huff hopes to have at least 12 teams in the meet.

First, second and third place trophies will be awarded in the tournament along with trophies for the best dressed team, the best coach, sportsmanship, most valuable player and the meet's high scorer. An all-tournament team will be selected.

Two door prizes will be given away, a barbeque pit and a cuff link set.

Huff said he hopes to have a high school girls game immediately preceding the finals of the tournament, to be held in the Neville gym.

Huff's team, Nancy's Steak House, Eros, Bastrop and First Presbyterian of Shreveport are other tournament entries.

Nancy's will hold a practice session at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Neville.

Knicks Take Overtime Win Over Pistons

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Braun's 30-foot set shot with 15 seconds left in an overtime period was the clincher as the New York Knicks defeated Detroit's Pistons 122-118 Saturday in a National Basketball Assn. game.

Braun's overhead set, his only field goal after the intermission, gave the Knicks a 120-116 lead and a cushion against Phil Jordon's hook shot for Detroit with eight seconds to go. The Pistons, trying for a steal of the ball, fouled Ray Felix on the ensuing pass in and the 6-11 Knick center closed out the scoring with two free throws as time ran out.

The Knicks, who led by 14 points midway in the second half and seemed headed for an easy victory, then fell apart in the face of the driving play of ex-Knicks Wally Dukes and Gene Shue. With that pair doing almost all the heavy work, Detroit moved from an 80-66 deficit into a 193-99 lead with 2:40 left in the fourth period.

The Knicks pulled up to a 105-all tie behind Ken Sears and Willie Naulls with 1:20 left. Then Dukes and New York's Richie Guerin traded fielders to send the game into overtime at 107-all.

In the extra period, Shue and George Yardley got the Pistons a 116-114 lead with 1:45 showing on the clock. Sears hit two free throws around a field goal by Naulls before Braun hit the clincher from the head of the free throw circle.

Sears led all scorers with 30 points. Dukes had 24, Yardley 23 and Shue 19 for the Pistons. It was New York's fifth victory in six games with Detroit.

Rebel Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Rebel League at 7 o'clock Monday night in West Monroe's city court room.

All parents of boys ages 13, 14 and 15 are urged to attend.

Demaret Tops Thunderbird Field After Third Round

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Flamboyant Jimmy Demaret forged into the lead of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament Saturday at the end of the third round.

The fashionable Texan, who plays out of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. ruined par 71 of the Thunderbird Country Club with a 64, which gave him a 54-hole score of 199 and a firm two-stroke lead over his nearest rival.

Demaret, who won this tournament in 1953, 1956 and 1957, toured the premises in 33-31—64 for the par 36-35—71 test.

Alone at 201 was young Wesley Ellis Jr., another Texas-born pro from Aldecress, N. J., with 34-34—68. Tied at 203 were Ken Venturi, last year's winner, with a 68, and Bo Wininger who matched Demaret's 64 for the round.

Unheralded Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., who led the field going into the round, dropped back after two straight 66s to a 72 and a tie at 204 with five other pros.

They were Billy Maxwell, 68; Lloyd Mangrum, with his third straight 68; Jack Burke Jr., 68; Masters champion Arnold Palmer, 67, and Fred Hawkins, 66.

Venturi, from San Francisco, and Ellis took a momentary lead after nine holes. But Venturi landed in a trap and behind a tree on the 16th and 17th holes for bogeys and fell back, when Ellis just couldn't hold the 48-year-old Demaret.

Tied at 205 were Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., with a 66, and Gene Littler, San Diego, 69. And one shot behind them were Canada's Stan Leonard 68, and Doug Ford with a 73.

U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt's 70 gave him 207 and a tie with Julius Boros 67; Lionel Hebert 67; Tommy Jacobs 69, and Bob Rosburg 71.

"This is a good driving course and I usually am a good driver," said Demaret, explaining his triumphs on Thunderbird's 6,800-yard course.

Jimmy drove well. He had seven birdies, missed only one green and none of his putts measured more than 10 feet. He got into a trap on the 420-yard fifth but banged out 30 inches from the pin and got his par.

His best putt, perhaps, was a downhill 10-footer on the 15th.

The 27-year old Ferree, who held or shared the lead the first two rounds, said he simply couldn't match his previous efforts.

"I've blown leads before," said the good natured ex-University of North Carolina Star.

The final round is set for Sunday.

SARAZEN DEFENDING CHAMP

PGA Tourney To List Record Field

By WHITNEY MARTIN

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — With the field a reasonable facsimile of that of a winter tour event of a few years ago, the Professional Golfers' Assn. Seniors' Tournament will start Tuesday at the PGA National Golf Club with a record entry list.

Such names as Horton Smith, Jimmy Thomson, Jug McSpaden, Dick Metz, Paul Runyan, Toney Penna and Ky Laffoon have been added to a list that already included Gene Sarazen, Al Watrous, Mortie Dutra, Sam Byrd, Joe Turnesa and Tony Manero for the 20th renewal of the competition for players who must have reached the half century mark in years.

Nearly 300 of these playing and teaching veterans will take part, their ages ranging from the barely 50 of Clarence Doser of Rockville, Md., to the venerable 85 of W. H. "Bert" Way, dean of American professionals.

Sarazen is the defending champion, and to give an idea of the class it takes to win he had rounds of 73-71-74-70 for a 288 total over a tough course. It was his second victory. He also won in 1954.

There are two three-time winners, both still competing. Eddie Williams of Louisville, Ky., won in 1942, 1945 and 1946, and Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., won in 1950, 1951 and 1957. Jock Hutchison Sr. is a two-time winner.

The competition is divided into age groups for players 50-54, 55-59, 60-64, 65-69, 70-74, 75-79 and 80 and over. Two rounds will determine the class champions, but the championship proper is 72 holes of medal play.

Ironically, Sarazen, in the 55-59 group last year, did not win in his group, but won the 72-hole competition.

Thirty-three sectional champions won all-expense trips to the tournament. The prize money will total more than $10,000, with the winner receiving $1,200 and his expenses to England to meet the British champion. Last year Sarazen was defeated by England's Norman Sutton for the world crown.

The tournament will run through next Sunday.

20 Entered In West Monroe Cage Tourney

Twelve boys' teams and eight girls' squads have entered the annual West Monroe High School basketball tournament to be held Jan. 29-31, Coach Dan McClure announced last night.

Preliminary games for the three - day single elimination meet will be played Thursday and Friday, with semi-finals and finals slated for Saturday.

Favored among the boys' teams are Jerry Lovett's Calhoun quint and Neville, coached by George Davis. West Monroe and St. Matthews have also entered fine teams.

Other boys' quints lined up for the tourney are Choudrant, Eros, Bonita, Bastrop, Chatam, Ouachita, Southside and Mer Rouge.

Top choices in the girls' bracket are Ouachita and Calhoun, with Chatham, Mer Rouge, Bastrop, Neville, Eros and West Monroe also entered.

Aging Petare Takes Royal Palm Event

MIAMI (UPI)—Aging Venezuelan champion Petare pulled one of the most amazing feats in horse racing at Hialeah Saturday as he turned back some of the best U.S. handicap stars in the $33,300 Royal Palm Handicap, his first start in this country.

The eight-year-old Petare flew in from Caracas only last Monday night along with his jockey, Gustavo Avila, and with only one sprint workout showed himself a true champion.

Petare, owned by Anselmo A. Dorato of Caracas, easily whipped two of America's finest stakes performers in a confident surge down the long Hialeah stretch.

Sharpsburg finished second, three-quarters of a length behind the South American champion, and three lengths in front of the 3-4 favorite, Nadir.

Petare ran the mile and one eighth in 1:48:3, remarkable time over a track rated no better than good after 24 hours of drizzling rain.

The considerable Latin American portion of the crowd of 21,175 went wild as Avila rolled the long-legged Petare under the wire hardly touching him with his whip.

Unfortunately, Petare had not been nominated for the $100,000 Widener Handicap Feb. 21, for which this race was a tune-up.

Middleweight boxer Henry Hank of Louisville is a zoo attendant when not fighting.

Jet Colonel Takes Pelleteri Handicap

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jet Colonel flashed his vaunted speed in the stretch Saturday to post a three-length victory in the $12,600 Pelleteri Handicap and wrap up the sprint championship at the Fair Grounds.

The 5-year-old son of Jet Pilot, owned by Reverie Knoll Farm and B. W. Landy, was breezing as he went under the wire in the six furlong feature with a comfortable lead over W. Hal Bishop's Liberal Art.

Pete's Folly, another part of the three-horse Bishop entry, finished third.

Jockey Johnny Heckmann had to use his whip only sparingly on the handsome speedster, who negotiated the distance in 1:11.4. As the 7-5 favorite of the 14,832 fans, Jet Colonel returned $4.80, $3.20 and $2.80.

The Bishop entry, third choice in the betting, returned $3.40 and $3.20. T. A. Grissom's Shoerullah took the No. four spot.

Jet Colonel was among the front runners when the seven - horse field left the gate. Liberal Art moved out to a three-length lead as Heckmann took Jet Colonel back for a breathing spell.

Liberal Art still had a good edge when the field swung for home, but Heckmann called on Jet Colonel for speed and the Reverie Knoll color bearer responded brilliantly.

The victory was worth $8,775 and a handsome trophy for Jet Colonel's owner. The race was named for the late Anthony Pelleteri, who headed a group that saved the Fair Grounds from going under in the early 1940s.

The card was marred by a three-horse spill in the third race. Jockey Jack Fieselman was taken to a hospital where his condition was reported as not serious. Fieselman was board Wisemar, who was involved in the pileup with Adios Cue and Xalapa Boy. Jockey Ralph Borgemenke on Adios Cue and Bob Duran on Xalapa Boy were uninjured. Borgemenke came back to win the fourth race aboard Piercing ($40.20) and scored with Royal Guill ($70.80) in the seventh.

Betting on the day's card amounted to $713,688.

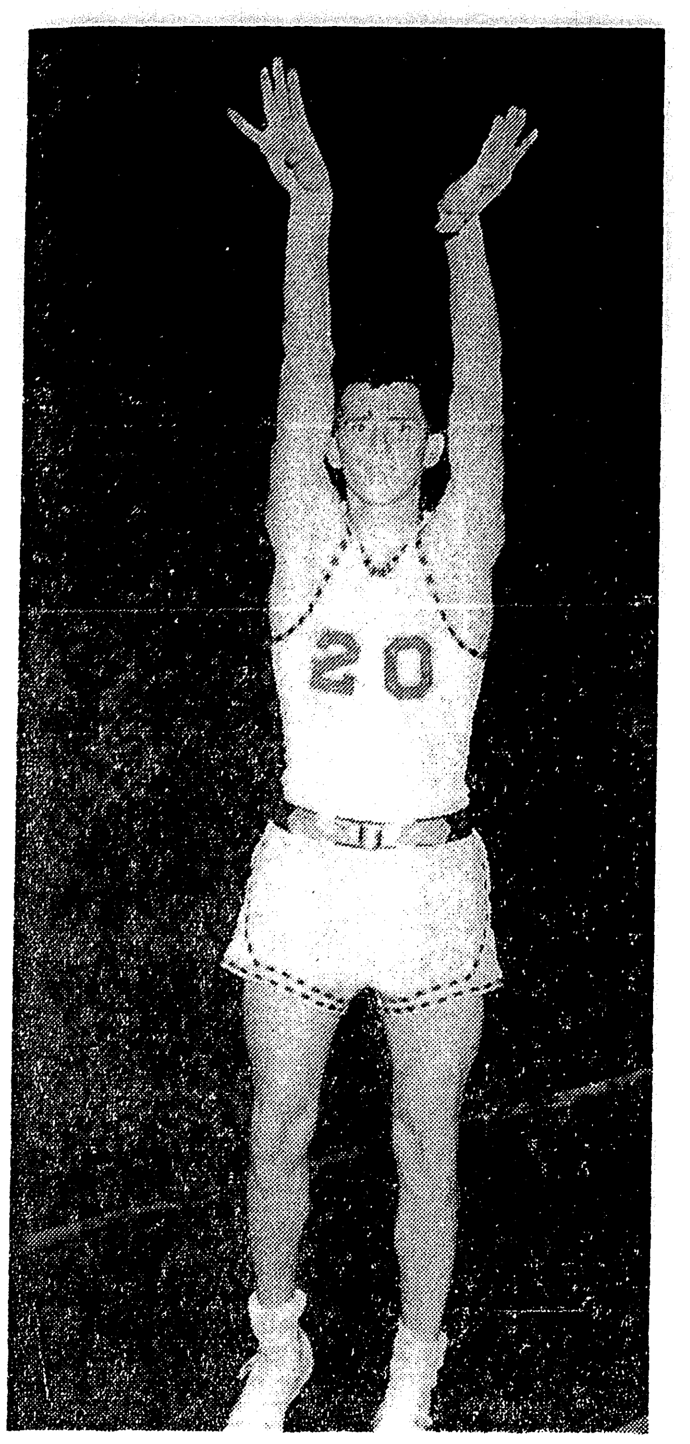
SOX HIRE YORK

BOSTON (AP)—Rudy York, 45, former home - run hitting first baseman, Saturday night was named a Boston Red Sox coach replacing batting practice pitcher Paul Schreiber.



VALUED RESERVE — Larry Stegall, Northeast's No. 1 sub at guard, will see plenty of action of relief of Sid Bradley and Mickey Kitchens Tuesday night when the local Indians host McNeese in a Gulf State Conference game. Stegall, a 5-11 junior, hails from Desloge, Mo. (Staff photo by Bill Coleman)

WRESTLING

Tall Newcomer Here Tomorrow

Giant newcomer Bob Stovall, 230 pounds and 6 feet, 7 inches tall will team with pink-haired Pretty Boy Collins against Harvey Cole and George Curtis in Monday night's main wrestling event at the B&B Arena.

Two one-fall preliminaries will open tomorrow's card. The main event will have a 90-minute limit with two falls to win.

Stovall is advertised as a former cowboy from the Dakota badlands. Stovall worked on cattle ranches but turned wrestler not long ago — probably because he got too big to sit on a horse.

Collins, who came here as a blond and turned up with green hair last week, has promised to have "shocking pink" hair this week.

"His hair is likely to be any color this time," says promoter August Baumgartner.

Cole, who made his local debut last week, has shown Monroe fans some good wrestling and he and Curtis should make a good team. Both boys are scientific grapplers with a wide variety of holds.

State heavyweight champion Bill Barney is under fire from other wrestlers for his failure to defend his title. Baumgartner says Bill is still getting "some challenges", and is expected to defend his belt in a few weeks.

Because he seems to be in no hurry to put his title on the line, Barney is being called a coward by the prospective challengers. Bill isn't talking.

Press Raps U.S. Showing In World Meet

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chilean newspapers and spectators at the World Amateur Basketball Championship continually are growing more dissatisfied with the play of the favored U.S. team.

Although undefeated in three preliminary games and two in the final round robin of the tournament, the United States has failed to impress in every game except one.

The Chileans expected the United States, where the game was invented and is played more than in any other nation, to be represented by a top flight team which would give an exhibition of the way the game should be played.

Instead, the Air Force All-Stars, who represent the defending nation, have played slow and sloppy ball. Friday night they staggered to a 54-53 victory over a weak Puerto Rican team after scoring only 25 points in the first half.

The influential El Mercurio, largest newspaper in Chile, said in Saturday's editions: "The team that is defending its title of world champion demonstrated once more that it does not rate in quality or individual performance with other representative U.S. teams.

"Its players play precisely to win but don't give the impression of confidence or positiveness in play that is expected of a team of this category. This team is not up to the quality we have been accustomed to expect from a U.S. representative."

Steve Souchock Signed To Pilot Richmond Club

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Steve Souchock, who spent 7½ years in the major leagues as a first baseman and outfielder, Saturday night was named manager of the Richmond Virginians of the International League.

The announcement of his appointment was the first move on the Richmond front by the world champion New York Yankees since they took over full ownership of the club earlier this week. The next step is expected to be the naming of a general manager.

Souchock, 39, managed Binghamton, the Yankees' farm team in the class A Eastern League, the past two seasons. He won the pennant in 1957 and captured playoff honors in 1958, winning the first half of a split season and finishing sixth the second half.

Tennessee's football team wore nylon helmets during the 1958 season. Coach Bowden Wyatt says they do not crack and can be washed.

OUACHITA INVADES BOSSIER

Rebels, Tigers, Irish Host District Foes Tuesday Night

All four Twin City high school cage teams face stiff district competition Tuesday night as West Monroe, Neville and St. Matthews host league foes on the home floors, while Ouachita takes to the road for a loop encounter.

In local action Neville battles Jonesboro-Hodge in a district 2-AA scrap, West Monroe tangles with Byrd in a 1-AAA contest and St. Matthews meets 2-A opponent Winnsboro. The Lions invade Bossier City in another 1-AAA scramble to complete the night's schedule.

West Monroe's Rebels, fresh from their first loop win over Ouachita, 45-42, Friday night, face a Byrd team that has won two out of three district games. Ouachita handed the Yellow Jackets their lone setback, 60-39, here a couple of weeks ago. West Monroe has suffered losses to Bossier City and Bastrop.

The Rebs, after a two-point victory over Neville, 60-58, dropped three straight before downing Ouachita. Coach L. V. Norris' West Monroe quint has a year's slate of nine wins against eight defeats.

Neville and Jonesboro, both standing at 1-1 against league competition, will be fighting to hold runnerup spot to Ruston in 2-AA play. Coach George Davis' charges have won 22 games in 27 outings this season. The Tigers' latest conquest was a 72-26 verdict over loop rival Haynesville. Jonesboro - Hodge romped over Neville early in the season, 73-48.

Ruston's Bearcats hold top ranking in the race with a 2-0 mark.

Ouachita meets the district leader in Bossier City. The Bossier club has a perfect 3-0 league slate, while Ouachita fell to 1-1 after the loss to West Monroe. H. H. Holliman's Lions victory over Byrd was their only league win, and they have a season mark of eight wins and fourteen defeats.

Coach Jim Mahoney's St. Matthews squad leads the southern division of district 2-A with a 2-0 mark, closely followed by Tuesday night's foe, Winnsboro, with a 1-0 record. After a great start this year the Irish have slumped slightly to a 23-9 mark for the season.

Olmedo Moves To Australian Finals

By RICHARD VOUMARD

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI)—Alex Olmedo, undaunted by an injury, Barry Mackay's serves and a "strike" by the ball boys, Saturday became the first foreign tennis player to reach the men's singles final at the Australian championships since 1951.

Olmedo, of Peru and Los Angeles, defeated Mackay, his Davis Cup teammate from Dayton, Ohio, 3-6, 8-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Olmedo's opponent in Monday's final will be Neale Fraser, who easily ousted Bob Mark in their all-Australian semi-final 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Olmedo, star of the recent United States Davis Cup triumph over this country, is the game's newest hero to thousands of fans here and in the Americas. But Australian ball boys probably will be happy to see the last of Alex. Five of Adelaide's best ball chasers went on strike before Saturday's match, complaining bitterly about Olmedo's court manners and curt commands.

The kids finally relented and went to work after tournament officials talked to them. An hour and 55 minutes later, Olmedo became the first foreigner to reach the final since Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., won the title in 1951.

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis and Jose Arilla of Spain won the junior doubles crown by defeating Maurice Hobbs and Noel Holland, 6-2, 6-1. Buchholz, who will play Australia's Marty Mulligan Monday for the junior singles title, was the best player in the match.

Olmedo has been hampered by a pulled stomach muscle, a recurrence of an old injury, since Jan. 7. He was forced to withdraw from the West Australian championships, dropped out of the doubles play here and considered quitting the singles play here.

Once he sensed victory in the final set Saturday, Alex went all out for the first time since he injured the muscle.

He gave the 4,000 fans, sweltering with the players in 96-degree heat, a glimpse of the power and speed that wrenched the Davis Cup from Australia. During that fifth set, Olmedo hammered home his hard serves, stormed the net for the first time in the match and cracked Mackay's hard service.

Sub Goalie Stars In Red Wing Victory

DETROIT (AP)—Bob Perreault, a pudgy off-season bartender filling in for the injured Terry Sawchuk, joined Gordie Howe in the starring role Saturday and paced the Detroit Red Wings to a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

The National Hockey League matinee contest was witnessed by 11,423 paying spectators at Olympia Stadium and a national television audience.

The victory was Detroit's second straight—both over the Hawks—following the club's most disastrous slump in years. This was the Red Wings' first home ice victory of 1959 and only the team's third triumph in its last 17 games

Howe's performance lifted the 30-year-old veteran over the 20-goal mark for the 10th straight season. Nine times an all - star team selection—six of them on the first unit—Howe now has a good chance to surpass his 33-goal performance of last year.

Perreault, a balding minor league veteran who will celebrate his 28th birthday next Thursday, was tended goal less than a dozen times in the big leagues but he played the part of an all-star.

He kicked out 24 Chicago shots eight in each period, and came up with spectacular saves in the late stages when the Black Hawks put on a great rush.

Perreault is on loan to Detroit from Hershey, Pa. of the American League and the Red Wings have won both games since he has been substituting for Sawchuk, out with a shoulder injury.

Demaret Tops Thunderbird Field After Third Round

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Flamboyant Jimmy Demaret forged into the lead of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament Saturday at the end of the third round.

The fashionable Texan, who plays out of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. ruined par 71 of the Thunderbird Country Club with a 64, which gave him a 54-hole score of 199 and a firm two-stroke lead over his nearest rival.

Demaret, who won this tournament in 1953, 1956 and 1957, toured the premises in 33-31—64 for the par 36-35—71 test.

Alone at 201 was young Wesley Ellis Jr., another Texas-born pro from Aldecress, N. J., with 34-34—68. Tied at 203 were Ken Venturi, last year's winner, with a 68, and Bo Wininger who matched Demaret's 64 for the round.

Unheralded Jim Ferree of Winston-Salem, N. C., who led the field going into the round, dropped back after two straight 66s to a 72 and a tie at 204 with five other pros.

They were Billy Maxwell, 68; Lloyd Mangrum, with his third straight 68; Jack Burke Jr., 68; Masters champion Arnold Palmer, 67, and Fred Hawkins, 66.

Venturi, from San Francisco, and Ellis took a momentary lead after nine holes. But Venturi landed in a trap and behind a tree on the 16th and 17th holes for bogeys and fen back, when Ellis just couldn't hold the 48-year-old Demaret.

Tied at 205 were Ernie Vossler of Midland, Tex., with a 66, and Gene Littler, San Diego, 69. And one shot behind them were Canada's Stan Leonard 68, and Doug Ford with a 73.

U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt's 70 gave him 207 and a tie with Julius Boros 67; Lionel Hebert 67; Tommy Jacobs 69, and Bob Rosburg 71.

"This is a good driving course and I usually am a good driver," said Demaret, explaining his triumphs on Thunderbird's 6,800-yard course.

Jimmy drove well. He had seven birdies, missed only one green and none of his putts measured more than 10 feet. He got into a trap on the 420-yard fifth but banged out 30 inches from the pin and got his par.

His best putt, perhaps, was a downhill 10-footer on the 15th.

The 27-year-old Ferree, who held or shared the lead the first two rounds, said he simply couldn't match his previous efforts.

"I've blown leads before," said the good natured ex-University of North Carolina Star.

The final round is set for Sunday.

Jet Colonel Takes Pelleteri Handicap

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jet Colonel flashed his vaunted speed in the stretch Saturday to post a three-length victory in the $12,600 Pelleteri Handicap and wrap up the sprint championship at the Fair Grounds.

The 5-year-old son of Jet Pilot, owned by Reverie Knoll Farm and B. W. Landy, was breezing as he went under the wire in the six furlong feature with a comfortable lead over W. Hal Bishop's Liberal Art.

Pete's Folly, another part of the three-horse Bishop entry, finished third.

Jockey Johnny Heckmann had to use his whip only sparingly on the handsome speedster, who negotiated the distance in 1:11.4. As the 7-5 favorite of the 14,832 fans, Jet Colonel returned $4.80, $3.20 and $2.80.

The Bishop entry, third choice in the betting, returned $3.40 and $3.20. T. A. Grissom's Shoerullah took the No. four spot.

Jet Colonel was among the front runners when the seven - horse field left the gate. Liberal Art moved out to a three-length lead as Heckmann took Jet Colonel back for a breathing spell.

Liberal Art still had a good edge when the field swung for home, but Heckmann called on Jet Colonel for speed and the Reverie Knoll color bearer responded brilliantly.

The victory was worth $8,775 and a handsome trophy for Jet Colonel's owner. The race was named for the late Anthony Pelleteri, who headed a group that saved the Fair Grounds from going under in the early 1940s.

The card was marred by a three-horse spill in the third race. Jockey Jack Fieselman was taken to a hospital where his condition was reported as not serious. Fieselman was board Wisemar, who was involved in the pileup with Adios Cue and Xalapa Boy. Jockey Ralph Borgemenke on Adios Cue and Bob Duran on Xalapa Boy were uninjured. Borgemenke came back to win the fourth race aboard Piercing ($40.20) and scored with Royal Guill ($70.80) in the seventh.

Betting on the day's card amounted to $713,688.

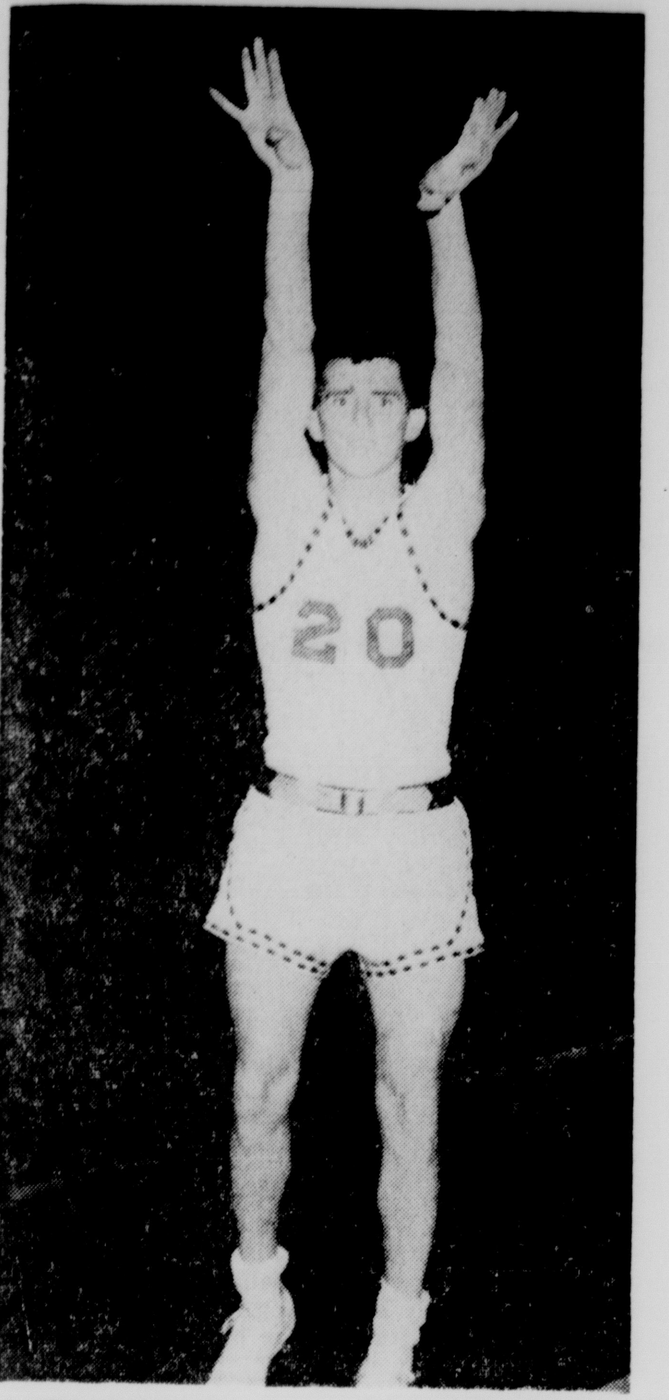
SOX HIRE YORK

BOSTON (AP)—Rudy York, 45, former home - run hitting first baseman, Saturday night was named a Boston Red Sox coach replacing batting practice pitcher Paul Schreiber.



VALUED RESERVE — Larry Stegall, Northeast's No. 1 sub at guard, will see plenty of action of relief of Sid Bradley and Mickey Kitchens Tuesday night when the local Indians host McNeese in a Gulf State Conference game. Stegall, a 5-11 junior, hails from Desloge, Mo. (Staff photo by Bill Coleman)

WRESTLING

Tall Newcomer Here Tomorrow

Giant newcomer Bob Stovall, 230 pounds and 6 feet, 7 inches tall will team with pink-haired Pretty Boy Collins against Harvey Cole and George Curtis in Monday night's main wrestling event at the B&B Arena.

Two one-fall preliminaries will open tomorrow's card. The main event will have a 90-minute limit with two falls to win.

Stovall is advertised as a former cowboy from the Dakota badlands. Stovall worked on cattle ranches but turned wrestler not long ago — probably because he got too big to sit on a horse.

Collins, who came here as a blond and turned up with green hair last week, has promised to have "shocking pink" hair this week.

"His hair is likely to be any color this time," says promoter August Baumgartner.

Cole, who made his local debut last week, has shown Monroe fans some good wrestling and he and Curtis should make a good team. Both boys are scientific grapplers with a wide variety of holds.

State heavyweight champion Bill Barney is under fire from other wrestlers for his failure to defend his title. Baumgartner says Bill is still getting "some challenges", and is expected to defend his belt in a few weeks.

Because he seems to be in no hurry to put his title on the line, Barney is being called a coward by the prospective challengers. Bill isn't talking.

Press Raps U.S. Showing In World Meet

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chilean newspapers and spectators at the World Amateur Basketball Championship continually are growing more dissatisfied with the play of the favored U.S. team.

Although undefeated in three preliminary games and two in the final round robin of the tournament, the United States has failed to impress in every game except one.

The Chileans expected the United States, where the game was invented and is played more than in any other nation, to be represented by a top flight team which would give an exhibition of the way the game should be played.

Instead, the Air Force All-Stars, who represent the defending nation, have played slow and sloppy ball. Friday night they staggered to a 54-53 victory over a weak Puerto Rican team after scoring only 25 points in the first half.

The influential El Mercurio, largest newspaper in Chile, said in Saturday's editions: "The team that is defending its title of world champion demonstrated once more that it does not rate in quality or individual performance with other representative U.S. teams.

"Its players play precisely to win but don't give the impression of confidence or positiveness in play that is expected of a team of this category. This team is not up to the quality we have been accustomed to expect from a U.S. representative."

Steve Souchock Signed To Pilot Richmond Club

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Steve Souchock, who spent 7½ years in the major leagues as a first baseman and outfielder, Saturday night was named manager of the Richmond Virginians of the International League.

The announcement of his appointment was the first move on the Richmond front by the world champion New York Yankees since they took over full ownership of the club earlier this week. The next step is expected to be the naming of a general manager.

Souchock, 39, managed Binghamton, the Yankees' farm team in the class A Eastern League, the past two seasons. He won the pennant in 1957 and captured playoff honors in 1958, winning the first half of a split season and finishing sixth the second half.

Tennessee's football team wore nylon helmets during the 1958 season. Coach Bowden Wyatt says they do not crack and can be washed.

OUACHITA INVADES BOSSIER

Rebels, Tigers, Irish Host District Foes Tuesday Night

All four Twin City high school cage teams face stiff district competition Tuesday night as West Monroe, Neville and St. Matthews host league foes on the home floors, while Ouachita takes to the road for a loop encounter.

In local action Neville battles Jonesboro-Hodge in a district 2-AA scrap, West Monroe tangles with Byrd in a 1-AAA contest and St. Matthews meets 2-A opponent Winnsboro. The Lions invade Bossier City in another 1-AAA scramble to complete the night's schedule.

West Monroe's Rebels, fresh from their first loop win over Ouachita, 45-42, Friday night, face a Byrd team that has won two out of three district games. Ouachita handed the Yellow Jackets their lone setback, 60-39, here a couple of weeks ago. West Monroe has suffered losses to Bossier City and Bastrop.

The Rebs, after a two-point victory over Neville, 60-58, dropped three straight before downing Ouachita. Coach L. V. Norris' West Monroe quint has a year's slate of nine wins against eight defeats.

Neville and Jonesboro, both standing at 1-1 against league competition, will be fighting to hold runnerup spot to Ruston in 2-AA play. Coach George Davis' charges have won 22 games in 27 outings this season. The Tigers' latest conquest was a 72-26 verdict over loop rival Haynesville. Jonesboro - Hodge romped over Neville early in the season, 73-48.

Ruston's Bearcats hold top ranking in the race with a 2-0 mark.

Ouachita meets the district leader in Bossier City. The Bossier club has a perfect 3-0 league slate, while Ouachita fell to 1-1 after the loss to West Monroe. H. H. Holliman's Lions victory over Byrd was their only league win, and they have a season mark of eight wins and fourteen defeats.

Coach Jim Mahoney's St. Matthews squad leads the southern division of district 2-A with a 2-0 mark, closely followed by Tuesday night's foe, Winnsboro, with a 1-0 record. After a great start this year the Irish have slumped slightly to a 23-9 mark for the season.

Olmedo Moves To Australian Finals

By RICHARD VOUMARD

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI)—Alex Olmedo, undaunted by an injury, Barry Mackay's serves and a "strike" by the ball boys, Saturday became the first foreign tennis player to reach the men's singles final at the Australian championships since 1951.

Olmedo, of Peru and Los Angeles, defeated Mackay, his Davis Cup teammate from Dayton, Ohio, 3-6, 8-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Olmedo's opponent in Monday's final will be Neale Fraser, who easily ousted Bob Mark in their all-Australian semi-final 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Olmedo, star of the recent United States Davis Cup triumph over this country, is the game's newest hero to thousands of fans here and in the Americas. But Australian ball boys probably will be happy to see the last of Alex. Five of Adelaide's best ball chasers went on strike before Saturday's match, complaining bitterly about Olmedo's court manners and curt commands.

The kids finally relented and went to work after tournament officials talked to them. An hour and 55 minutes later, Olmedo became the first foreigner to reach the final since Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., won the title in 1951.

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis and Jose Arilla of Spain won the junior doubles crown by defeating Maurice Hobbs and Noel Holland, 6-2, 6-1. Buchholz, who will play Australia's Marty Mulligan Monday for the junior singles title, was the best player in the match.

Olmedo has been hampered by a pulled stomach muscle, a recurrence of an old injury, since Jan. 7. He was forced to withdraw from the West Australian championships, dropped out of the doubles play here and considered quitting the singles play here.

Once he sensed victory in the final set Saturday, Alex went all out for the first time since he injured the muscle.

He gave the 4,000 fans, sweltering with the players in 96-degree heat, a glimpse of the power and speed that wrenched the Davis Cup from Australia. During that fifth set, Olmedo hammered home his hard serves, stormed the net for the first time in the match and cracked Mackay's hard service.

Sub Goalie Stars In Red Wing Victory

DETROIT (AP)—Bob Perreault, a pudgy off-season bartender filling in for the injured Terry Sawchuk, joined Gordie Howe in the starring role Saturday and paced the Detroit Red Wings to a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

The National Hockey League matinee contest was witnessed by 11,423 paying spectators at Olympia Stadium and a national television audience.

The victory was Detroit's second straight—both over the Hawks—following the club's most disastrous slump in years. This was the Red Wings' first home ice victory of 1959 and only the team's third triumph in its last 17 games

Howe's performance lifted the 30-year-old veteran over the 20-goal mark for the 10th straight season. Nine times an all - star team selection—six of them on the first unit—Howe now has a good chance to surpass his 33-goal performance of last year.

Perreault, a balding minor league veteran who will celebrate his 28th birthday next Thursday, was tended goal less than a dozen times in the big leagues but he played the part of an all-star.

He kicked out 24 Chicago shots eight in each period, and came up with spectacular saves in the late stages when the Black Hawks put on a great rush.

Perreault is on loan to Detroit from Hershey, Pa. of the American League and the Red Wings have won both games since he has been substituting for Sawchuk, out with a shoulder injury.

$1 1-2 MILLION AT OHIO STATE

Survey Shows Money Cause Of College Grid Pressure

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Why and how the football pressures created at major colleges

An Associated Press survey of the Big Ten shows the answer to be a simple one of arithmetic.

It discloses that Big Ten institutions have budgeted 9½ million dollars to operate their athletic departments and programs for the 1958-59 school year.

This cost — graphically fitting collegiate sports into the category of big business — ranges from $682,000 at Indiana to 1½ million dollars at Ohio State.

Football must make the budgets balance. Its gate receipts, Rose Bowl share, television proceeds, and so forth, must pay the entire bill at some schools and is counted upon to provide from 75 to 90 per cent of the cost at others.

Basically, football coaches thus are trustees of a 9½ million dollar program. Their winning, or losing, can effect the economy of their schools.

The pressure for fielding the best possible team naturally arises. This, in turn, leads to strenuous recruiting.

Three years ago the Big Ten adopted a new financial aid plan to restrict talent hustling. Aid was given on the basis of need — this being determined by certified financial statements of parents.

The AP survey shows the plan generally is regarded as workable. Under the new policy more scholarships are being given at Wisconsin, Ohio State, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan State, and Northwestern, about the same number at Purdue, Michigan and Illinois and possibly fewer at Iowa.

One Big Ten school significantly pointed out that under the old work-aid program, the cost for 42 freshmen athletes was $37,900. Under the new plan, it was $48,300 for 65.

The overall cost is up, but it is lower per capita.

Here are some views on the new program from athletic directors:

Biggie Munn, Michigan State — "It's workable but unjust. A father who is thrifty and saves money for his son's education is penalized, while the son of a guy who doesn't care and has no money gets a free ride."

Ike Armstrong, Minnesota — "I don't like it primarily because it puts Minnesota and other Big Ten schools at a disadvantage in recruiting. Outside schools can offer board, room and tuition regardless of need. It definitely is hurting our recruiting program."

Dick Larkins, Ohio State — "I voted against it, but I must admit it is workable. Its greatest weakness, so far as OSU is concerned, is the $230,000 to $300,000 it will cost annually, when on a four-year basis.

"Its strength is in the fact that we know the boy is eating and sleeping, what his income is and that he will have no trouble paying for his room and board. Time formerly spent on an off-campus job may now be spent on studies."

Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin — "We are very happy with it. Its obvious strong point is the establishment of institutional control over athletic scholarships. It sets a standard maximum tender for each school and eliminates bidding."

Paul Brechler, Iowa — "Iowa is as much opposed to the plan now as when it was initiated. Its glaring weakness is the 'no work' provision. It's discriminatory, allowing full aid to one boy and none to another. It has opened the door to outside recruiting. It is well known, for instance, that Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri are recruiting in Iowa."

Doug Mills, Illinois — "The plan is entirely workable. A boy can go to the school of his choice without financial aid being a factor providing the school is interested in him. Its weakness is that alumni or friends of a school may still offer fringe benefits, such as summer employment, which may influence his decision."

SLATER MARTIN

Texas Tries To Lure Hawk Star

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—They're beating the drums to lure Slater Martin of the St. Louis Hawks back to the University of Texas to coach his old school out of its basketball dolrums. Martin says only that money talks.

Dr. Bobby Moers, who pounded the hardwood as a flashy backcourt ballhawk at Texas in the late '30s, says he plans to talk to Martin personally about the job.

"I just feel Texas couldn't do any better than to have Dugie as its coach," Moers said Saturday. "I'll talk to him and if he wants it I will do everything in my power to help him get the job."

Moers plans to be in St. Louis for a Slater Martin night planned by fans Jan. 30 for the flashy playmaker of the St. Louis Hawks.

Marshall Hughes announced Friday he is quitting as coach at Texas at the end of this season. Martin and Jimmy Viramontes, freshman basketball coach whose teams at Texas own a 15-0 record over the past two years, have been mentioned as possible successors.

Martin told the Houston Chronicle by telephone Saturday from Detroit, "It is possible that I could go into coaching if it's a convenient job, close to Houston where I could move my family without interfering too much with my private businesses.

"It depends a lot on what kind of salary I am offered," he added. "I can't quit big money to take smaller money."

Martin now operates a sporting goods store here.

"My boss (Ben Kerner, president of the Hawks) has been awfully nice to me. I am doing very well here and it would take a lot of persuasion to make me quit pro basketball," Martin said.

I. L. Prexy Calls For TV Blackout

MONTREAL (AP) — Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, said Saturday there was "one big loophole in the new sports antitrust bills proposed by American congressmen.

The bills would make it mandatory for big league clubs to impose a 75-mile television blackout around a minor league city on the day of a minor league game there. This would restrict TV games-of-the-week.

"But," said Shaughnessy, who is chairman of the major-minor league television committeee, "while this would be a tremendous help, it does not go far enough. What we need is a complete blackout.

"For one thing there are television transmitters located on high mountains that carry a long way. These cities may be out of the 75-mile radius, but could still carry into the minor league cities.

"Burlington (Vermont) is more than 75 miles away from here. Yet we get their programs very clearly. I'm certain there are similar cases.

"The major league games should not be allowed to come in at anytime. People who see a major league game during the day on television will not pay to come out and see the minor league team at night."

Shaughnessy is very enthusiastic over pay television

"That's the way to do it," he said enthusiastically. "I spoke to Walter O'Malley (Los Angeles Dodgers owner) the other day. He said it would do good in Los Angeles. The Dodgers and Milwaukee did not have television last year and drew the largest attendances.

"Pro football provided the right answer. They blacked out the game in their own cities and it turned out to be education. It got the fans interested and they turned out when their own teams came home."

Shaughnessy believes the new regime in Cuba will change things as far as the Havana club is concerned.

"If (Fidel) Castro does everything he says he's going to do, the baseball situation there will be much better," he said. "Batista's regime was so corrupt and there was so much poverty that the people could not concentrate on sports."

Shaughnessy reiterated that, despite the threatened players' strike, the league would open with "business as usual."

Indians Swap Averill For John Briggs

United Press International

Infielder Earl Averill Jr. went from the Cleveland Indians to the Chicago Cubs Saturday in a 1-for-2 swap that highlighted action on baseball's hot stove front.

Averill, son of one-time Indians' star outfielder Earl Averill, was given up by the Tribe in exchange for pitcher John Briggs, who had a 5-5 record for the Cubs last year, and outfielder Jim Bolger, a .225 hitter. Averill, after hitting .347 for San Diego, batted only .182 in 17 games for the Indians.

The Indians also announced the sale of veteran American League southpaw Morris Martin to Fort Worth of the American Association.

Relief pitcher Ray Narleski, who is being counted on to bolster the Detroit Tigers' pitching staff this year, became the eighth Tiger to sign his '59 contract. Narleski was obtained last fall from Cleveland along with pitcher Don Mossi and shortstop Ozzie Alvarez, both still unsigned.

In other action, the Los Angeles Dodgers signed shortstop Don Zimmer, who hit 17 homers last year, for a reported 25 per cent raise, and the Baltimore Orioles signed rookie pitchers Ron Moeller and Jack Fisher and rookie outfielder Dave Nicholson.

McNeese Takes 74-54 Win Over Middle Tenn.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese State checked a hard-fighting Middle Tennessee team after the score was tied seven times in the first half tonight and went on to beat the visitors 74-54.

Stan Kernan's long field goal after the first nine minutes put the Cowboys ahead to stay at 16-14. McNeese led 34-26 at halftime and continued to add to the margin.

Kernan scored 20 points for McNeese and Don Troutman chipped in with 18 before both fouled out in the second half. Ralph Bryant and Don Smith each made 11 points for Middle Tennessee.

The game was marked by 58 fouls and neither team had a good free shot average. Middle Tennessee hit only 24 of 47 and McNeese only 13 of 50 free tosses.

Clark Leads Okla. State Over Sooners

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma State Cowboys combined the accurate free throw shooting if Arlen Clark with a stubborn defense for a 57-38 victory over the Oklahoma Sooners in a regionally televised Big Eight Conference basketball game Saturday.

It was Oklahoma State's first conference victory against three losses while the setback gave Oklahoma a 3-2 league mark. Overall the Cowboys are 6-8 and the Sooners 8-7.

Clark, the Cowboy's 6-foot-8 center, hit 19 of 20 free throws and this proved to be the exact margin of Oklahoma State's triumph. The Cowboys were extremely hot at the free throw line connecting on 35 of 42 attempts.

Oklahoma made a battle of it in the first half but was no match for the ball - hawking defensive - minded Cowboys in the second half. Oklahoma State held only a 29-25 lead at the intermission.

The Cowboys gained the lead early and never let Oklahoma tie as they steadily stretched their advantage in the second half. On the other hand, the Sooners were able to hit only four field goals in the second half and for a ten minute period went scoreless from the field.

Junction City Tourney Sets Monday Tilts

JUNCTION CITY, Ark. (Special)—Because of the record number of teams which have entered the Dual-State Tournament here this week, a Monday, Jan. 26, session has been scheduled beginning at 5 o'clock.

Six games will be played Monday. No games will be played Tuesday but play will resume Wednesday at 1 p.m. and continue through Saturday. No morning sessions will be played.

A total of 44 teams, 23 girls' clubs and 21 boys' squads, will compete in tournament. Nine girls' and 11 boys' teams are from Louisiana while Arkansas will provide 14 girls' teams and 10 boys' outfits.

Lisbon (30-1) is the top-rated girls' team from Louisiana while Junction City (19-2), the only team to beat Lisbon, is Arkansas' favored representative. Other Louisiana girls' teams are highly-rated Linville (17-5), Homer, Spearsville, Summerfield, Hico, Bernice, Marion and Dubach.

Once-beaten Spearsville (30-1) and Marion (28-5), only quintet to beat Spearsville, appear to be the class of the Louisiana boys' teams. Other Louisiana clubs are Summerfield, Converse, Linville, Homer, Haynesville, Bernice, Dubach, Farmerville and Lisbon.

Parkers Chapel (17-4), Princeton (12-7) and Junction City (12-7) are highly-rated Arkansas teams in the boys' division.

Basketball Or Baseball?

ERA, Tex. (AP)— Era High School downed Saint Jo High in basketball Friday night 7 to 4.

At the half Era-in North Texas near Gainesville - led 2-0.

Lee Lewis scored all Era points. Wayne Williams was high for St. Jo with 2.

SELECT COMPANY

Rupp To Collect 600th Win Soon

By BILL HUDSON

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — One night soon, next week perhaps, Kentucky will take a basketball victory with special meaning — its 600th under Adolph Rupp.

This would put Der Baron in select company, with a victory total achieved by only four other coaches active today.

Rupp viewed the approaching milestone modestly:

"The last game you've won is always the most important. I have only one goal—just to try to win the next one."

Rupp's teams never have been below .680 any season since he came to Kentucky in 1930. His record of 598 won, 104 lost makes him the nation's winningest coach, percentagewise.

Kentucky has three games next week to reach No. 600 playing Georgia Tech at Atlanta Monday, and at home against Georgia Thursday and Florida Saturday.

Rupp stands to become the second coach in Kentucky to attain 600 wins at one school.

Ed Diddle, the fiery, colorful moulder of Western Kentucky State college's basketball fortunes for 36 years, figures to win his 700th sometime next season.

Hank Iba of Oklahoma State and Edward Adams of Texas Southern also have 600 wins.

Rupp's Kentucky teams have picked up about every available honor—19 Southeastern Conference titles, a National Invitational Tournament crown, an unprecedented four NCAA championships and a trip to the 1948 Olympics as part of the American squad.

Did any one victory stand out?

"I imagine I'd have to say our Olympic victory against France in the world championship game," recalled Rupp.

"It is a sight you never forget when you see those boys step up to get their gold medals before a crowd of 75,000.

"Our fourth NCAA championship last year was pretty satisfying," he added.

"So was our first NCAA victory and our National Invitation championship.

"But I always look forward to the next one."

Turning to the upcoming 600th victory, Rupp remarked, "I never keep track of them. I wouldn't know about it if you fellows didn't remind me."

Kentucky's once clear-cut domination of the Southeastern Conference is cited by some observers as partly responsible for today's keener competition and strong challenge to the Wildcats in the Dixie circuit.

"We feel we've made a definite imprint on basketball in the South," asserted Rupp.

"To them our game usually is their big game. Often we can't concentrate on one game. We play the toughest non-conference schedule in the country," he asserted, "and we have to take them one at a time as they come along."

West Monroe To Host Jr. High Cage Tourney

West Monroe Junior High will host its first annual basketball tournament Friday and Saturday with teams from nine schools participating.

Ouachita, Swartz, Jefferson, Bastrop, Lee, Logtown, Woodlawn, Rayville and West Monroe teams will compete in the tourney which begins Friday at 10 a.m. with Woodlawn boys meeting Swartz. Ouachita and Swartz will clash at 11 in the meet's first girls' game.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams in each division. Members of the all - tournament teams will receive individual awards.

Admission will be 15 and 25 cents. Turnament tickets for the entire meet may be purchased for 50 cents and $1 at the W. M. J. H. S. gym.

$1 1-2 MILLION AT OHIO STATE

Survey Shows Money Cause Of College Grid Pressure

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Why and how are football pressures created at major colleges

An Associated Press survey of the Big Ten shows the answer to be a simple one of arithmetic.

It discloses that Big Ten institutions have budgeted 9½ million dollars to operate their athletic departments and programs for the 1958-59 school year.

This cost — graphically fitting collegiate sports into the category of big business — ranges from $682,000 at Indiana to 1½ million dollars at Ohio State.

Football must make the budgets balance. Its gate receipts, Rose Bowl share, television proceeds, and so forth, must pay the entire bill at some schools and is counted upon to provide from 75 to 90 per cent of the cost at others.

Basically, football coaches thus are trustees of a 9½ million dollar program. Their winning, or losing, can effect the economy of their schools.

The pressure for fielding the best possible team naturally arises. This, in turn, leads to strenuous recruiting.

Three years ago the Big Ten adopted a new financial aid plan to restrict talent hustling. Aid was given on the basis of need — this being determined by certified financial statements of parents.

The AP survey shows the plan generally is regarded as workable. Under the new policy more scholarships are being given at Wisconsin, Ohio State, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan State, and Northwestern, about the same number at Purdue, Michigan and Illinois and possibly fewer at Iowa.

One Big Ten school significantly pointed out that under the old work-aid program, the cost for 42 freshmen athletes was $37,900. Under the new plan, it was $48,300 for 65.

The overall cost is up, but it is lower per capita.

Here are some views on the new program from athletic directors:

Biggie Munn, Michigan State — "It's workable but unjust. A father who is thrifty and saves money for his son's education is penalized, while the son of a guy who doesn't care and has no money gets a free ride."

Ike Armstrong, Minnesota — "I don't like it primarily because it puts Minnesota and other Big Ten schools at a disadvantage in recruiting. Outside schools can offer board, room and tuition regardless of need. It definitely is hurting our recruiting program."

Dick Larkins, Ohio State — "I voted against it, but I must admit it is workable. Its greatest weakness, so far as OSU is concerned, is the $280,000 to $300,000 it will cost annually when on a four-year basis.

"Its strength is in the fact that we know the boy is eating and sleeping, what his income is and that he will have no trouble paying for his room and board. Time formerly spent on an off-campus job may now be spent on studies."

Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin — "We are very happy with it. Its obvious strong point is the establishment of institutional control over athletic scholarships. It sets a standard maximum tender for each school and eliminates bidding."

Paul Brechler, Iowa — "Iowa is as much opposed to the plan now as when it was initiated. Its glaring weakness is the 'no work' provision. It's discriminatory, allowing full aid to one boy and none to another. It has opened the door to outside recruiting. It is well known, for instance, that Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri are recruiting in Iowa."

Doug Mills, Illinois — "The plan is entirely workable. A boy can go to the school of his choice without financial aid being a factor providing the school is interested in him. Its weakness is that alumni or friends of a school may still offer fringe benefits, such as summer employment, which may influence his decision."

SLATER MARTIN

Texas Tries To Lure Hawk Star

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—They're beating the drums to lure Slater Martin of the St. Louis Hawks back to the University of Texas to coach his old school out of its basketball dolrums. Martin says only that money talks.

Dr. Bobby Moers, who pounded the hardwood as a flashy backcourt ballhawk at Texas in the late '30s, says he plans to talk to Martin personally about the job.

"I just feel Texas couldn't do any better than to have Dugie as its coach," Moers said Saturday. "I'll talk to him and if he wants it I will do everything in my power to help him get the job."

Moers plans to be in St. Louis for a Slater Martin night planned by fans Jan. 30 for the flashy playmaker of the St. Louis Hawks.

Marshall Hughes announced Friday he is quitting as coach at Texas at the end of this season. Martin and Jimmy Viramontes, freshman basketball coach whose teams at Texas own a 15-0 record over the past two years, have been mentioned as possible successors.

Martin told the Houston Chronicle by telephone Saturday from Detroit, "It is possible that I could go into coaching if it's a convenient job, close to Houston where I could move my family without interfering too much with my private businesses.

"It depends a lot on what kind of salary I am offered," he added. "I can't quit big money to take smaller money."

Martin now operates a sporting goods store here.

"My boss (Ben Kerner, president of the Hawks) has been awfully nice to me. I am doing very well here and it would take a lot of persuasion to make me quit pro basketball," Martin said.

I. L. Prexy Calls For TV Blackout

MONTREAL (AP) — Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, said Saturday there was "one big loophole in the new sports antitrust bills proposed by American congressmen.

The bills would make it mandatory for big league clubs to impose a 75-mile television blackout around a minor league city on the day of a minor league game there. This would restrict TV games-of-the-week.

"But," said Shaughnessy, who is chairman of the major-minor league television committeee, "while this would be a tremendous help, it does not go far enough. What we need is a complete blackout.

"For one thing there are television transmitters located on high mountains that carry a long way. These cities may be out of the 75-mile radius, but could still carry into the minor league cities.

"Burlington (Vermont) is more than 75 miles away from here. Yet we get their programs very clearly. I'm certain there are similar cases.

"The major league games should not be allowed to come in at anytime. People who see a major league game during the day on television will not pay to come out and see the minor league team at night."

Shaughnessy is very enthusiastic over pay television

"That's the way to do it," he said enthusiastically. "I spoke to Walter O'Malley (Los Angeles Dodgers owner) the other day. He said it would do good in Los Angeles. The Dodgers and Milwaukee did not have television last year and drew the largest attendances.

"Pro football provided the right answer. They blacked out the game in their own cities and it turned out to be education. It got the fans interested and they turned out when their own teams came home."

Shaughnessy believes the new regime in Cuba will change things as far as the Havana club is concerned.

"If (Fidel) Castro does everything he says he's going to do, the baseball situation there will be much better," he said. "Batista's regime was so corrupt and there was so much poverty that the people could not concentrate on sports."

Shaughnessy reiterated that, despite the threatened players' strike, the league would open with "business as usual."

Indians Swap Averill For John Briggs

United Press International

Infielder Earl Averill Jr. went from the Cleveland Indians to the Chicago Cubs Saturday in a 1-for-2 swap that highlighted action on baseball's hot stove front.

Averill, son of one-time Indians' star outfielder Earl Averill, was given up by the Tribe in exchange for pitcher John Briggs, who had a 5-5 record for the Cubs last year, and outfielder Jim Bolger, a .225 hitter. Averill, after hitting .347 for San Diego, batted only .182 in 17 games for the Indians.

The Indians also announced the sale of veteran American League southpaw Morris Martin to Fort Worth of the American Association.

Relief pitcher Ray Narleski, who is being counted on to bolster the Detroit Tigers' pitching staff this year, became the eighth Tiger to sign his '59 contract. Narleski was obtained last fall from Cleveland along with pitcher Don Mossi and shortstop Ozzie Alvarez, both still unsigned.

In other action, the Los Angeles Dodgers signed shortstop Don Zimmer, who hit 17 homers last year, for a reported 25 per cent raise, and the Baltimore Orioles signed rookie pitchers Ron Moeller and Jack Fisher and rookie outfielder Dave Nicholson.

McNeese Takes 74-54 Win Over Middle Tenn.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese State checked a hard-fighting Middle Tennessee team after the score was tied seven times in the first half tonight and went on to beat the visitors 74-54.

Stan Kernan's long field goal after the first nine minutes put the Cowboys ahead to stay at 16-14. McNeese led 34-26 at halftime and continued to add to the margin.

Kernan scored 20 points for McNeese and Don Troutman chipped in with 18 before both fouled out in the second half. Ralph Bryant and Don Smith each made 11 points for Middle Tennessee.

The game was marked by 58 fouls and neither team had a good free shot average. Middle Tennessee hit only 24 of 47 and McNeese only 13 of 50 free tosses.

Clark Leads Okla. State Over Sooners

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma State Cowboys combined the accurate free throw shooting if Arlen Clark with a stubborn defense for a 57-38 victory over the Oklahoma Sooners in a regionally televised Big Eight Conference basketball game Saturday.

It was Oklahoma State's first conference victory against three losses while the setback gave Oklahoma a 3-2 league mark. Overall the Cowboys are 6-8 and the Sooners 8-7.

Clark, the Cowboy's 6-foot-8 center, hit 19 of 20 free throws and this proved to be the exact margin of Oklahoma State's triumph. The Cowboys were extremely hot at the free throw line connecting on 35 of 42 attempts.

Oklahoma made a battle of it in the first half but was no match for the ball-hawking defensive-minded Cowboys in the second half. Oklahoma State held only a 29-25 lead at the intermission.

The Cowboys gained the lead early and never let Oklahoma tie as they steadily stretched their advantage in the second half. On the other hand, the Sooners were able to hit only four field goals in the second half and for a ten minute period went scoreless from the field.

Junction City Tourney Sets Monday Tilts

JUNCTION CITY, Ark. (Special) —Because of the record number of teams which have entered the Dual-State Tournament here this week, a Monday, Jan. 26, session has been scheduled beginning at 5 o'clock.

Six games will be played Monday. No games will be played Tuesday but play will resume Wednesday at 1 p.m. and continue through Saturday. No morning sessions will be played.

A total of 44 teams, 23 girls' clubs and 21 boys' squads, will compete in tournament. Nine girls' and 11 boys' teams are from Louisiana while Arkansas will provide 14 girls' teams and 10 boys' outfits.

Lisbon (30-1) is the top-rated girls' team from Louisiana while Junction City (19-2), the only team to beat Lisbon, is Arkansas' favored representative. Other Louisiana girls' teams are highly-rated Linville (17-5), Homer, Spearsville, Summerfield, Hico, Bernice, Marion and Dubach.

Once-beaten Spearsville (30-1) and Marion (28-5), only quintet to beat Spearsville, appear to be the class of the Louisiana boys' teams. Other Louisiana clubs are Summerfield, Converse, Linville, Homer, Haynesville, Bernice, Dubach, Farmerville and Lisbon.

Parkers Chapel (17-4), Princeton (12-7) and Junction City (12-7) are highly-rated Arkansas teams in the boys' division.

Basketball Or Baseball?

ERA, Tex. (AP)— Era High School downed Saint Jo High in basketball Friday night 7 to 4.

At the half Era-in North Texas near Gainesville - led 2-0.

Lee Lewis scored all Era points. Wayne Williams was high for St. Jo with 2.

SELECT COMPANY

Rupp To Collect 600th Win Soon

By BILL HUDSON

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — One night soon, next week perhaps, Kentucky will take a basketball victory with special meaning — its 600th under Adolph Rupp.

This would put Der Baron in select company, with a victory total achieved by only four other coaches active today.

Rupp viewed the approaching milestone modestly:

"The last game you've won is always the most important. I have only one goal—just to try to win the next one."

Rupp's teams never have been below .680 any season since he came to Kentucky in 1930. His record of 593 won, 104 lost makes him the nation's winningest coach, percentagewise.

Kentucky has three games next week to reach No. 600 playing Georgia Tech at Atlanta Monday, and at home against Georgia Thursday and Florida Saturday.

Rupp stands to become the second coach in Kentucky to attain 600 wins at one school.

Ed Diddle, the fiery, colorful moulder of Western Kentucky State college's basketball fortunes for 36 years, figures to win his 700th sometime next season.

Hank Iba of Oklahoma State and Edward Adams of Texas Southern also have 600 wins.

Rupp's Kentucky teams have picked up about every available honor—19 Southeastern Conference titles, a National Invitational Tournament crown, an unprecedented four NCAA championships and a trip to the 1948 Olympics as part of the American squad.

Did any one victory stand out?

"I imagine I'd have to say our Olympic victory against France in the world championship game," recalled Rupp.

"It is a sight you never forget when you see those boys step up to get their gold medals before a crowd of 75,000.

"Our fourth NCAA championship last year was pretty satisfying," he added.

"So was our first NCAA victory and our National Invitation championship.

"But I always look forward to the next one."

Turning to the upcoming 600th victory, Rupp remarked, "I never keep track of them. I wouldn't know about it if you fellows didn't remind me."

Kentucky's once clear-cut domination of the Southeastern Conference is cited by some observers as partly responsible for today's keener competition and strong challenge to the Wildcats in the Dixie circuit.

"We feel we've made a definite imprint on basketball in the South," asserted Rupp.

"To them our game usually is their big game. Often we can't concentrate on one game. We play the toughest non-conference schedule in the country," he asserted, "and we have to take them one at a time as they come along."

West Monroe To Host Jr. High Cage Tourney

West Monroe Junior High will host its first annual basketball tournament Friday and Saturday with teams from nine schools participating.

Ouachita, Swartz, Jefferson, Bastrop, Lee, Logtown, Woodlawn, Rayville and West Monroe teams will compete in the tourney which begins Friday at 10 a.m. with Woodlawn boys meeting Swartz. Ouachita and Swartz will clash at 11 in the meet's first girls' game.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams in each division. Members of the all-tournament teams will receive individual awards.

Admission will be 15 and 25 cents. Turnament tickets for the entire meet may be purchased for 50 cents and $1 at the W. M. J. H. S. gym.

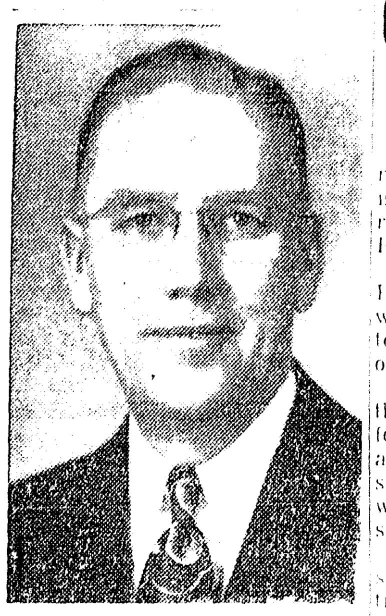
REV. PAUL S. SMITH

Degree Awarded To West Monroe Baptist Student

The Rev. Paul St. Claire Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Smith of West Monroe was among the graduates of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., who received their degrees at midwinter commencement held this month.

Rev. Smith received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the school. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and of Mississippi College in Clinton. He is married to the former Virginia Nell Walker of Farmington, Mo., and they are the parents of a son, Timothy. Rev. Smith has accepted a call to the first Baptist Church at Como, Miss.



REV. G. R. WILLIAMSON

Nazarenes Set Zone Meeting At Church Here

An address by the Rev. G. B. Williamson of Kansas City, Mo., will be the high point of interest at a zone meeting to be held at the First Nazarene Church, 801 Thomas Street in Monroe, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, it was announced today.

Churches represented at the zone meeting will include the host church, the First Nazarene Church of West Monroe, and the Ruston, Oak Grove, Winnsboro and Jonesboro Churches.

Rev. Williamson, of Kansas City Mo., has served the Church of the Nazarene in its highest office as a general superintendent since April, 1946. He was re-elected by the General Assembly sessions of the church in 1948, 1952 and 1956.

He was born at New Florence Mo., on November 26, 1898. He was converted as a youth and joined the Nazarene church in 1919. He graduated from John Fletcher College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, in 1924, and pursued graduate study at McCormick Theological Seminary and Northern Baptist Seminary, both in Chicago.

He was a pastor for sixteen years, serving Nazarene churches at Farmington, Iowa, Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City.

He is a gifted writer, the author of "Overseers of the Flock," a textbook in pastoral theology, "The Labor of Love," dealing with evangelism, "Roy T. Williams, Servant of God," and "Preaching Scriptural Holiness."

Missionary From India Guest Speaker

Dr. Clyde B. Stuntz will be guest speaker at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church at the morning worship period today, the Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor of the church has announced.

Dr. Kuntz and his wife, who now reside at 702 Auburn in Monroe, were for 42 years missionaries to India and Pakistan. They are the parents of Dr. Margaret Coon of this city.

Beginning his missionary career as secretary to his father, who was also a missionary to several nations in the Far East, Dr. Kuntz received his B. A. degree from Wesleyan College in Middletown, Conn. He earned his B. D. degree at Drew Seminary in Madison New Jersey, and his M. A. with a major in Sanskrit from Columbia University.

After serving as minister for two years in Farley, Iowa, Dr. Stuntz began his duty as missionary to India and Pakistan.

A missionary from Cuba, Miss Pat Alexander, will speak at 5:30 p.m. today in the fellowship hall of the church, Rev. Allen also announced.

Missionary Activities On Increase

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The popular notion that foreign missionaries are on the way out is sharply contradicted by a new report from the famed Missionary Research Library in New York.

It lists 25,058 North American Protestant missionaries now at work around the globe, preaching, teaching and healing in the name of Jesus Christ.

That is an increase of more than 10,000 since 1950. It is nearly four times as many missionaries as U. S. and Canadian Protestants sent abroad half a century ago, when the "missionary era" was supposedly in full flower.

The report shows that several small fundamentalist denominations are putting forth a much greater missionary effort, relative to their size, than some of the old-line Protestant churches.

For example:

The Seventh Day Adventists, who rank 23rd in size among U. S. Protestant bodies, rank first in the number of missionaries, with 2,000 men and women now serving in 184 countries.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance, a denomination with fewer than 90,000 members in this country, supports 822 missionaries abroad — twice as many as the 3,000,000 - member Episcopal Church.

Other denominations with more than 500 missionaries in the field are Methodist Church (1,473); the United Presbyterian Church (1,293); the Southern Baptist Convention (1,186); the Assemblies of God (676); and the Southern Presbyterians (504).

Perhaps the most shocking statistic in the report is the disclosure that there are 349 separate agencies, boards, and societies in North America which are engaged in some form of overseas missionary effort.

This multiplicity of sending agencies obviously leads to costly duplication of administrative overhead.

Annual Session Of Episcopalian Leaders Held

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Highlighting the Wednesday session of the 121st annual convention of the Diocese of Louisiana, protestant Episcopal Church, was an address by the guest speaker, the Rt. Rev. Richards S. Watson, bishop of the Episcopal Missionary district of Utah.

The convention opened Wednesday at 7 a.m. with Holy Communion held at the host church, the Church of the Good Shepherd. The Rev. Robert R. Cook of Bastrop, the Rev. Robert L. Crandall of the host church, and the Rev. Iveson B. Moland, suffragan bishop of the diocese with headquarters at Alexandria, assisted the Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D., bishop of the diocese with headquarters at New Orleans, in the opening service.

The convention closed with a luncheon Thursday and the newly elected officers met to organize the church's activities for the year ahead.

Local Men Take Part In Baptist Meet In Arcadia

ARCADIA (Special) —Two Monroe men assisted in the Baptist Brotherhood and district Royal Ambassador meetings held here Friday at the First Baptist Church.

Ben Tarver, associated for many years with Louisiana Training Institute, and the Rev. John Cutrer, both of Monroe, assisted in the brotherhood meeting for District Five of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

The Rev. Fred Forester, state brotherhood secretary, was in charge of the meeting and the Rev. Don Hurbuck served as pastor host.

Dr. Stanley Jordan, pastor of the Queensborough Baptist Church of Shreveport delivered the keynote address.

The Baptist Brotherhood of Farmerville led by the president, Dr. J. D. Miller, and pastor L. B. Hall, gave a stage demonstration on the work of the executive committee for brotherhood.

FORMER MISSIONARIES—Dr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Stuntz, now residents of 702 Auburn, Monroe, were missionaries to India and Pakistan for 42 years.

New Church Constituted At Pine Grove

The Pine Grove Baptist Church, sponsored by the New Light Baptist Church, Monroe, Louisiana, was constituted recently, at the New Light Church, with thirty-two charter members.

The council assisting in the organization was: Moderator, Rev. Leon Ivey, Temple Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. C. B. Thompson, Highland Park Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. H. M. Rozch, Swartz Baptist Church; Rev. Fred Doolittle, Emmanuel Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. D. W. Nix, Calvary Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. Grover Smith, New Light Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. Vester R. Headrick, Lakeshore Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. Willie Woodard, Secretary to the Council, Faith Baptist Church, Monroe; and Rev. Jimmy Bolton, guest, First Baptist Church, Columbia, La. The council was ably assisted by Rev. A. L. New, District Missionary.

The Church extended the call to Rev. Robert E. Peck to be its pastor. Among other officers elected were as follows: Sunday School Superintendent, N. C. Noland; Training Union Director, Evelyn McKnight; Brotherhood President, W. J. Greenan Trustees, W. J. Greenan, Herby Moore, N. C. Noland.

Construction of a brick auditorium has already begun at the upper intersection of Winnsboro Road and Moore Road. It is anticipated that the church will be completed within six weeks, and a cordial invitation is extended to those in the area, to join in the worship services.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: In our college ethics class, we have been discussing the comparative values of different religious. In all of them we discover similarities and resemblances. Are we right in concluding that the good life is the essence of religion? We are quite ready to agree that Christianity is superior in presenting such ideals, but is it necessarily unique?

ANSWER: Yes, Christianity is unique!

The presence of similarities in various religions does not indicate their relatedness, it merely shows that all men have within them a common sense of right and wrong, even though that sense has been dulled and distorted. I would be misunderstood if I declared that the good life is not the essence of Christianity, and yet I must do so. The good life is certainly a goal, but nothing more than the immediate one. The ultimate goal is man's final and complete restoration to his intended standing before his creator. This final and complete restoration was made possible through the redemptive work of Christ, and man can by no other means achieve the good life here or his final restoration in eternity. Therefore, it must be insisted that redemption and restoration are the essentials, and the good life a by product, no matter how desirable. Your conclusion would be correct if this life were all, but man was made for eternity. The Bible declares that, "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together even into now, awaiting the manifestation of the sons of God."

Wafer Accepts Music Post At Highland Park

Mr. Tom Wafer has accepted the position of Minister of Music for the Highland Park Baptist Chrch. It will be his responsibility to develop a department of music in the church, located on Roberts street in Monroe. He brings an extensive background of training and experience with church choirs to this new position.

Mrs. Wafer will be an invaluable aid to the work of her husband. She is also a well trained and talented musician, according to the church pastor who made the announcement.

Wafer is the Band Director for the West Monroe Junior High School and Mrs. Wafer is the teacher of vocal music at the Ouachita Parish Junior High School.

REV. PAUL S. SMITH

Degree Awarded To West Monroe Baptist Student

The Rev. Paul St. Claire Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Smith of West Monroe was among the graduates of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., who received their degrees at mid-winter commencement held this month.

Rev. Smith received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from the school. He is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and of Mississippi College in Clinton. He is married to the former Virginia Nell Walker of Farmington, Mo., and they are the parents of a son, Timothy. Rev. Smith has accepted a call to the first Baptist Church at Como, Miss.

REV. G. R. WILLIAMSON

Nazarenes Set Zone Meeting At Church Here

An address by the Rev. G. B. Williamson of Kansas City, Mo., will be the high point of interest at a zone meeting to be held at the First Nazarene Church, 801 Thomas Street in Monroe, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, it was announced today.

Churches represented at the zone meeting will include the host church, the First Nazarene Church of West Monroe, and the Ruston, Oak Grove, Winnsboro and Jonesboro Churches.

Rev. Williamson, of Kansas City Mo., has served the Church of the Nazarene in its highest office as a general superintendent since April, 1946. He was re-elected by the General Assembly sessions of the church in 1948, 1952 and 1956.

He was born at New Florence, Mo., on November 26, 1898. He was converted as a youth and joined the Nazarene church in 1919. He graduated from John Fletcher College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, in 1924, and pursued graduate study at McCormick Theological Seminary and Northern Baptist Seminary, both in Chicago.

He was a pastor for sixteen years, serving Nazarene churches at Farmington, Iowa, Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City.

He is a gifted writer, the author of "Overseers of the Flock," a textbook in pastoral theology, "The Labor of Love," dealing with evangelism, "Roy T. Williams, Servant of God," and "Preaching Scriptural Holiness."

Dr. Clyde B. Stuntz will be guest speaker at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church at the morning worship period today, the Rev. W. M. Allen, pastor of the church has announced.

Dr. Kuntz and his wife, who now reside at 702 Auburn in Monroe, were for 42 years missionaries to India and Pakistan. They are the parents of Dr. Margaret Coon of this city.

Beginning his missionary career as secretary to his father, who was also a missionary to several nations in the Far East, Dr. Kuntz received his B. A. degree from Wesleyan College in Middletown, Conn. He earned his B. D. degree at Drew Seminary in Madison New Jersey, and his M. A. with a major in Sanskrit from Columbia University.

After serving as minister for two years in Farley, Iowa, Dr. Stuntz began his duty as missionary to India and Pakistan.

A missionary from Cuba, Miss Pat Alexander, will speak at 5:30 p.m. today in the fellowship hall of the church, Rev. Allen also announced.

Missionary Activities On Increase

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The popular notion that foreign missionaries are on the way out is sharply contradicted by a new report from the famed Missionary Research Library in New York.

It lists 25,058 North American Protestant missionaries now at work around the globe, preaching, teaching and healing in the name of Jesus Christ.

That is an increase of more than 10,000 since 1950. It is nearly four times as many missionaries as U. S. and Canadian Protestants sent abroad half a century ago, when the "missionary era" was supposedly in full flower.

The report shows that several small fundamentalist denominations are putting forth a much greater missionary effort, relative to their size, than some of the old-line Protestant churches.

For example:

The Seventh Day Adventists, who rank 23rd in size among U. S. Protestant bodies, rank first in the number of missionaries, with 2,000 men and women now serving in 184 countries.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance, a denomination with fewer than 90,000 members in this country, supports 822 missionaries abroad — twice as many as the 3,000,000 - member Episcopal Church.

Other denominations with more than 500 missionaries in the field are Methodist Church (1,473); the United Presbyterian Church (1,293); the Southern Baptist Convention (1,186); the Assemblies of God (676); and the Southern Presbyterians (504).

Perhaps the most shocking statistic in the report is the disclosure that there are 349 separate agencies, boards, and societies in North America which are engaged in some form of overseas missionary effort.

This multiplicity of sending agencies obviously leads to costly duplication of administrative overhead.

Annual Session Of Episcopalian Leaders Held

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Highlighting the Wednesday session of the 121st annual convention of the Diocese of Louisiana, protestant Episcopal Church, was an address by the guest speaker, the Rt. Rev. Richards S. Watson, bishop of the Episcopal Missionary district of Utah.

The convention opened Wednesday at 7 a.m. with Holy Communion held at the host church, the Church of the Good Shepherd. The Rev. Robert R. Cook of Bastrop, the Rev. Robert L. Crandall of the host church, and the Rev. Iveson B. Moland, suffragan bishop of the diocese with headquarters at Alexandria, assisted the Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D., bishop of the diocese with headquarters at New Orleans, in the opening service.

The convention closed with a luncheon Thursday and the newly elected officers met to organize the church's activities for the year ahead.

Local Men Take Part In Baptist Meet In Arcadia

ARCADIA (Special) —Two Monroe men assisted in the Baptist Brotherhood and district Royal Ambassador meetings held here Friday at the First Baptist Church.

Ben Tarver, associated for many years with Louisiana Training Institute, and the Rev. John Cutrer, both of Monroe, assisted in the brotherhood meeting for District Five of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

The Rev. Fred Forester, state brotherhood secretary, was in charge of the meeting and the Rev. Don Hurbuck served as pastor host.

Dr. Stanley Jordan, pastor of the Queensborough Baptist Church of Shreveport delivered the keynote address.

The Baptist Brotherhood of Farmerville led by the president, Dr. J. D. Miller, and pastor L. B. Hall, gave a stage demonstration on the work of the executive committee for brotherhood.

FORMER MISSIONARIES—Dr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Stuntz, now residents of 702 Auburn, Monroe, were missionaries to India and Pakistan for 42 years.

TOM WAFER

Wafer Accepts Music Post At Highland Park

Mr. Tom Wafer has accepted the position of Minister of Music for the Highland Park Baptist Chrch. It will be his responsibility to develope a department of music in the church, located on Roberts street in Monroe. He brings an extensive background of training and experience with church choirs to this new position.

Mrs. Wafer will be an invaluable aid to the work of her husband. She is also a well trained and talented musician, according to the church pastor who made the announcement.

Wafer is the Band Director for the West Monroe Junior High School and Mrs. Wafer is the teacher of vocal music at the Ouachita Parish Junior High School.

New Church Constituted At Pine Grove

The council assisting in the organization was: Moderator, Rev. Leon Ivey, Temple Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. C. B. Thompson, Highland Park Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. H. M. Roach, Swartz Baptist Church; Rev. Fred Doolittle, Emmanuel Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. D. W. Nix, Calvary Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. Grover Smith, New Light Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. Vester R. Headrick, Lakeshore Baptist Church, Monroe; Rev. Willie Woodard, Secretary to the Council, Faith Baptist Church, Monroe; and Rev. Jimmy Bolton, guest, First Baptist Church, Columbia, La. The council was ably assisted by Rev. A. L. New, District Missionary.

The Church extended the call to Rev. Robert E. Peek to be its pastor. Among other officers elected were as follows: Sunday School Superintendent, N. C. Noland; Training Union Director, Evelyn McKnight; Brotherhood President, W. J. Greenan Trustees, W. J. Greenan, Herby Moore, N. C. Noland.

Construction of a brick auditorium has already begun at the upper intersection of Winnsboro Road and Moore Road. It is anticipated that the church will be completed within six weeks, and a cordial invitation is extended to those in the area, to join in the worship services.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: In our college ethics class, we have been discussing the comparative values of different religions. In all of them we discover similarities and resemblances. Are we right in concluding that the good life is the essence of religion? We are quite ready to agree that Christianity is superior in presenting such ideals, but is it necessarily unique?

ANSWER: Yes, Christianity is unique!

The presence of similarities in various religions does not indicate their relatedness, it merely shows that all men have within them a common sense of right and wrong, even though that sense has been dulled and distorted. I would be misunderstood if I declared that the good life is not the essence of Christianity, and yet I must do so. The good life is certainly a goal, but nothing more than the immediate one. The ultimate goal is man's final and complete restoration to his intended standing before his creator. This final and complete restoration was made possible through the redemptive work of Christ, and man can by no other means achieve the good life here or his final restoration in eternity. Therefore, it must be insisted that redemption and restoration are the essentials, and the good life a by product, no matter how desirable. Your conclusion would be correct if this life were all, but man was made for eternity. The Bible declares that, "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together even into now, awaiting the manifestation of the sons of God."

THE HOME SHIFT

Rose Planting Timely Task

By MILDRED SWIFT

Some mighty fine rose information was given by Al Alleman of Baton Rouge who consults with specialists at LSU Extension on all subjects.

It's timely to talk about roses because now, and on into February, you'll be planting these. There are lots of growers who feel that anytime after the weather gets cold is the time to plant roses.

WHY FEBRUARY

We often have mild winters on up until February and March, then we'll have a freeze. Now, suppose you put out roses in a mild November and the weather continues that way. The bushes will start to grow, then the February freeze comes and kills back the plants. They probably wouldn't be killed completely but would suffer a severe shock. Then they'd be late recovering.

Roses planted in January and February will not likely sprout until danger of freeze is over.

ALL AMERICA ROSES

There are two rose winners this year. One is Ivory Fashion, a white Floribunda. Its buds are perfectly formed and the high centered flower is almost four inches wide when open. As with other Floribundas there's an abundance of flowers. It grows about thirty inches high and blooms over a long period of time.

The other winner is Starfire, a cherry red Grandiflora. (Grandiflora is a cross between Hybrid Teas and Floribundas.) Its blossoms are bright cherry red, born singly and in clusters. Its growth is compact. The foliage is luxuriant and bronzy.

TREES

Trees help create homey or formal effects by their colors, shapes, and densities. An architect will frequently add a tree to the sketch of a house to help the new owner visualize it as it will be after it becomes a home.

In many areas, the presence of one well-placed tree raises the value of the lot it stands on by several hundred dollars. So - take care of those trees.

When filling your lot remember, few if any, trees will survive having their roots covered with heavy layers of soil. Yes, trouble will soon start if you pile the soil against the bark of the tree, too.

Metal tree wells are available 3 to 7 feet across, 1 to 3 feet high to place around the tree to protect the trunk. Other roots can stand some fill in, depending on the variety of the tree and depth of root growth.

You can use stone, concrete or brick around the tree as a protection against soil fill in against the trunk. Don't confuse this protection with the ornamental flower bed around a tree. This latter has long since been judged, not an ornament, but a disfigurement in the garden.

PATIOS AND TREES

If there's a well established shade tree, that's where we like to locate the patio. We've long since learned that lawn grasses can't stand the beating of many footsteps, so most of us hard surface.

Now, how this hard surfacing will effect the roots of the tree depends on thinking the problem through before we start. Brick, with sand between does no damage because water filters down to the roots.

Blacktop and concrete are more "smothering" in character. However if the tree is large and the roots are the type that extend far out to and beyond the edge of the limbs, you're still safe. These feeder roots at the edge will take up food and moisture.

However, in this case it is best to begin the hard-surfacing a foot or two away from the base of the tree. This can be left in a circle or a square. Put in a layer of gravel there and set pot plants in the circle or square. Then you have double assurance for water for your beloved tree.

It was Joyce Kilmer who said, "Poems were made by fools like me, but only God can make a tree." So — it behooves us mortals to take care of His handwork.

CLUMPS OF TREES

There is beauty in numbers. You can get the effect of a large tree, quicker, by planting several trees in a single clump. The increased leaf and branch area will give you shade you would have to wait years for if you planted a single tree.

You care for the tree clumps exactly like you would a single tree. The young trees will quickly adapt to each other and form a graceful clump. You need only to remove the branches that rub and to remove the dead wood.

To get an informal clump effect, make the whole much larger than if you were planting a single tree. Place the two or, prettier still, three young trees in the hole. Interlock the roots like you would your fingers. Tie trunks together at soil level.

Or course this tie will need to be something soft and you'll need a piece of rubber tube under the tie to protect the trunk. Else, the rope will grow into the trunk.

TREES SUITABLE

You can't imagine, planting three oaks in a clump. They're entirely too astude. But maples, sycamores, mimosas, elms, crabapples, some birches are good examples of those that will lend themselves to clump planting. Sycamores do beautifully planted, "thusly." And - you know my thoughts on that tree. Those white trunks are beautiful beyond words.

Some say the leaves and litter of the sycamore are a nuisance. What tree doesn't make a mess? What about the mimosa? The pecan? The sycamore drops its leaves very quickly and that's it! They almost seem to apologize because they have leaves to drop.

Some of the oaks drop leaves all the time. Your yard is never clean - after all- what would we do without leaves for mulch? But —if I get started on that subject this Garden Page wouldn't be large enough.

CARE FOR THEM

Take care of your trees. When you prune, always cut limbs parallel to the trunk, and avoid leaving stubs

If the limb is over two inches thick, make three cuts - one on the upper side about a foot from the trunk, another 6 inches from the trunk and underneath the limb, and the final cut to remove the limb.

This method keeps the bark from tearing when the weight of the limb causes it to drop. Paint the wounds with the seal.

Prune all dead, diseased and damaged wood, as soon as it is needed. Clean up and burn wood immediately after pruning to kill insects and prevent spreading disease.

Fertilizing of course is important. Many of our beautiful old trees starve to death. We'll talk about that next Sunday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for the next week are: Monday, Mrs. Katherine Hoyt will prepare a beautiful and delicious party salad; Tuesday Carol Sue Ellermon will show us how to use and care for our electric skillets and steam irons; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Kulke, Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

EXTENSION NEWS AND VIEWS

Session On Lawn Planning

By AUDREY DAWSON

I've had many many calls recently wanting help on planning home grounds and it is impossible to give all the help needed — so for you who need help, Mrs. Winona Guedry, State Garden Specialist from LSU Agricultural Extension, and Mr. Kirby Cockerham, Specialist (Entomology), will be with us at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe January 30, at 9:00 o'clock a.m. Mrs. Guedry will demonstrate planning home grounds for easy maintenance and Mr. Cockerham will give a demonstration on control of insects. This information will be of great help to you, Mrs. Gardener, so circle this date on your calendar. This meeting is open to the public.

MORE PLANNING

It is almost time for us to get in our yards and I know you are just as anxious as I to get started but let me urge you to make plans first. With wise landscape planning you can plant trees, shrubs and flowers that complement the house and garden. Here are some points to help avoid disappointment and financial loss in buying plants. Decide on the location in which you wish to plant. Think about the size the plant will be at maturity, whether you want green all year or only part of the year; whether you prefer broad leaves or needles. If you like flowering plants consider the colors that will look best in your garden and what season you would like the plants to bloom. Also consider sunlight, soil and drainage. How many hours does the sun hit the spot.

COTTON KNIT

Did you ever buy T-shirts or cotton knit underwear that looked fine when they were new, but got all out of shape after a few washings? Miss Cooley, our specialist in Consumer Education, says that if you had examined these garments when they were new, you probably would have found that the tiny loops were pulled long and thin. This is because the fabric was stretched and pulled during manufacturing. When the garments were washed, the loops relaxed and returned to their normal shape. Miss Cooley advises that before you buy your garment, you should stretch the fabric a little and hold it over a contrasting background so the loops can be seen and look for garments with firm even knitting. Be sure to get the best for your money.

NEW 4-H AGENT

Betty Jane Hodgkins, who has been the Associate Agent in our parish this past year, is leaving us to become the Home Demonstration Agent in Morehouse. Best wishes to Betty in her new position.

We in the Extension office welcome Glenda Willet who has been in Jackson Parish for the past four years. Glenda will be in our parish January 26th and will be assigned to primarily 4-H Club work.

FLOOR COVERINGS

A recent survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that about 60 per cent of the homemakers who use any kind of floor covering in their living rooms had rugs larger than 4x6 feet and about 17 per cent had wall to wall carpeting. Most of these large rugs were of wool, despite the fact that markets now offer rugs of different fibers, including synthetics, and various blends.

Most homemakers who preferred wool gave durability as the chief reason. Many mentioned the moth problem as a disadvantage and for this reason many were interested in the new fibers now available. The survey showed that the average American bedroom is likely to have cotton scatter rugs.

Roots Problem For Shrubbery

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Azaleas, camellias and other shade - living shrubs growing under trees may need special help in their competition with the tree roots. Sometimes these shrubs just seem to stand still instead of putting on their annual growth. Of course both the trees and the shrubs must be adequately fed to nourish both. You can help your camellias to get started, however, by cutting the tree roots in a circle out about two feet from the edge of the shrubs. Do this once a year until your shrubs begin to make normal growth.

SMALL TREES

The above applies to all the small trees and shrubs we plant under the shade of big trees. Young dogwoods and hemlocks sometimes fail to grow when their competition is too great. Under these circumstances, they will just wither away unless monthly feedings are made from January till June. Where shade tree roots have become too large to cut through them easily with a sharp spade, it will be necessary to dig a shallow trench down to the tree roots. Then the roots can be cut with a mattock. While the trench is open, scatter a generous amount of fertilizer in it.

This is a good time of the year to look over the place and see what has been starving. Plants too close to a hedge are often not getting their share of food. Where a hedge goes under shade trees, it needs more food and cultivation than the rest of the hedge if it is to grow to the same size. If there is room for a small tractor to pass between a hedge and the trees and shrubs near it, a subsoiler can be used to cut the roots in a straight line on each side. Fertilizer can be spread in the trench, too.

WEEDING OUT

All kinds of little trees are apt to come up in your hedge. Birds carry seeds there, and some are blown into the hedge by the wind. Maples are perhaps the worst of these wind blown visitors. Privets are the worst ones carried by birds. Before you know it, your hedge may turn into a thicket of little trees if you do not cut them out. Use the long handled pruners, and cut them off at ground level. A second cutting of the sprouts in mid-summer will kill most of them.

Plants growing in small areas where they are cut off by walls, walks, driveways and the like will always need careful feeding. Sometimes a shrub will grow beautifully for a period of years and then begin to go backwards. Usually, it has run out of food and possibly adequate moisture. In this case, you will have to replace it with a smaller one after you replace the old soil or fertilize it very frequently.

FOLLOWING EXPLOSION

Medical Workers Met Tough Task

Doctors, employees of St. Francis Hospital and Twin City ambulance drivers met an unparalled challenge Friday night when trained thinking restored orderly action into what could have been bedlam.

Every department of the hospital sprang into instant action as news of an explosion of a derailed tank car of the Missouri Pacific rocked the town. All hospital officials knew was that many were injured.

Before the night was over, 60 had been given emergency treatment for burns, 88 pints of blood had been drawn from donors which was just the beginning of a story that will go in the hospital annals.

S. E. Burgoyne, business manager of St. Francis, gave a sketch of the action thus:

"The seventh floor, where the chronically ill are hospitalized, was evacuated. The floor' workers quickly put fresh linen on all beds.

BLOOD BANK

"The blood bank staff drew some 80 pints of blood within two hours, drawing blood from four people simultaneously. The medical staff — some 25 doctors — immediately took over and began treatment. Nursing personnel, numbering about 250 with those off duty reporting, began individual treatment.

"The pharmacy was manned by pharmacists who supplied plasma and antibiotics and burn preparations. Drug salesmen and wholesale drug houses assisted by making available all supplies.

"What appeared to be utter confusion due to the extreme number of relatives, visitors and immediate members of the family in the corridors soon changed to orderly action," Burgoyne concluded.

Hospital officials commended Twin City policemen, members of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's office and state troopers for their part in the tragedy. State troopers sped blood to the hospital from supplies from Ruston, and Jackson, Miss. Blood was flown in from New Orleans and Memphis.

All routine work also continued at the hospital in addition to treating the influx of patients. While burn victims flooded the emergency room, an operation was being performed to relieve chest congestion complicated by pneumonia in a five-month-old boy.

Meanwhile, officials at E. A. Conway Hospital pointed out that facilities were set up there within half an hour following the explosion. All technicians, nurses and two doctors were reported to have returned to their places of duty, though only one victim of the blast was treated at the hospital.

One technician described the urgent need for civilian assistance in traffic direction both inside and outside of hospitals in any future emergency. "We drew 100 pints of blood, and 42 of these were sent to the St. Francis blood bank — all they had room for there," she said.

Hospital authorities at both St. Francis and Conway Memorial commended the great number of persons in the area who volunteered to donate blood.

Judge Loses His Temper, Is Arrested

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Circuit Judge Vincent C. Giblin was arrested and taken to Coral Gables police headquarters in a squad car Friday for interfering with an officer who had stopped his wife for speeding.

The policeman, Seymour Anderson, said Giblin told him "I'm immune to arrest" and took over the wheel from his wife and had to be chased 20 blocks.

Giblin, who in 1957 refused to wear his black robe in court because he said the conduct of other judges had defiled the garment, was released without bond to await trial Feb. 4.

Mrs. Giblin paid a $15 fine for speeding.

Anderson said Mrs. Giblin was driving 38 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

"I started to write out a summons," he said, "and the judge yelled at me that he didn't have to take that."

Coral Gables Police Chief William G. Kimbrough said the judge explained to him: "It was just a case of two hot-headed people losing their heads at the same time. I'm sorry for what I did and said."

He produced a law book in which he said was a statute making judges immune to arrest when they are on the way to court. He said he had cited the passage to Anderson.

In the chase, Anderson said, "I had my red light and siren on, and I pulled alongside six times....He kept on going until the last time.

"Then he got out of the car and told me he refused to submit to arrest."

Giblin said, "They made me stand in the street with my hands up while they frisked me. There I was with my hands up while hundreds of people in cars went by."

THE HOME SHIFT

Rose Planting Timely Task

By MILDRED SWIFT

Some mighty fine rose information was given by Al Alleman of Baton Rouge who consults with specialists at LSU Extension on all subjects.

It's timely to talk about roses because now, and on into February, you'll be planting these. There are lots of growers who feel that anytime after the weather gets cold is the time to plant roses.

WHY FEBRUARY

We often have mild winters on up until February and March, then we'll have a freeze. Now, suppose you put out roses in a mild November and the weather continues that way. The bushes will start to grow, then the February freeze comes and kills back the plants. They probably wouldn't be killed completely but would suffer a severe shock. Then they'd be late recovering.

Roses planted in January and February will not likely sprout until danger of freeze is over.

ALL AMERICA ROSES

There are two rose winners this year. One is Ivory Fashion, a white Floribunda. Its buds are perfectly formed and the high centered flower is almost four inches wide when open. As with other Floribundas there's an abundance of flowers. It grows about thirty inches high and blooms over a long period of time.

The other winner is Starfire, a cherry red Grandiflora. (Grandiflora is a cross between Hybrid Teas and Floribundas.) Its blossoms are bright cherry red, born singly and in clusters. Its growth is compact. The foliage is luxuriant and bronzy.

TREES

Trees help create homey or formal effects by their colors, shapes, and densities. An architect will frequently add a tree to the sketch of a house to help the new owner visualize it as it will be after it becomes a home.

In many areas, the presence of one well-placed tree raises the value of the lot it stands on by several hundred dollars. So - take care of those trees.

When filling your lot remember, few if any, trees will survive having their roots covered with heavy layers of soil. Yes, trouble will soon start if you pile the soil against the bark of the tree, too.

Metal tree wells are available 3 to 7 feet across, 1 to 3 feet high to place around the tree to protect the trunk. Other roots can stand some fill in, depending on the variety of the tree and depth of root growth.

You can use stone, concrete or brick around the tree as a protection against soil fill in against the trunk. Don't confuse this protection with the ornamental flower bed around a tree. This latter has long since been judged, not an ornament, but a disfigurement in the garden.

PATIOS AND TREES

If there's a well established shade tree, that's where we like to locate the patio. We've long since learned that lawn grasses can't stand the beating of many footsteps, so most of us hard surface.

Now, how this hard surfacing will effect the roots of the tree depends on thinking the problem through before we start. Brick, with sand between does no damage because water filters down to the roots.

Blacktop and concrete are more "smothering" in character. However if the tree is large and the roots are the type that extend far out to and beyond the edge of the limbs, you're still safe. These feeder roots at the edge will take up food and moisture.

However, in this case it is best to begin the hard-surfacing a foot or two away from the base of the tree. This can be left in a circle or a square. Put in a layer of gravel there and set pot plants in the circle or square. Then you have double assurance for water for your beloved tree.

It was Joyce Kilmer who said, "Poems were made by fools like me, but only God can make a tree." So — it behooves us mortals to take care of His handwork.

CLUMPS OF TREES

There is beauty in numbers. You can get the effect of a large tree, quicker, by planting several trees in a single clump. The increased leaf and branch area will give you shade you would have to wait years for if you planted a single tree.

You care for the tree clumps exactly like you would a single tree. The young trees will quickly adapt to each other and form a graceful clump. You need only to remove the branches that rub and to remove the dead wood.

To get an informal clump effect, make the whole much larger than if you were planting a single tree. Place the two or, prettier still, three young trees in the hole. Interlock the roots like you would your fingers. Tie trunks together at soil level.

Or course this tie will need to be something soft and you'll need a piece of rubber tube under the tie to protect the trunk. Else, the rope will grow into the trunk.

TREES SUITABLE

You can't imagine planting three oaks in a clump. They're entirely too astude. But maples, sycamores, mimosas, elms, crabapples, some birches are good examples of those that will lend themselves to clump planting. Sycamores do beautifully planted, "thusly." And - you know my thoughts on that tree. Those white trunks are beautiful beyond words.

Some say the leaves and litter of the sycamore are a nuisance. What tree doesn't make a mess? What about the mimosa? The pecan? The sycamore drops its leaves very quickly and that's it! They almost seem to apologize because they have leaves to drop.

Some of the oaks drop leaves all the time. Your yard is never clean - after all- what would we do without leaves for mulch? But —if I get started on that subject this Garden Page wouldn't be large enough.

CARE FOR THEM

Take care of your trees. When you prune, always cut limbs parallel to the trunk, and avoid leaving stubs

If the limb is over two inches thick, make three cuts - one on the upper side about a foot from the trunk, another 6 inches from the trunk and underneath the limb, and the final cut to remove the limb.

This method keeps the bark from tearing when the weight of the limb causes it to drop. Paint the wounds with the seal.

Prune all dead, diseased and damaged wood, as soon as it is needed. Clean up and burn wood immediately after pruning to kill insects and prevent spreading disease.

Fertilizing of course is important. Many of our beautiful old trees starve to death. We'll talk about that next Sunday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for the next week are: Monday, Mrs. Katherine Hoyt will prepare a beautiful and delicious party salad; Tuesday Carol Sue Ellermon will show us how to use and care for our electric skillets and steam irons; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Kulke. Thursday and Friday, marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

Session On Lawn Planning

By AUDREY DAWSON

I've had many many calls recently wanting help on planning home grounds and it is impossible to give all the help needed — so for you who need help, Mrs. Winona Guedry, State Garden Specialist from LSU Agricultural Extension, and Mr. Kirby Cockerham, Specialist (Entomology), will be with us at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe January 30, at 9:00 o'clock a.m. Mrs. Guedry will demonstrate planning home grounds for easy maintenance and Mr. Cockerham will give a demonstration on control of insects. This information will be of great help to you, Mrs. Gardener, so circle this date on your calendar. This meeting is open to the public.

MORE PLANNING

It is almost time for us to get in our yards and I know you are just as anxious as I to get started but let me urge you to make plans first. With wise landscape planning you can plant trees, shrubs and flowers that complement the house and garden. Here are some points to help avoid disappointment and financial loss in buying plants. Decide on the location in which you wish to plant. Think about the size the plant will be at maturity, whether you want green all year or only part of the year; whether you prefer broad leaves or needles. If you like flowering plants consider the colors that will look best in your garden and what season you would like the plants to bloom. Also consider sunlight, soil and drainage. How many hours does the sun hit the spot.

COTTON KNIT

Did you ever buy T-shirts or cotton knit underwear that looked fine when they were new, but got all out of shape after a few washings? Miss Cooley, our specialist in Consumer Education, says that if you had examined these garments when they were new, you probably would have found that the tiny loops were pulled long and thin. This is because the fabric was stretched and pulled during manufacturing. When the garments were washed, the loops relaxed and returned to their normal shape. Miss Cooley advises that before you buy your garment, you should stretch the fabric a little and hold it over a contrasting background so the loops can be seen and look for garments with firm even knitting. Be sure to get the best for your money.

NEW 4-H AGENT

Betty Jane Hodgkins, who has been the Associate Agent in our parish this past year, is leaving us to become the Home Demonstration Agent in Morehouse. Best wishes to Betty in her new position.

We in the Extension office welcome Glenda Willet who has been in Jackson Parish for the past four years. Glenda will be in our parish January 26th and will be assighed to primarily 4-H Club work.

FLOOR COVERINGS

A recent survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that about 60 per cent of the homemakers who use any kind of floor covering in their living rooms had rugs larger than 4x6 feet and about 17 per cent had wall to wall carpeting. Most of these large rugs were of wool, despite the fact that markets now offer rugs of different fibers, including synthetics, and various blends.

Most homemakers who preferred wool gave durability as the chief reason. Many mentioned the moth problem as a disadvantage and for this reason many were interested in the new fibers now available. The survey showed that the average American bedroom is likely to have cotton scatter rugs.

Roots Problem For Shrubbery

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Azaleas, camellias and other shade - living shrubs growing under trees may need special help in their competition with the tree roots. Sometimes these shrubs just seem to stand still instead of putting on their annual growth. Of course both the trees and the shrubs must be adequately fed to nourish both. You can help your camellias to get started, however, by cutting the tree roots in a circle out about two feet from the edge of the shrubs. Do this once a year until your shrubs begin to make normal growth.

SMALL TREES

The above applies to all the small trees and shrubs we plant under the shade of big trees. Young dogwoods and hemlocks sometimes fail to grow when their competition is too great. Under these circumstances, they will just wither away unless monthly feedings are made from January till June. Where shade tree roots have become too large to cut through them easily with a sharp spade, it will be necessary to dig a shallow trench down to the tree roots. Then the roots can be cut with a mattock. While the trench is open, scatter a generous amount of fertilizer in it.

This is a good time of the year to look over the place and see what has been starving. Plants too close to a hedge are often not getting their share of food. Where a hedge goes under shade trees, it needs more food and cultivation than the rest of the hedge if it is to grow to the same size. If there is room for a small tractor to pass between a hedge and the trees and shrubs near it, a subsoiler can be used to cut the roots in a straight line on each side. Fertilizer can be spread in the trench, too.

WEEDING OUT

All kinds of little trees are apt to come up in your hedge. Birds carry seeds there, and some are blown into the hedge by the wind. Maples are perhaps the worst of these wind blown visitors. Privets are the worst ones carried by birds. Before you know it, your hedge may turn into a thicket of little trees if you do not cut them out. Use the long handled pruners, and cut them off at ground level. A second cutting of the sprouts in mid-summer will kill most of 'hem.

Plants growing in small areas where they are cut off by walls, walks, driveways and the like will always need careful feeding. Sometimes a shrub will grow beautifully for a period of years and then begin to go backwards. Usually, it has run out of food and possibly adequate moisture. In this case, you will have to replace it with a smaller one after you replace the old soil or fertilize it very frequently.

Medical Workers Met Tough Task

Doctors, employees of St. Francis Hospital and Twin City ambulance drivers met an unparalled challenge Friday night wnen trained thinking restored orderly action into what could have been bedlam.

Every department of the hospital sprang into instant action as news of an explosion of a derailed tank car of the Missouri Pacific rocked the town. All hospital officials knew was that many were injured.

Before the night was over, 60 had been given emergency treatment for burns, 88 pints of blood had been drawn from donors which was just the beginning of a story that will go in the hospital annals.

S. E. Burgoyne, business manager of St. Francis, gave a sketch of the action thus:

"The seventh floor, where the chronically ill are hospitalized, was evacuated. The floor' workers quickly put fresh linen on all beds.

BLOOD BANK

"The blood bank staff drew some 80 pints of blood within two hours, drawing blood from four people simultaneously. The medical staff — some 25 doctors — immediately took over and began treatment. Nursing personnel, numbering about 250 with those off duty reporting, began individual treatment.

"The pharmacy was manned by pharmacists who supplied plasma and antibiotics and burn preparations. Drug salesmen and wholesale drug houses assisted by making available all supplies.

"What appeared to be utter confusion due to the extreme number of relatives, visitors and immediate members of the family in the corridors soon changed to orderly action," Burgoyne concluded.

Hospital officials commended Twin City policemen, members of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's office and state troopers for their part in the tragedy. State troopers sped blood to the hospital from supplies from Ruston, and Jackson, Miss. Blood was flown in from New Orleans and Memphis.

All routine work also continued at the hospital in addition to treating the influx of patients. While burn victims flooded the emergency room, an operation was being performed to relieve chest congestion complicated by pneumonia in a five-month-old boy.

Meanwhile, officials at E. A. Conway Hospital pointed out that facilities were set up there within half an hour following the explosion. All technicians, nurses and two doctors were reported to have returned to their places of duty, though only one victim of the blast was treated at the hospital.

One technician described the urgent need for civilian assistance in traffic direction both inside and outside of hospitals in any future emergency. "We drew 100 pints of blood, and 42 of these were sent to the St. Francis blood bank — all they had room for there," she said.

Hospital authorities at both St. Francis and Conway Memorial commended the great number of persons in the area who volunteered to donate blood.

Judge Loses His Temper, Is Arrested

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Circuit Judge Vincent C. Giblin was arrested and taken to Coral Gables police headquarters in a squad car Friday for interfering with an officer who had stopped his wife for speeding.

The policeman, Seymour Anderson, said Giblin told him "I'm immune to arrest" and took over the wheel from his wife and had to be chased 20 blocks.

Giblin, who in 1957 refused to wear his black robe in court because he said the conduct of other judges had defiled the garment, was released without bond to await trial Feb. 4.

Mrs. Giblin paid a $15 fine for speeding.

Anderson said Mrs. Giblin was driving 38 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

"I started to write out a summons," he said, "and the judge yelled at me that he didn't have to take that."

Coral Gables Police Chief William G. Kimbrough said the judge explained to him: "It was just a case of two hot-headed people losing their heads at the same time. I'm sorry for what I did and said."

He produced a law book in which he said was a statute making judges immune to arrest when they are on the way to court. He said he had cited the passage to Anderson.

In the chase, Anderson said, "I had my red light and siren on, and I pulled alongside six times....He kept on going until the last time.

"Then he got out of the car and told me he refused to submit to arrest."

Giblin said, "They made me stand in the street with my hands up while they frisked me. There I was with my hands up while hundreds of people in cars went by."

Artists Find Inspiration In Orient

TOKYO, (AP)—Once the young American artist made his pilgrimage to Montparnasse and Montmartre to study, work and mature.

Now more and more of them are flocking to Japan in search of inspiration, truth and beauty.

Some are attracted by what they consider the "spiritual truths" of the religions of the East—such as Zen Buddhism now a vogue among many youngsters in the United States.

Others come here to escape what they feel is the excessive materialism of the West.

Still others feel the artist is more readily appreciated and accepted in Japan.

"The people here are rooted in an esthetic background," says Sari Dienes, veteran New York exhibitor, who has behind her years of study and work in Europe. "This is an esthetic civilization."

The abstract painter, for instance, finds a kinship in "purity in art" which has imbued Japanese painting for centuries.

In addition, the stress here on calligraphy — or hand writing — is similar to much of the painting now being done in the West.

Japanese love of beautiful arrangements — in food, in dress, in flowers — also attracts the artists.

"Their way of life is an art form," said one American painter.

But there are also very practical considerations.

"The climate of Japan is wonderful and the cost of living is low," says painter David P. Adickes, 31, of Houston, Tex.

Adickes and Miss Dienes are only two of an increasing number of American painters who have come to Japan in recent years for varying periods of time. They have exhibited in Tokyo and other cities.

The westward migration was given impetus by the Korean War, which brought many youngsters of artistic bent to the Far East for the first time. They liked what they saw and decided to return.

Al Everett, 41, who has lived and worked in Colorado, Washington and Germany rejoined the Army in 1948 with the hope of being sent to the Far East. He was shipped here a year later and is now art editor of the Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes, the military newspaper.

Says Everett: "I feel more alive — artistically — here than I do in the United States. Japan is more conducive to the artist. There is an appreciation of the more subtle approach to life and art. Such as an appreciation of red not because it is a bright red but because there is black and white in it."

"Eventually all the people will come over here to work and study," Everett predicted. "The artist should come to get the feeling that he belongs. In the states, he is lost — superfluous."

Adickes studied in Paris at the Fernand Leger Studio from 1948 to 1950.

"Japan is an exciting place visually for an artist if one notices the shops in the back alleys of the Ginza (Tokyo's brilliantly lighted main thoroughfare). The landscape in Japan is also picturesque."

But he admitted the cost of traveling to Japan might deter many artists from making the trip.

Ansei Uchima, 37-year-old Japanese - American born in Stockton, Calif., has lived in Japan since 1940 and is now a leading woodblock artist here.

Summing up what he thought was the attraction of the Far East for the artist, Uchima said: "Perhaps there is a certain mysticism in the East which provides the artist with the shock necessary to get him over the here and now.

"There is also a union with nature — a oneness with nature. In the West the idea is to conquer nature."

RUNNING THE SCALES

with John Cale

The recital of Joseph Battista, American pianist, at Crossett Friday night opened the post-Christmas, New Year season of live concertizing in this area. Attendance at the Battista program included a number of northeast Louisianians since membership cards for the Monroe Community Concerts Association were honored at the door of the Crossett Municipal Auditorium.

This same reciprocity applies to the concert of Nadine Conner and Eugene Conley in Alexanlria tomorrow night at Bolton High School auditorium.

COMIN' UP

Members of the La. Tech Concert Association will note a change in attractions in mid - February. The Wagner Opera Company, scheduled to perform Verdi's 'Rigoletto" on February 17, has announced it will not tour this part of the nation this spring. To fill the date, the association has selected the Heidelberg University Chorus made up of a group of young singers from the old German city.

Incidentally, so much is happening in area concert halls and auditoriums during mid-February until those interested had better make plans now to pick and choose. The Boston Pops Orchestra will perform in Alexandria on February 12 — a Thursday, by the way — and on that same evening, the Twin City Symphony will present its second concert of the 1958-59 season at Brown Hall on the Northeast campus.

DISPERSION

There you have it. There is more going on in the cultural line in northeast Louisiana than can be taken in, a phenomenon considered out of the realm of possibility a century ago when New Orleans was a national cultural center. At that time, this part of the 55-year-old state was just another part of the "wilderness west of Natchez."

It has been a combination of many things which has seen a substantial growth of musical and stage productions in this area. One of the most elementary forces at work in this direction has been the growth of the cities of Monroe, Alexandria and Shreveport and the people's desire to enjoy a certain amount of live entertainment. Hence traveling professionals have more and more taken an interest in arranging their bookings to include stops in areas similar to northeast Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS STORY

Recent mention that the New Orleans Symphony would tour the eastern seaboard was greeted with interest throughout the state. The "Crescent City" has long been a regional center for opera and symphonic music. Now the conductor and players will get the opportunity to see how northeastern audiences and critics feel about their efforts.

To those who have followed the background of New Orleans for many years, it must seem a little out of place for New Orleans to be looking for "critical opinions from the east." In the newspaper, the New Orleans Daily Delta of Feb. 29, 1858, a writer pointed out opera had long been an institution in New Orleans while failing in New York. If the writer seems boastful, other records back him up by relating the fact that New Orleans was the first city in the United States to establish opera permanently. An early setting of the "Barber of Seveille" played there as early as 1810 with French opera becoming well established in the Louisiana city in 1837.

RECONSTRUCTION

It was the reconstruction period following the Civil War which saw the decline of New Orleans' position on the national musical scene. All efforts went apparently to appease "Silver Spoon" Butler and the carpet bag rule, and cultural growth had to take a back seat.

Though lagging behind New York, Boston and other large cities during the first half of the present century music and opera wise, the strong traditions ever present in New Orleans would not allow the fine arts to fade from the scene.

It is for this reason that the eastern tour of the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra through the east — arranged for by a New York agency, by the way — is considered a step once again towards the top for a famous New Orleans organization.

BOOKS

Kitchener: Portrait of an Imperialist, by Philip Magnus (Dutton): Kitchener was Britain's most famous soldier in the late 19th and 20th centuries. His contributions to the rise of the empire before World War I comprise the best parts of this biography. The Field Marshal is depicted as a celibate authoritarian whose exploits made him a hero among his people despite a number of professional weaknesses. Magnus doubts Kitchener's reputed genius for administration and says his "two basic attributes were an unparalled thoroughness and an unparalled drive. . ."

Supermanship, by Stephen Potter (Random House): An advanced text for students who have mastered the basic plays of "Gamesmanship," "Lifemanship." and "One-Upmanship." It contains valuable information about such subjects as "How to be good at the piano without being able to play much really." Potter brings his wit to bear on international matters too, including Trojan horsemanship—the basic Khrushchev gambit and "the perpetual one-upness for Marxmanship" as well as its corollary, the perpetual one-downness of Western policy. The emphasis, however, is on gentler subjects such as the superbaby, weekendmanship, reviewmanship and approved methods for making yourself "top passenger" on a transatlantic plane. Potter's disciples will need no introduction to his methods, but strangers are advised to consult his earlier works before tackling this new one.

Swamp Fox, by Robert D. Bass (Holt): A "little smoke-dried Huguenot" named Francis Marion is probably the best - known guerrilla America ever produced. For more than a year during the Revolution he led the only forces opposing the British in eastern South Carolina and helped set the seal on their final defeat. Guerrilla warfare in Marion's day was a far cry from the semi - organized banditry that bears the name today. The Swamp Fox's troops were militia and varied in strength and composition from day to day, but with outside help, notably from Virginia's Light Horse Harry Lee, he was often able to meet the enemy in open battle. Sources for the book includes unpublished letters of Lord Cornwallis, made available by descendants of the British general who was Marion's arch - enemy.

Nautilus 90 North, by Comdr. William R. Anderson, U.S.N., with Clay Blair, Jr. (World): On Aug. 5, 1958, the top-secret message "Nautilus 90 north," flashed from a point near Greenland by way of Japan to Washington, reported completion of a historic mission — America's first atomic submarine had crossed the North Pole. The voyage held anxious moments for the Nautilus' officers, but for most of the crew it was smooth, comfortable sailing.

-THE ARTS-

Imperialist And His Glory

KITCHENER: Portrait of an Imperialist. By Philip Magnus. Dutton. $6.50.

Horatio Herbert Kitchener, son of an army man who was a curious sort of domestic as well as professional martinet, was born in 1850 in Ireland. In 1916 he was aboard the Hampshire on his way to Archangel to accept an invitation from the czar of Russia to view her war effort when the cruiser struck a mine and sank, carrying him to his death. Into those 66 years he packed enough glory to satisfy the most insensate ambition — exactly the ambition which fired him all his life.

From his earliest years in uniform, he wanted to outshine his fellows, and Gordon who died at Khartoum was his idol. He served with distinction in 1880 when, already a master of Arabic, he took a kind of French leave of his Cyprus post and went on a spying adventure to Egypt. He was praised in official reports for energy, judgment, tact, self - reliance, determination and courage, and his services were described as "of the greatest value to the security of Egypt, and to Her Majesty's forces now protecting it."

"The proudest day of Kitchener's life," says Magnus, was Sept. 2, 1898, when he destroyed the army of the Khalifa's dervishes at Omdurman and earned the title of Kitchener of Khartoum. After a career distressingly compounded of some failure in South Africa, and service in India as commander in chief and thorny associate of Curzon, he suffered "the most bitter disappointment" of his life when he was denied the post of viceroy.

In World War I he was the indispensable man. The public idolized him, and for a while as secretary of war he justified this. But that was no longer a world for proconsular single-handed control. The situation was too complex. Drive and personal throughness were not enough. Kitchener lost the habit of decision and was eased out by his worried cabinet colleagues.

Merciless, brooking no opposition or criticism, blunt in speech, mad for pomp, jealous for his prestige, as greedy for statuary and rare art as any warrior for his traditional loot, he makes a singularly fascinating figure, and Magnus brings him imposingly to life.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

More And More Books Added

OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARIAN FRANCES FLANDERS

As the winter publishing season goes into full swing, more and more lovely books are being added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. A most interesting new fiction title is "We the living" by Ayn Rand. This book was originally written in 1936 and has long been out of print. It is now reissued by popular demand. After the success of "The fountainhead" and "Atlas shrugged" there are many readers who will be eager to read "We the living." This story is as significant and timely as when it was first published. It's locale is Soviet Russia and its theme is the greatest conflict of our days the individual against the collective. "Elephant Hill" by Robin White is the 1959 Harper Prize Novel. It has a most unusual setting in India and is the story of the adventures which befell an American spinster, when she went there for a visit with her sister.

Two new reference books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library this past week, One is "Who's Who of American Women." The other is the latest edition of "The Statesman's Year Book.

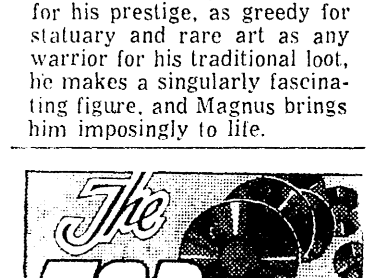
For those interested in the Old South and the Civil War there are two new titles available. "Kentucky Cavaliers in Dixie" by George Musgrove and "Blockade" by Robert Carse. This is the story of the Civil War at sea and makes exciting reading. Frances Winwar is one of our best modern biographers and she had just completed a life of Edgar Allan Poe called "The Haunted palace." This is a book which will interest many readers and add considerably to our knowledge of this unusual man.

"The Audubon Book of True Nature Stories", selected and edited by John K. Terres is a fascinating collection of true stories from the Audubon magazine. Each story reveals the personality and remarkable behavior of many of our North American wild creatures. It is a book which will appeal to all men and boys who are nature lovers. Everyone who likes stories of criminals and their activities will want to read "The Double Dealers" by Alexander Klein. This is a story of confidence men and how they work.

A most valuable book for the farmer is called 'Successful Truck Farming." It was written by Gerald J. Stout and contains much advice for those engaged in this occupation. "A Passion for Books" is the title of a new book by Lawrence Clark Powell. It is an account of the pleasures of book collecting and will appeal to many readers.

J. Horace McFarland is one of the authorities on roses in America. His company publishes each year a book called Modern Roses. We have just received the latest title in this series called "Modern Roses V." It is beautifully illustrated and will be eagerly received by rose fanciers. It is beautifully illustrated in color and is a very fine book.

Every day people ask us when we are going to move to the new library. It will be sometime within the next month. The building is almost completed and our next step is the installation of the furniture. After that is done we will move the books and announce the date of the formal opening. If you are not now using the resources of the Public Library, we invite you to register before the new building is opened, so you will be ready to borrow books at that time.



Best-selling records of the week based on The Cash Box Magazine's nationwide survey

2. THE CHIPMUNK SONG, Chipmunks & David Seville.
3. MY HAPPINESS, Connie Francis.
4. TOM DOOLEY, Kingston Trio
5. ONE NIGHT, Elvis Presley.
6. TO KNOW HIM IS TO LOVE HIM, Teddy Bears.
7. GOTTA TRAVEL ON, Billy Grammer.
8. 16 CANDLES, Crests.
9. DONNA, Ritchie Valens
10. LITTLE DRUMMER BOY, Harry Simeone Chorale.

Fascinating Novel About An Outcast

SUNSET IN ETERNITY By Terry Andrews (Vantage, $4.50). Terry was fascinated by Tom Angel. She was also scared to death. She dared not love this man. She tried desperately to put the feeling from her, to tell herself it was a dream, that she would awaken. But. . .it was not a dream. It was real, she was awake, and she was in love with an alcoholic.

Rarely has a book been published which probes as intimately into the tragedy of alcoholism as this searingly realistic story of the hopeless love of a devoted Christian woman for a sick soul.

For Tom Angel, though considered an outcast, an object of derision, by those who did not understand, was sick--under the spell of a craving he could not overcome. Step by step this novel shows his disintegration, his pathetic attempts at self-mastery, his frenetic search for relief, his despairs, and his hopes. . .

Pioneer, Go Home Is Excellent One

PIONEER, GO HOME! By Richard Powell. Scribners. $3.75.

Pop Kwimper and his son, Toby, the two adopted twins, and Holly Jones, who'd love to be adopted, stray off a main Florida road in their jalopy and land at the water's edge, out of gas, out of food, out of shelter, and out of the government money they've been living on contentedly.

So for lack of passersby from whom they can bum gas, the Robinson Crusoe Kwimpers start to depend on themselves —dig for water, fish or food, collect coconuts for milk and fat, make dishes out of fronds, and build a lean-to. And while as a tribe they act as though they liked it, pretty Holly particularly loves it for at last she can have a go at handsome Toby without outside interference and she may rise from a mere nobody Jones to be a Kwimper herself.

But of course the government which had been supporting this band disapproves strongy when it 'pretends to support itself. A road supervisor tries to drive them off, a welfare agent wants to get them into a properly regimented settlement, and the school department connives to penalize them for not educating the twins.

We would like to agree with the publisher that this is a "hilarious novel." but we can't. It would be easy to quip that if there's anything hilarious about it, it is the fact that it has sold to the movies for $175,000. But that wouldn't be fair, either, for this is an unusually ingenious novel. It's a clever device for chiding us. Government supports more people than it should, says Powell, or we're better off if we support ourselves. His Kwimpers come full circle, they live off the government and then the government lives off them.

This is a sort of outline of history, and Powell's playful prayer is that the world may end not meekly but defiantly in a Kwimper.

KNOWS THE WAY

OXFORD, Conn. (AP) — State Trooper Stanley Sobieski knows his roads and can prove it.

While chasing a stockcar driver at high speeds over some back roads, Sobieshi suddenly stopped, turned around and headed in the other direction.

He turned down a side road and took a short cut to a highway. There he came out on the road in front of the speeding car. The driver, George Rzeszutek, 24, was booked for driving while his license was under suspension and driving an unregistered car.

BACK SEAT VIEWER

HOLLYWOOD — (UPI) — Red Skelton is driving a spanking new auto these days, and there's a red-haired parrot, Gaugin, riding in the back seat—watching TV.

Have Love, Have Trouble Is Light

UNARMED IN PARADISE. By Ellen Marsh. Macmillan. $4.50.

Carmian Wills and two friends, one an American like herself, are sitting at a sidewalk table on the Left Bank in Paris. Suddenly there looms up before them in work clothes a big bear of a man—Dima, an expatriate Russian. He has a wife, Denise, and a young son, but this first intense encounter immediately sparks in him and Carmian a love that carries them stormily through the two years covered in this novel.

Carmian has some money, but in marks which she must every now and then cross back into Germany to cash. Dima has had money but he must earn his way as stagehand. So finances are a problem, and poverty keeps them in squalid hotel rooms and cramped, unclean tenements up long flights of stairs.

But they have more than the want of money to nag them. Miss Marsh shows her harassed couple in the midst of a web of complex associations with individuals.

Sometimes you think it's mere pettiness, or as Lala says, red wine makes them quarrel, white makes them affectionate, tea puts them to sleep and when cigarettes are lacking they fight with her. But this is a more profound antipathy; and at the bottom even more violent than the blows the two lovers madly exchange. They have nothing but love; they have nothing to build on but fundamental alienations; only their hearts are near.

Miss Marsh does not mean to imply that since it is love lost between this Russian and this American, it must also be love lost between Russia and America. They are handy divisive symbols, no more. The trouble is still a third land—Bohemia. What is a deep fiery love if it is purposeless? It needs not only a today, and a tonight, but a tomorrow. Miss Marsh says it dramatically.

HONORED HUNGARIAN

HOLLYWOOD — (UPI) — One Hungarian refugee is now about as American as you can get although he hasn't become a citizen yet. He is Paul Laslo, an extra currently working in the Ziv TV series "Bat Masterson."

Laslo was made an honorary member of the Cherokee tribe at between-scenes ceremonies with tribal chief Henny Longarrow officiating. Longarrow also acts in the series.

Artists Find Inspiration In Orient

TOKYO, (AP)—Once the young American artist made his pilgrimage to Montparnasse and Montmartre to study, work and mature.

Now more and more of them are flocking to Japan in search of inspiration, truth and beauty.

Some are attracted by what they consider the "spiritual truths" of the religions of the East—such as Zen Buddhism now a vogue among many youngsters in the United States.

Others come here to escape what they feel is the excessive materialism of the West.

Still others feel the artist is more readily appreciated and accepted in Japan.

"The people here are rooted in an esthetic background," says Sari Dienes, veteran New York exhibitor, who has behind her years of study and work in Europe. "This is an esthetic civilization."

The abstract painter, for instance, finds a kinship in "purity in art" which has imbued Japanese painting for centuries.

In addition, the stress here on calligraphy — or hand writing — is similar to much of the painting now being done in the West.

Japanese love of beautiful arrangements — in food, in dress, in flowers — also attracts the artists.

"Their way of life is an art form," said one American painter.

But there are also very practical considerations.

"The climate of Japan is wonderful and the cost of living is iow," says painter David P. Adickes, 31, of Houston, Tex.

Adickes and Miss Dienes are only two of an increasing number of American painters who have come to Japan in recent years for varying periods of time. They have exhibited in Tokyo and other cities.

The westward migration was given impetus by the Korean War, which brought many youngsters of artistic bent to the Far East for the first time. They liked what they saw and decided to return.

Al Everett, 41, who has lived and worked in Colorado, Washington and Germany rejoined the Army in 1948 with the hope of being sent to the Far East. He was shipped here a year later and is now art editor of the Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes, the military newspaper.

Says Everett: "I feel more alive — artistically — here than I do in the United States. Japan is more conducive to the artist. There is an appreciation of the more subtle approach to life and art. Such as an appreciation of red not because it is a bright red but because there is black and white in it."

"Eventually all the people will come over here to work and study," Everett predicted. "The artist should come to get the feeling that he belongs. In the states, he is lost — superfluous."

Adickes studied in Paris at the Fernand Leger Studio from 1948 to 1950.

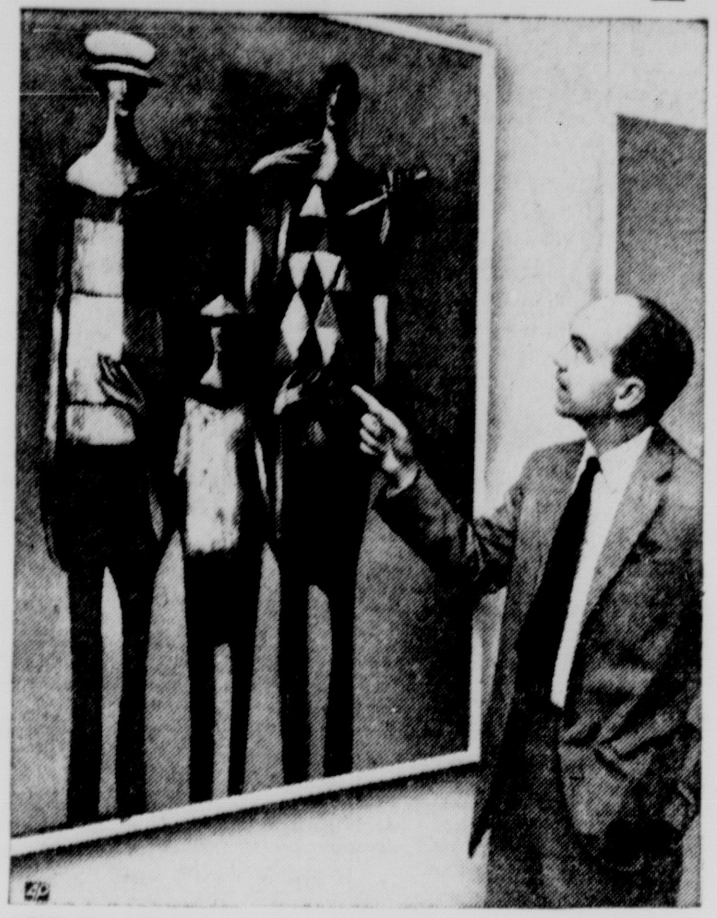
"Japan is an exciting place visually for an artist if one notices the shops in the back alleys of the Ginza (Tokyo's brilliantly lighted main thoroughfare). The landscape in Japan is also picturesque."

But he admitted the cost of traveling to Japan might deter many artists from making the trip.

Ansei Uchima, 37-year-old Japanese - American born in Stockton, Calif., has lived in Japan since 1940 and is now a leading woodblock artist here.

Summing up what he thought was the attraction of the Far East for the artist, Uchima said: "Perhaps there is a certain mysticism in the East which provides the artist with the shock necessary to get him over the here and now.

"There is also a union with nature — a oneness with nature. In the West the idea is to conquer nature."



ART IN JAPAN: David D. Adickes of Houston, Tex., examines one of his paintings in a Japanese art gallery. Adickes is one of hundreds of young painters who find Japan and its people artistically inspiring.

RUNNING THE SCALES

with John Cale

The recital of Joseph Battista, American pianist, at Crossett Friday night opened the post-Christmas, New Year season of live concertizing in this area. Attendance at the Battista program included a number of northeast Louisianians since membership cards for the Monroe Community Concerts Association were honored at the door of the Crossett Municipal Auditorium.

This same reciprocity applies to the concert of Nadine Conner and Eugene Conley in Alexanlria tomorrow night at Bolton High School auditorium.

COMIN' UP

Members of the La. Tech Concert Association will note a change in attractions in mid - February. The Wagner Opera Company, scheduled to perform Verdi's 'Rigoletto" on February 17, has announced it will not tour this part of the nation this spring. To fill the date, the association has selected the Heidelberg University Chorus made up of a group of young singers from the old German city.

Incidentally, so much is happening in area concert halls and auditoriums during mid-February until those interested had better make plans now to pick and choose. The Boston Pops Orchestra will perform in Alexandria on February 12 — a Thursday, by the way — and on that same evening, the Twin City Symphony will present its second concert of the 1958-59 season at Brown Hall on the Northeast campus.

DISPERSION

There you have it. There is more going on in the cultural line in northeast Louisiana than can be taken in, a phenomenon considered out of the realm of possibility a century ago when New Orleans was a national cultural center. At that time, this part of the 55-year-old state was just another part of the "wilderness west of Natchez."

It has been a combination of many things which has seen a substantial growth of musical and stage productions in this area. One of the most elementary forces at work in this direction has been the growth of the cities of Monroe, Alexandria and Shreveport and the people's desire to enjoy a certain amount of live entertainment. Hence traveling professionals have more and more taken an interest in arranging their bookings to include stops in areas similar to northeast Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS STORY

Recent mention that the New Orleans Symphony would tour the eastern seaboard was greeted with interest throughout the state. The "Crescent City" has long been a regional center for opera and symphonic music. Now the conductor and players will get the opportunity to see how northeastern audiences and critics feel about their efforts.

To those who have followed the background of New Orleans for many years, it must seem a little out of place for New Orleans to be looking for "critical opinions from the east." In the newspaper, the New Orleans Daily Delta of Feb. 29, 1858, a writer pointed out opera had long been an institution in New Orleans while failing in New York. If the writer seems boastful, other records back him up by relating the fact that New Orleans was the first city in the United States to establish opera permanently. An early setting of the "Barber of Seveille" played there as early as 1810 with French opera becoming well established in the Louisiana city in 1837.

RECONSTRUCTION

It was the reconstruction period following the Civil War which saw the decline of New Orleans' position on the national musical scene. All efforts went apparently to appease "Silver Spoon" Butler and the carpet bag rule, and cultural growth had to take a back seat.

Though lagging behind New York, Boston and other large cities during the first half of the present century music and opera wise, the strong traditions ever present in New Orleans would not allow the fine arts to fade from the scene.

It is for this reason that the eastern tour of the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra through the east — arranged for by a New York agency, by the way — is considered a step once again towards the top for a famous New Orleans organization.

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Vev--TV, producers of "Rough Riders," have sold the series for showing on four TV stations in Japan, as well as in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia.

In Japan, "Rough Riders" will be shown in a Japanese-language version, with Japanese actors "lip-synchronizing" the dialogue. The series co-stars Kent Taylor, Jan Merlin and Peter Whitney. It deals with their adventures in the post-Civil War era.

BOOKS

Kitchener: Portrait of an Imperialist, by Philip Magnus (Dutton): Kitchener was Britain's most famous soldier in the late 19th and 20th centuries. His contributions to the rise of the empire before World War I comprise the best parts of this biography. The Field Marshal is depicted as a celibate authoritarian whose exploits made him a hero among his people despite a number of professional weaknesses. Magnus doubts Kitchener's reputed genius for administration and says his "two basic attributes were an unparalled thoroughness and an unparalled drive. . ."

Supermanship, by Stephen Potter (Random House): An advanced text for students who have mastered the basic plays of "Gamesmanship," "Lifemanship," and "One-Upmanship." It contains valuable information about such subjects as "How to be good at the piano without being able to play much really." Potter brings his wit to bear on international matters too, including Trojan horsemanship—the basic Khrushchev gambit and "the perpetual one-upness for Marxmanship" as well as its corollary, the perpetual one-downness of Western policy, The emphasis, however, is on gentler subjects such as the superbaby, weekendmanship, reviewmanship and approved methods for making yourself "top passenger" on a transatlantic plane. Potter's disciples will need no introduction to his methods, but strangers are advised to consult his earlier works before tackling this new one.

Swamp Fox, by Robert D. Bass (Holt): A "little smoke-dried Huguenot" named Francis Marion is probably the best - known guerrilla America ever produced. For more than a year during the Revolution he led the only forces opposing the British in eastern South Carolina and helped set the seal on their final defeat. Guerrilla warfare in Marion's day was a far cry from the semi - organized banditry that bears the name today. The Swamp Fox's troops were militia and varied in strength and composition from day to day, but with outside help, notably from Virginia's Light Horse Harry Lee, he was often able to meet the enemy in open battle. Sources for the book includes unpublished letters of Lord Cornwallis, made available by descendants of the British general who was Marion's arch - enemy.

Nautilus 90 North, by Comdr. William R. Anderson, U.S.N., with Clay Blair, Jr. (World): On Aug. 5, 1958, the top-secret message "Nautilus 90 north," flashed from a point near Greenland by way of Japan to Washington, reported completion of a historic mission — America's first atomic submarine had crossed the North Pole. The voyage held anxious moments for the Nautilus' officers, but for most of the crew it was smooth, comfortable sailing.

-THE ARTS-

Imperialist And His Glory

KITCHENER: Portrait of an Imperialist. By Philip Magnus. Dutton. $6.50.

Horatio Herbert Kitchener, son of an army man who was a curious sort of domestic as well as professional martinet, was born in 1850 in Ireland. In 1916 he was aboard the Hampshire on his way to Archangel to accept an invitation from the czar of Russia to view her war effort when the cruiser struck a mine and sank, carrying him to his death. Into those 66 years he packed enough glory to satisfy the most insensate ambition — exactly the ambition which fired him all his life.

From his earliest years in uniform, he wanted to outshine his fellows, and Gordon who died at Khartoum was his idol. He served with distinction in 1880 when, already a master of Arabic, he took a kind of French leave of his Cyprus post and went on a spying adventure to Egypt. He was praised in official reports for energy, judgment, tact, self - reliance, determination and courage, and his services were described as "of the greatest value to the security of Egypt, and to Her Majesty's forces now protecting it."

"The proudest day of Kitchener's life," says Magnus, was Sept. 2, 1898, when he destroyed the army of the Khalifa's dervishes at Omdurman and earned the title of Kitchener of Khartoum. After a career distressingly compounded of some failure in South Africa, and service in India as commander in chief and thorny associate of Curzon, he suffered "the most bitter disappointment" of his life when he was denied the post of viceroy.

In World War I he was the indispensable man. The public idolized him, and for a while as secretary of war he justified this. But that was no longer a world for proconsular single-handed control. The situation was too complex. Drive and personal throughness were not enough. Kitchener lost the habit of decision and was eased out by his worried cabinet colleagues.

Merciless, brooking no opposition or criticism, blunt in speech, mad for pomp, jealous for his prestige, as greedy for statuary and rare art as any warrior for his traditional loot, he makes a singularly fascinating figure, and Magnus brings him imposingly to life.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

OUACHITA PARISH LIBRARIAN
FRANCES FLANDERS

As the winter publishing season goes into full swing, more and more lovely books are being added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. A most interesting new fiction title is "We the living" by Ayn Rand. This book was originally written in 1936 and has long been out of print. It is now reissued by popular demand. After the success of "The fountainhead" and "Atlas shrugged" there are many readers who will be eager to read "We the living." This story is as significant and timely as when it was first published. It's locale is Soviet Russia and its theme is the greatest conflict of our days the individual against the collective. "Elephant Hill" by Robin White is the 1959 Harper Prize Novel. It has a most unusual setting in India and is the story of the adventures which befell an American spinster, when she went there for a visit with her sister.

Two new reference books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library this past week, One is "Who's Who of American Women." The other is the latest edition of "The Statesman's Year Book.

For those interested in the Old South and the Civil War there are two new titles available. "Kentucky Cavaliers in Dixie" by George Musgrove and "Blockade" by Robert Carse. This is the story of the Civil War at sea and makes exciting reading. Frances Winwar is one of our best modern biographers and she had just completed a life of Edgar Allan Poe called "The Haunted palace." This is a book which will interest many readers and add considerably to our knowledge of this unusual man.

"The Audubon Book of True Nature Stories", selected and edited by John K. Terres is a fascinating collection of true stories from the Audubon magazine. Each story reveals the personality and remarkable behavior of many of our North American wild creatures. It is a book which will appeal to all men and boys who are nature lovers. Everyone who likes stories of criminals and their activities will want to read "The Double Dealers" by Alexander Klein. This is a story of confidence men and how they work.

A most valuable book for the farmer is called 'Successful Truck Farming." It was written by Gerald J. Stout and contains much advice for those engaged in this occupation. "A Passion for Books" is the title of a new book by Lawrence Clark Powell. It is an account of the pleasures of book collecting and will appeal to many readers.

J. Horace McFarland is one of the authorities on roses in America. His company publishes each year a book called Modern Roses. We have just received the latest title in this series called "Modern Roses V." It is beautifully illustrated and will be eagerly received by rose fanciers. It is beautifully illustrated in color and is a very fine book.

Every day people ask us when we are going to move to the new library. It will be sometime within the next month. The building is almost completed and our next step is the installation of the furniture. After that is done we will move the books and announce the date of the formal opening. If you are not now using the resources of the Public Library, we invite you to register before the new building is opened, so you will be ready to borrow books at that time.

Fascinating Novel About An Outcast

SUNSET IN ETERNITY By Terry Andrews (Vantage, $4.50). Terry was fascinated by Tom Angel. She was also scared to death. She dared not love this man. She tried desperately to put the feeling from her, to tell herself it was a dream, that she would awaken. But. . .it was not a dream. It was real, she was awake, and she was in love with an alcoholic.

Rarely has a book been published which probes as intimately into the tragedy of alcoholism as this searingly realistic story of the hopeless love of a devoted Christian woman for a sick soul.

For Tom Angel, though considered an outcast, an object of derision, by those who did not understand, was sick- -under the spell of a craving he could not overcome. Step by step this novel shows his disintegration, his pathetic attempts at self-mastery, his frenetic search for relief, his despairs, and his hopes. . .

Pioneer, Go Home Is Excellent One

PIONEER, GO HOME! By Richard Powell. Scribners. $3.75.

Pop Kwimper and his son, Toby, the two adopted twins, and Holly Jones, who'd love to be adopted, stray off a main Florida road in their jalopy and land at the water's edge, out of gas, out of food, out of shelter, and out of the government money they've been living on contentedly.

So for lack of passersby from whom they can bum gas, the Robinson Crusoe Kwimpers start to depend on themselves —dig for water, fish or food, collect coconuts for milk and fat, make dishes out of fronds, and build a lean-to. And while as a tribe they act as though they liked it, pretty Holly particularly loves it for at last she can have a go at handsome Toby without outside interference and she may rise from a mere nobody Jones to be a Kwimper herself.

But of course the government which had been supporting this band disapproves strongy when it 'pretends to support itself. A road supervisor tries to drive them off, a welfare agent wants to get them into a properly regimented settlement, and the school department connives to penalize them for not educating the twins.

We would like to agree with the publisher that this is a "hilarious novel," but we can't. It would be easy to quip that if there's anything hilarious about it, it is the fact that it has sold to the movies for $175,000. But that wouldn't be fair, either, for this is an unusually ingenious novel. It's a clever device for chiding us. Government supports more people than it should, says Powell, or we're better off if we support ourselves. His Kwimpers come full circle, they live off the government and then the government lives off them.

This is a sort of outline of history, and Powell's playful prayer is that the world may end not meekly but defiantly in a Kwimper.

KNOWS THE WAY

OXFORD, Conn. (AP) — State Trooper Stanley Sobieski knows his roads and can prove it.

While chasing a stockcar driver at high speeds over some back roads, Sobieshi suddenly stopped, turned around and headed in the other direction.

He turned down a side road and took a short cut to a highway. There he came out on the road in front of the speeding car. The driver, George Rzeszutek, 24, was booked for driving while his license was under suspension and driving an unregistered car.

Have Love, Have Trouble Is Light

UNARMED IN PARADISE. By Ellen Marsh. Macmillan. $4.50.

Carmian Wills and two friends, one an American like herself, are sitting at a sidewalk table on the Left Bank in Paris. Suddenly there looms up before them in work clothes a big bear of a man—Dima, an expatriate Russian. He has a wife, Denise, and a young son, but this first intense encounter immediately sparks in him and Carmian a love that carries them stormily through the two years covered in this novel.

Carmian has some money, but in marks which she must every now and then cross back into Germany to cash. Dima has had money but he must earn his way as stagehand. So finances are a problem, and poverty keeps them in squalid hotel rooms and cramped, unclean tenements up long flights of stairs.

But they have more than the want of money to nag them. Miss Marsh shows her harassed couple in the midst of a web of complex associations with individuals.

Sometimes you think it's mere pettiness, or as Lala says, red wine makes them quarrel, white makes them affectionate, tea puts them to sleep and when cigarettes are lacking they fight with her. But this is a more profound antipathy; and at the bottom even more violent than the blows the two lovers madly exchange. They have nothing but love; they have nothing to build on but fundamental alienations; only their hearts are near.

Miss Marsh does not mean to imply that since it is love lost between this Russian and this American, it must also be love lost between Russia and America. They are handy divisive symbols, no more. The trouble is still a third land—Bohemia. What is a deep fiery love if it is purposeless? It needs not only a today, and a tonight, but a tomorrow. Miss Marsh says it dramatically.

HONORED HUNGARIAN

HOLLYWOOD — (UPI) — One Hungarian refugee is now about as American as you can get although he hasn't become a citizen yet. He is Paul Laslo, an extra currently working in the Ziv TV series "Bat Masterson."

Laslo was made an honorary member of the Cherokee tribe at between-scenes ceremonies with tribal chief Henny Longarrow officiating. Longarrow also acts in the series.

'SOME CAME RUNNING'

Sinatra, Martin In Dramatic Film

With Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Shirley MacLaine, Martha Hyer, Arthur Kennedy and Nancy Gates heading a topflight cast, "Some Came Running," the best-selling novel by James Jones, author of "From Here to Eternity," has been brought to the screen by MGM as one of the year's most dramatic motion pictures, coming to the Jim Theatre.

Laid in a small mid - western town of America in the post-war era, the story begins with the return of Dave Hirsh to Parkman, Illinois, after his Army discharge and then depicts what happens to him, to two girls who fall under his spell, and to a varied assortment of other citizens and temporary residents of Parkman.

Frank Sinatra, who won an Academy Award for his portrayal in "From Here to Eternity," plays the new James Jones hero, a man with conflicting personality facets. Dave Hirsh is a writer who has had two novels published but whose lack of commercial success has discouraged him about finishing his third book. He is also a man who likes liquor, fights, gambling and girls.

The two girls who come into his life in Parkman are of widely contrasting natures. Ginny (Shirley MacLaine) is a good - natured, illiterate girl of easy - going morals, who is wildly in love with Dave) Gwen (Martha Hyer) is an instructor at the local college, first drawn toward Dave because of her admiration for his writing, then finding herself against her will in a romantic involvement.

Before he is in Parkman long, Dave also has become involved in other relationships. One is with the happy - go - lucky, itinerant gambler, Bama (Dean Martin), who becomes his close friend. A second is with Dave's older brother, Frank (Arthur Kennedy), whom he dislikes, and with the latter's wife, Agnes (Leora Dana) and daughter, Dawn (Betty Lou Keim). When Frank has an illicit affair with his secretary (Nancy Gtes), the disillusioned (Nancy Gates), the disillusioned Dawn is ready to run off with the first man who comes along, but is checked by Dave.

The plot interweaves episodes involving these people rising to its climax when a jealous Gwen rejects Dave. The story then reaches a suspenseful denouement which ironically takes place amid the honky-tonk atmosphere of the town's Centennial Festival.

"Some Came Running" was filmed in CinemaScope and Metrocolor. It was produced by Sol C. Siegel and was directed by Vincente Minnelli from a screen play by John Patrick and Arthur Sheekman.

CRIME DOES PAY

EDINBURG, Tex. — (UPI) — The lack of crime is proving an expense to Hidalgo County, Tex.

The county jail crew recently became so depleted three full-time laborers had to be hired to supplement it. The crew, usually composed of 12 to 15 men, had dropped to six.

COMBAT TEAM — Robert Wagner, Jeffrey Hunter and Bradford Dillman portray three combat Marines in Jerry Wald's "In Love and War", a Twentieth Century-Fox production now at the Joy Drive In. Dana Wynter, Hope Lange, Sheree North and France Nuyen are co-starred in the picture taken from Anton Myrer's best seller.

HIGH COMEDY—Tony Curtis and Linda Cristal cut loose at a night club in Paris in "The Perfect Furlough," in which Janet Leigh is starred with Tony. Keenan Wynn and Elaine Stritch are co-starred in this spicy new Army comedy from Universal-International. The picture is in CinemaScope and color and is now at the Jim Theatre.

Paramount Is Now Showing Comedy Film

"The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," Twentieth Century - Fox's comedy - western about the refined English gentleman who became sheriff of the toughest town this side of Tombstone and the blonde saloon owner who taught him how, will have its local premiere today at the Paramount Theatre.

Starring the hilarous English comedian, Kenneth More, known to American audiences for his role in "Genevieve," and the new Jayne Mansfield, playing the kind of role her fans have asked to see her in, the CinemaScope, De Luxe color picture was filmed entirely on location in Spain.

With some of the most breathtaking and exciting scenery in Spain as the backdrop, much of it never before filmed, the picture tells of Kenneth More and his trip to America where he hopes to "civilize" the natives by introducing them to "Tibbs fowling pieces," a wonderful gun for shooting quail but not quite up to the meat-and-potatoes duty of the American frontier.

What he does do is become the sheriff of a tough cattle town, earn a reputation as a fast gunfighter, fall in love with Jayne, who plays the most curvacious and unobtainable cafe owner in the West, and become a blood brother of a hostile Indian tribe.

With a side-splitting situation build-up which is so funny that it can make an Indian laugh. More brings peace to the town, civilization to the Indians (to whom he sells his fowling pieces) and marriage to himself and Jayne. And no bride ever given away by a savage war chief ever looked lovelier.

In picking Spain as the location spot for the film, which was written by Arthur Dales from an original short story by Jacob Hay, Producer Daniel M. Angel and Director Raoul Walsh took a gamble on an experiment which has certainly paid off.

The majestic mountains, the beautiful trout streams, the rolling grasslands and the ancient monastery of Molinar de Aragon give an extra dimension to the picture.

"The sheriff of Fractured Jaw," Twentieth's gift to laugh-loving audiences, also features such favorites as Henry Hull, as the conniving mayor of 'Fractured Jaw,' Bruce Cabot and the late Ronald Squire in Cameo performances.

SENSIBLE GIFT

POULTNEY, Vt. — (UPI) — Girls attending Green Mountain College gave janitor Hugh Jones a new bicycle for Christmas to replace the one he had been riding to work for 18 years.

HORSE OF DIFFERENT COLOR

NIAGARA FALLS —(UPI) — Patrolman Mardig Aloian was dispatched to "investigate theft of Lady Godiva's horse," but the case proved anti-climatic despite its historic implications.

It turned out that Lady Godiva is the stage name of an entertainer who was appearing at a local restaurant, and the horse—used in her act — hadn't been stolen but the lock was broken off the animal's trailer.

Johnson Assails Ike 'Veto Threat'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said Saturday night President Eisenhower and his backers are trying to blackjack the new Democratic-controlled Congress "by the threat of veto."

"I think it is about time that somebody blows the whistle on threats to veto bills that have not been drafted and to cancel steps that have not been taken," the Senate Democratic leader said.

Johnson's attack on the Eisenhower administration was prepared for a Democratic dinner.

The Senate leader said there is nothing left of Eisenhower's "great crusade" of six years ago except a desire for quiet, and "government by veto."

"Communism has declared economic war against our way of life," he said. "The United States—which led the world into the atomic age—now lags in the exploration of outer space."

Johnson said the Democratic sweep in last November's elections was a demand for action in government. And he said the Democrats in control of the Senate and House would do just that.

But hardly had the Democratic victories been chronicled, Johnson said, when reports began to seep out of Washington that "the President was determined to exercise his veto powers to the hilt to check a 'wild spending spree.' "

Deriding predictions of Eisenhower vetoes even before Congress had considered or passed a bill and "even before it is printed," Johnson said: "It becomes little more than an instrument to blackjack Congress."

Johnson did not spell out what veto predictions he referred to. Some Republican leaders, including Senate GOP Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois, have talked of a possible veto if an airport aid bill is repassed in the same form which Eisenhower rejected last year.

There also has been some Republican talk of a veto if Congress passes a considerably more expensive housing measure than Eisenhower wants.

Johnson ridiculed contentions that the new Democratic Congress may go on a wild spending spree. He said the Democratic Congress clipped more than five billion dollars from Eisenhower's last budget recommendations.

"To set the present administration up as the guardian of the balanced budget is in the same class as hiring a coyote for a watchdog over the sheep," he said.

To meet needs of an expanding population, Johnson called for more jobs, schools, hospitals, roads and homes.

GI Interest Hike To Get Speedy Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's proposal to raise the interest rate on GI housing loans will face a quick, and probably fatal, test next week in the House Veterans Affairs Committee.

The committee has scheduled a hearing Wednesday on a bill which would continue the 4 per cent ceiling. It is expected to give the measure prompt approval after rejecting the President's request.

In his budget message, Eisenhower asked authority to increase the interest to the 5¼ per cent rate permitted lenders under the FHA housing program in order to spur private financing of new homes.

The measure before the committee not only keeps the 4¾ per cent ceiling but gives the veterans administrator discretion to lower it. The legislation was sponsored by Chairman Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.) and others. It is identical to one the committee approved last year but was included in an omnibus housing bill which the House killed by a close vote.

The new measure also is expected to be included in an overall housing package which Democratic leaders are pushing.

An Afternoon Ceremony Unites Miss Smith And Ralph T. Norman, Jr.

In a double ring ceremony, with a setting of white gladioli and ferns, Miss Glynda Ann Smith and Ralph Thomas Norman Jr. exchanged marriage vows.

The ceremony was performed at three o'clock in the afternoon at St. Matthews Catholic Church with Father Jordan Schell OFM officiating.

The church was arranged in traditional decor with standards of white gladioli, ferns and tall burning tapers. Floor length white satin ribbons with gladioli and ferns on the pews designated the seating of the families.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whit Osborne Smith and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Norman Sr., all of West Monroe.

Mrs. Della Williamson, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jimmy Dennis, soloist, who sang, "Ave Maria", and "Panis Angelicus".

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had selected her wedding gown of white peau de soie designed with a flattering neckline and elbow length sleeves. The taut bodice was enhanced with appliques of re-embroidered lace. The full flowing skirt featured a soft butterfly bustle back extending into a chapel length train. Her three tiered veil of imported silk illusion fell from a crown of tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white glamelias and Hyacinth florets.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Ronald C. Stratton was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. E. C. Roark Jr., Mrs. John H. Odom and Mrs. Harold Rosbotton Jr. The flower girl was Martha Gail Reed. They wore identical dresses of cherry satin faced silk. Soft folds formed the empire waistlines and tiny sleeves. The bouffant skirts were accented by flattering front panels and bows at the hemline, repeated at the neckline at the back. They wore deep bows of matching material in their hair and carried cascade arrangements of white glamelias and feathered chrysanthemums with touches of red glitter stems and finished with puffs of red glittered net.

Jack W. Norman was best man and the groomsmen and ushers were Richard Norman, John H. Odom and Vincent Marsala.

Mrs. Smith chose for her daughter's wedding, a mauve re-embroidered alencon lace over matching silk faced satin with matching accessories. At her shoulder was a purple orchid. The groom's mother wore pink Chantilly lace over matching peau de soie with a high round neckline, and a purple orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Highland Park Country Club. Hostesses were Mrs. E. C. Roark Sr., Mrs. Travis Howard and Mrs. Leron Harper. Guests were greeted at the entrance among potted plants. Making the reception room decorative were bouquets of mixed spring flowers, white tulips, white stock, daisies and red tinted candytuft.

The table where Miss Fay Parker registered the guests was adorned with a bridal candle nestled in a bed of dainty white flowers and maline.

The bride's table was overlaid with white organza and caught at intervals with nosegays of white Opin tulips and valley lilies, with flowing streamers of white net and narrow red satin ribbons. Centering the table was the tiered round cake on columns topped with a miniature bride and groom. White flowers and candles were arranged in crystal epergnes. The punch table held a large arrangement of white spring flowers and candles in crystal holders, between two crystal punch bowls.

Pouring were Mrs. E. A. Reily and Mrs. Jack Midyett and serving cake were Mrs. Dennis Chapell and Mrs. Jimmy Lewis. Others assisting were Mrs. Douglas Byrd, Mrs. Pat Anderson, Mrs. James Mock, Mrs. Nolan Bryant, Miss Martha Harper and Miss Jeanette Brooks.

The bride chose for travel, a beige worsted imported wool suit with matching accessories and a cattalyea orchid corsage. She is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College, a member of Phi Mu National Fraternity.

The groom is a graduate of St. Matthews Catholic School and is attending Northeast Louisiana State College, a member of Taw Kappa Epsilon National.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rosbottom, Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lewis, Dallas, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Freser, Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weise, Pine Bluff, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Claud Carpenter, Bastrop, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Johnston, Bastrop, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Johnston, Bastrop, Mrs. John Halley, Bastrop, Mrs. Travis Cup, Bastrop, Rev. and Mrs. Jack Midyett, Haynesville, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Johnson, Camden, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Reily, Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mitchell, N. O., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fink, Bastrop, Miss Josephine Jones, Bastrop.

The couple will be at home at 3600 Breville St.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Norman Sr., hosted the rehearsal dinner in honor of the bride and groom.

The dinner table was decorated with a miniature bride and groom at a maline decorated altar under glittered wedding bells, hanging from a snow white arch. On either side was an arrangement of pink and white flowers in milk glass containers, and dainty white rose trees and pink candles.

Attending were the honoree, the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Smith, Father Jordon Schell, OFM, Mrs. Ronald Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rosbottom Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John H. Odom, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Roark Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed, Miss Martha Redd, Masters Pat and David Norman, Richard Norman, Miss Yvonne Via, Jack Norman, Miss Carol Goodrum, Vincent Marsala Jr., Mrs. Della Williamson and Mrs. E. C. Roark Sr.

Miss Chapman, Sidney Shlenker Are To Be Wed

The approaching marriage of Miss Felice Merle Chapman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Morey Chapman of Oak Park, Ill., and Sidney Leo Shlenker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Shlenker of Houston Texas, has been announced.

The exchange of vows will take place on Saturday, March 28, at the Drake Hotel in Chicago.

Miss Chapman is a student at Newcome College, New Orleans, and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Masur of this city.

Bridal Shower Compliments Joyce Machnik

Popular bride-elect, Miss Joyce Machnik was complimented at a linen shower with Mrs. H. L. Head serving as hostess in her home in West Monroe. The ceremony uniting Miss Machnik and Thomas M. Ross will be performed tomorrow.

The living room was decorative with two floral arrangements of white and silver placed in milk glass containers. In the dining room, the table was overlaid with a white linen cloth and held a centerpiece of pink and white rose surrounded by pink net and topped by a miniature bride and groom. Rainbow colored umbrella favors were placed around the center piece.

The service table, overlaid in pink linen, held a central arrangement of white and pink spring blossoms. To one end was the crystal punch service. Silver trays held mints and confections. Alternating at the punch service were Miss Margaret Contanza and Mrs. Head. Serving was Mrs. E. P. Machnik.

The honored guest was lovely for the occasion in a royal blue wool jersey sheath dress with a white and silver chrysanthemum corsage at her shoulder. The hostess wore a navy wool jersey model.

Guests attending were, Miss Pauline Varino, Miss Delores Fontana, Miss Jo Ann Battaglia, Mrs. Gail Roy, Miss Virginia Conti, Miss Diane Machnik, Miss Virginia Henderson, Miss Mary Martin, Miss Brenda Stewart, Miss Veta Rose Constanza, Miss Margaret Constanza, Mrs. Marianna Burroughs, and Miss Mary Lea Cascio.

Dance Honors Tex Odom In Bryan Home

Carole and Robert Bryan entertained a group of teen-agers in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bryan, on College Ave., with a dance on Friday night, from 7:00 until 11:00 p. m. The occasion for the get together is the departure of one of the guests, Tex Odom, who is moving with his parents to Oklahoma the latter part of the month.

Bayou Vista Garden Club Holds Meeting

The January meeting of the Bayou Vista Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. Wilfred Smith with Mrs. V. D. Guess as co-hostess. Mr. Wiley Roach, Jr., was the guest speaker for the evening. He spoke on "Landscaping" and also gave us names of new shrubs.

Following the meeting refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames: Charles Kitchenham, O. H. McIntosh, W. H. Stapp, C. F. Thomas, Frank Frances, R. W. Gregory, Harry Addison, Evans Larkin, J. E. Trippe, C. A. McKenzie, Frank Marchefski, Roy Scalia, Malvin Brantley, Max F. Waite, Wilfred Smith, Burley Deville, V. D. Guess, William Roche, J. I. Marie Adele Hancock And Thomas Lamar Bond Have Double Ring Rites

St. Matthews Catholic Church was the scene yesterday morning of the marriage of Miss Marie Adele Hancock to Thomas Lamar Bond. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick LaRuyle Hancock of Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray Bond of Vicksburg, Miss.

Monsignor John C. Marsh performed the double ring ceremony before mass arrangements of white gladioli and white carnations.

Mrs. Della Williamson presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied the solist, Miss Sara Sue Stovall.

BRIDAL GOWN

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in flowing floor - length Alencon lace and nylon extending into a chapel train. The lace bodice rose into a sabrina neckline and long sleeves were pointed at the wrists. Tiny self covered buttons were at the back. Ruffles of nylon net formed the bouffant skirt. At her throat was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. The veil of imported English illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and lilies of the valley centered by a white orchid, mounted on a white pearl prayer book.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Fred Hancock Jr., served the bride as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Bond and Miss Jeanne Filhiol. They wore identical dresses of red peau de soie with matching silk organza cummerbunds and accessories. They carried bouquets of white carnations with white satin ribbons and green foliage.

Fred Hancock Jr., served the groom as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were Jimmy Anding and Charles Dansereau.

The bride's mother was lovely for the wedding in a Dior blue sheath with matching accessories. She wore a white carnation corsage at her shoulder. The groom's mother chose to wear a beige lace sheath with a matching jacket and flowered hat. She also wore a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony.

The white covered table was centered by a large mirror holding the three tiered wedding cake tipped by a miniature bride and groom and trimmed with lilies of the valley and tuberoses. Serving cake was Miss Darla McCallister and presiding at the crystal punch service was Miss Brigette Cymbal. Miss Patsy Gulley registered the guests.

For travel, the bride choose to wear a beige wool suit with a Japanese mink collar and matching hat. At her shoulder was the orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and a member of Lambda Sigma Chi. The groom is a member of Neville High School and is attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

The couple will be at home at the Rosedale Apartments.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Miller and Dockie Miller of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hunt Jr., of Kosciusko, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hunt Sr., of McCool, Miss., Mr. and Mrs. Noel Roddey, and Johnny Wilson of New Orleans.

The Wedding Rehearsal supper for the Hancock - Bond wedding party was held in the ancestral home of the bride's grandmother and aunt Mrs. J. B. Filhiol and Miss Marie Filhiol, on the old Columbia Road.

The beauty of the magnificent antiquity of this palatial home was enhanced by lovely arrangements of white gladiolas and ferns placed throughout the reception rooms. The dining table was overlaid with a hand embroidered white cloth and had for a center-piece, white gladiolas and white camellias from the gardens. These flowers were planted by the bride's Great - great - Grandmother-Mrs. John Baptiste Filhiol. White wedding bells hung from the ceiling.

Miss Hancock looked lovely in a white wool lace sheath trousseau model and wore a white glamellia corsage. Gifts were presented to the wedding attendants at this time.

The guests served themselves from the buffet and then were seated at individual tables.

Guests attending were: Miss Marie Adele Hancock and Mr. Thomas Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dansereau, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. An Afternoon Ceremony Unites Miss Smith And Ralph T. Norman, Jr.

In a double ring ceremony, with a setting of white gladioli and ferns, Miss Glynda Ann Smith and Ralph Thomas Norman Jr. exchanged marriage vows.

The ceremony was performed at three o'clock in the afternoon at St. Matthews Catholic Church with Father Jordan Schell OFM officiating.

The church was arranged in traditional decor with standards of white gladioli, ferns and tall burning tapers. Floor length white satin ribbons with gladioli and ferns on the pews designated the seating of the families.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whit Osborne Smith and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Norman Sr., all of West Monroe.

Mrs. Della Williamson, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jimmy Dennis, soloist, who sang, "Ave Maria", and "Panis Angelicus".

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had selected her wedding gown of white peau de soie designed with a flattering neckline and elbow length sleeves. The taut bodice was enhanced with appliques of re-embroidered lace. The full flowing skirt featured a soft butterfly bustle back extending into a chapel length train. Her three tiered veil of imported silk illusion fell from a crown of tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white glamelias and Hyacinth florets.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Ronald C. Stratton was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. E. C. Roark Jr., Mrs. John H. Odom and Mrs. Harold Rosbotton Jr. The flower girl was Martha Gail Reed They wore identical dresses of cherry satin faced silk. Soft folds formed the empire waistlines and tiny sleeves. The bouffant skirts were accented by flattering front panels and bows at the hemline, repeated at the neckline at the back. They wore deep bows of matching material in their hair and carried cascade arrangements of white glamelias and feathered chrysanthemums with touches of red glitter stems and finished with puffs of red glittered net.

Jack W. Norman was best man and the groomsmen and ushers were Richard Norman, John H. Odom and Vincent Marsala.

Mrs. Smith chose for her daughter's wedding, a mauve re-embroidered alencon lace over matching silk faced satin with matching accessories. At her shoulder was a purple orchid. The groom's mother wore pink Chantilly lace over matching peau de soie with a high round neckline, and a purple orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Highland Park Country Club. Hostesses were Mrs E. C. Roark Sr., Mrs. Travis Howard and Mrs. Leron Harper. Guests were greeted at the entrance among potted plants. Making the reception room decorative were bouquets of mixed spring flowers, white tulips white stock, daisies and red tinted candytuft.

The table where Miss Fay Parker registered the guests was adorned with a bridal candle nestled in a bed of dainty white flowers and maline.

The bride's table was overlaid with white organza and caught at intervals with nosegays of white Opin tulips and valley lilies, with flowing streamers of white net and narrow red satin ribbons. Centering the table was the tiered round cake on columns topped with a miniature bride and groom. White flowers and candles were arranged in crystal epergerns. The punch table held a large arrangement of white spring flowers and candles in crystal holders, between two crystal punch bowls.

Pouring were Mrs E. A. Reily and Mrs. Jack Midyett and serving cake were Mrs. Dennis Chapell and Mrs. Jimmy Lewis. Others assisting were Mrs. Douglas Byrd, Mrs. Pat Anderson, Mrs. James Mock, Mrs. Nolan Bryant, Miss Martha Harper and Miss Jeanette Brooks.

The bride chose for travel, a beige worsted imported wool suit with matching accessories and a cattalyea orchid corsage. She is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College, a member of Phi Mu National Fraternity.

The groom is a graduate of St. Matthews Catholic School and is attending Northeast Louisiana State College, a member of Taw Kappa Epsilon National.

MRS. ROBERT JOHN TAYLOR

White Roses And Fern Setting For Marriage Of Miss Priest, R. Taylor

In a setting of white roses, fern and cathedral tapers Miss India Ann Priest became the bride of Robert John Taylor at St. Michael's and All Angels Episcopal Church in Dallas, Texas. The vows were heard by the Rev. G. C. McElyea on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

To the strains of the Bridal Song from Lohengrin the bridal party entered the church. The maid of honor was Miss Jackie Booth of Dallas. Bridesmaids were Miss Norene Nygaard of Dallas; Miss JoLynn Guffey of Dallas, Mrs. Bill Sessums of Mesquite, Texas. The junior bridesmaid was Miss Donna Taylor of Gatesville, Texas. They wore identical taffeta gowns in a deep shade of pink with sweetheart necklines and full bell shaped skirts. They wore matching slippers and carried bouquets of roses.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly beautiful in her floor length gown of Barbison pure silk. The alencon lace collar which came to a deep V neckline in front and in back was encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. Side panels of alencon lace, encrusted with seed pearls and sequins extended to the hem.

The crown was made of pearls and sequins. The illusion veil extended 18 inches beyond the dress hem.

The bride carried a prayer book covered in chantilly lace. Placed on the prayer book was a crescent shaped spray of white roses, interspersed with stephinotis and centered with a specimen white orchid.

The groomsmen were Mr Edward Schoenewolf of Gatesville, Texas; Mr. Richard Stephenson of Garland, Texas; Mr. Jarrell Logan of Dallas; and Mr. Bill Sessums of Mesquite, Texas. Mr. Robert M. Arnold, Jr. of San Marcus, Texas, served the groom as best man.

Ushers were Mr. Bob Baldride, Dallas, Texas; Mr. John Price, Dallas; Mr. Don Maxey, Dallas and Mr. Don Deynoodt, New Orleans, La.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding the bride's parents were hosts for the reception in the Texas Room at the Baker Hotel in Dallas.

The young couple flew to New Orleans for their honeymoon.

MRS. ROBERT JOHN TAYLOR

White Roses And Fern Setting For Marriage Of Miss Priest, R. Taylor

In a setting of white roses, fern and cathedral tapers Miss India Ann Priest became the bride of Robert John Taylor at St. Michael's and All Angels Episcopal Church in Dallas, Texas. The vows were heard by the Rev. G. C. McElyea on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

To the strains of the Bridal Song from Lohengrin the bridal party entered the church. The maid of honor was Miss Jackie Booth of Dallas. Bridesmaids were Miss Norene Nygaard of Dallas; Miss JoLynn Guffey of Dallas, Mrs. Bill Sessums of Mesquite, Texas. The junior bridesmaid was Miss Donna Taylor of Gatesville, Texas. They wore identical taffeta gowns in a deep shade of pink with sweetheart necklines and full bell shaped skirts. They wore matching slippers and carried bouquets of roses.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly beautiful in her floor length gown of Barbison pure silk. The alencon lace collar which came to a deep V neckline in front and in back was encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. Side panels of alencon lace, encrusted with seed pearls and sequins extended to the hem.

The crown was made of pearls and sequins. The illusion veil extended 18 inches beyond the dress hem.

The bride carried a prayer book covered in chantilly lace. Placed on the prayer book was a crescent shaped spray of white roses, interspersed with stephinotis and centered with a specimen white orchid.

The groomsmen were Mr Edward Schoenewolf of Gatesville, Texas; Mr. Richard Stephenson of Garland, Texas; Mr. Jarrell Logan of Dallas; and Mr. Bill Sessums of Mesquite, Texas. Mr. Robert M. Arnold, Jr. of San Marcus, Texas, served the groom as best man.

Ushers were Mr. Bob Baldride, Dallas, Texas; Mr. John Price, Dallas; Mr. Don Maxey, Dallas and Mr. Don Deynoodt, New Orleans, La.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding the bride's parents were hosts for the reception in the Texas Room at the Baker Hotel in Dallas.

The young couple flew to New Orleans for their honeymoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ann Wilkerson Priest and Norman S. Priest of Dallas, formerly of Monroe. She graduated from Hillcrest High School in Dallas and attended the University of Oklahoma.

Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Taylor of Gatesville, Texas. He is a graduate of Southern Methodist University and is employed as a coach in the Dallas Schools.

Relatives attending from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Reagan Wilkerson of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilkerson and daughter, Jane; Mrs. M. O. Reeves and Mrs. Harmon Benton of Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Wilkersos and son, Reagan, of Mangham.

Our loss was somewhere else's gain yesterday when two of our favorite families upped roots and moved away. The FRED GULLEDGES went to Atlanta, Georgia, and the AMBROSE RUBEYS to Peoria, Ilinois.

Fred has been in Atlanta for several months, but Cherry and the children, John and Gayden, have been staying with her parents, the MILLING BERNSTEINS. Their house, which was under construction, is now finished, and they left yesterday.

On Tuesday afternoon, GAIL FORTENBERRY, PAULINE SHOTWELL, and SUE PARKER honored Cherry with a bridge party at the Bayou DeSiard country club. Cherry was wearing a French blue suit with mink collar and cuffs. Her gift from the hostesses was a cheese and cracker tray. . . Large cut-outs of hearts, clubs, diamonds, and spades were given as tallies. Prizewinners were JEANNIE DOWNING, high, JEAN HAMILTON, low, and LEILA EWING, traveling prize for slam. Strawberry shortcake was served to the ten tables of players.

Miriam Rubey was guest of honor at several coffees which afforded an opportunity for friends to get in a farewell visit. MRS. CHARLES PAULI invited eight neighbors to her home on Lexington for an informal conversational hour.

CONNIE CAVERLEE and DES ATKINSON entertained at the Atkinson home last Thursday. Camellias and greenery were used on the table, where HELEN WHEELER poured coffee. About eighteen friends attended. . . On Wednesday morning, Miriam was honored at a coffee hosted by CHRISTINE GLAY and ELAINE CRUMP. Lavender asters and white phlox in a silver bowl centered the table. GEORGIE TOUCHSTONE poured, and others who assisted were MARGE STEPHAN, HAZEL OLIVER, MARGARET ALVERSON, MARY SMITH, DIBBLE PATE, and BETTY SUE GLUD. Sixty guests called between the hours of ten thirty and twelve.

Last week we visited several new houses around town, and now we have two more bueauties to tell you about. The ED SEYMOURS, JR., have moved into their new home on Point Drive since the holidays. As one enters, the living room is directly ahead, and the dining room to the left of the entrance hall. The den is between the two and opens into both. An intricate system of sliding screens (black painted frames with plastic panels) is used for dividing the rooms into three or throwing them into one . . . Cerulean blue is used for the carpeting in the living and dining rooms, with white, blue-bordered draperies . . . In the den, the walls and the built-in bookcases are of birch, with terrazzo flooring. Above the open fire hangs the painting which Ed and Anna Claire bought while on their honeymoon — the spot was planned for it.

The kitchen is the center of the house, both literally and figuratively. A long "eating height" counter of flame colored Formica runs almost the length of the room. The actual working part of the kitchen is behind this counter, while in front of it is an open area, which may eventually hold a breakfast table or a family sitting room. 'Twould be ideal for either, with its glass wall overlooking the vista to the water's edge.

On past the kitchen is the bedroom wing. The guest room walls are painted wheat color, with a yellow and brown print used for the draperies and spread. . . . Claire Campbell's room is blue, with polka dot curtains and nursery animal prints. . . The master bedroom repeats the cerulean blue of the living room, and here, too, is the glass wall with the view to the bayou. The white dressing-room-bath has a built-in table — also white — down one entire wall and a white telephone!

Two doors down is the new home of the FRED FUDICKARS, JR., which was completed shortly before the holidays. The brick residence with the turned columns on the porch and the dormers on the roof has an Early American air. . .Immediately to the left of the brick-paved entrance hall is the livingroom, painted a pale celadon green with carpet of the same shade. Particularly inviting is a wing chair upholstered in a qualited celadon print. . . .The family room across the back of the house repeats the brick flooring, used here with cypress panelling. An open fireplace and built-in bookcases fill one end of the room. At the other is the player piano which is a source of much pleasure to the Fudickars and their sons.

The green - painted cabinets in the kitchen are matched by the green flooring. The breakfast tables is set up in the big bay window overlooking the bayou.

The yellow guest room with its grey bath and the celadon green master suite are downstairs, while the second story is the domain of Frederick, Riley, and Robert. A large dormitory-playroom with its own bath occupies the whole upstairs. The dormers provide the windows on the front, while at the back of the room is an extra wide bay window with a breath-taking view.

The NAJ KLAMS entertained twelve friends at a dinner party Saturday soir. A pink cloth covered the table, which was centered with a five - branched candelabra wreathed with philodendron and camellias . . . Rock Cornish game hen was the piece de resistance of the elegant meal. With the fowl, Louise served wild rice, congealed asparagus, string bean casserole, and salad of romaine and endive. Paradise pudding was the heavenly dessert.

JEAN and JACK DAVIS and their two daughters are in New Orleans this weekend. They made a quick trip down to attend the Athenians' ball last night are due back today . . . Also in New Orleans are the FRED WESTROMS and the JACK TERZIAS who went Thursday for the races, and will be back tonight.

An unusual menu highlighted the dinner party hosted by the LON HEUERS last Saturday night. As an appetizer, Martha served a Polynesian delicacy of candied ginger, water chestnuts, and such exotic items in sour cream. The broiled steaks, which had been marinated for twenty-four hours in a red wine sauce, were served with baked potatoes and a salad of cucumber and spinach in sour cream dressing. A chocolate pie with whipped cream and a graham cracker crust was dessert. Ten friends enjoyed the party.

Born January 17 was BERNARD ALLISON SAGER, third son of JOAN and MILES SAGER JR. Proud grandmothers are FRANCESCA BIEDENHARN and RUBY HATTEN.

It's a girl for the AMOS SHELTONS. The new arrival, born January 15, is the second daughter and third child. She has been named Virginia May, and will be called JENNY. Maternal grandparents are the W. L. HUSTEDS, SR., while the paternal grandparents are the J. W. SHELTONS of Greenboro, N.C.

The THOMAS WALTERS of Selman Drive are announcing the birth of a new daughter. The little girl has been named CYNTHIA ALISA.

STEVE HANSEN celebrated his twelfth birthday with a home dance on Wednesday night. Steve did the planning and executing himelf — a platter party, with soft drinks and doughnuts for refreshments. Twelve young people came for dancing between the hours of seven and nine.

A skating party marked JAN BAGWELL'S sixth birthday Thursday afternoon. Winning the prize for the beginner who tried the hardest was young WAKE WAKEFIELD. LAURELLE NEAL won the stop the music game. Horns were given as favors. Ice cream and cupcakes were served to about forty children attending.

ARDEN ALLEN'S sixth birthday was the occasion for a circus party at the Highland Park Country Club. Pink, yellow, and blue balloons and birthday decorations carried out the theme. The cake was trimmed with figures of animals under a tent. The group played drop the handkerchief and pin the tail on the donkey. HARLAN SAGER and CONNIE WEAVER were prize winners. Circus horns were the favors for the sixty children attending.

On her fifth birthday, CAROL DAVIS held a home party for about twenty children from the neighborhood. She looked every inch the birthday girl in a red dress with a white pinafore. The group played games, with LISA MAYO and NANCY GARRETT winning prizes. Ice cream and pink and white birthday cake were served to the little guests.

One of the most interesting performances of the current Broadway season is the "Ages of Man." This is an all-Shakespeare recital by a dinner - jacketed Sir John Gielgud alone on an unadorned stage. Giving some idea of the range and richness of the poet, Sir John plays many parts moving from youth to old age. The evening takes its title, of course, from Jacques' lines in "As You Like It":

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players,
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages. At first the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms.
And then the whining school-boy with his satchel,
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school. And then the lover,
Sighing like furnace, with a woeful ballad
Made to his mistress' eyebrown.
Then a soldier,
Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard,
Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation
Even in the cannon's mouth. And then the justice,
With eyes severe and beard of formal cut,
Full of wise saws and modern instances;
And so he plays his part. The sixth age shifts
Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon
With spectacles on nose and pouch on side,
His youthful hose well sav'd a world too wide,
For his shrunk shank; and his big manly voice,
Turning again toward childish treble, pipes
And whistles in his sound. Last scene of all,
That ends this strange eventful history,
Is second childishness and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.

The New Spring Blouse Makes The Costume

In this jet - paced world of sweeping change, fashion brings many innovations of its own, decreeing now a brilliant new importance for blouses this spring. The suit blouse and the costume blouse have emerged as top contenders for style honors, with ingenious couturier designs, glowing colors, and exciting fabrics lending strong support. The comeback of the spring suit commands star billing for compatible blouses, while the continued prominence of the two - piece ensemble has raised the costume blouse to important new fashion heights. Other style themes center about the empire look which is seen everywhere, and on the overblouse, which now takes a more fitted line.

White blouses figure importantly on the spring suit scene, while brilliantly - colored floral warp prints turn many suits into flowering spring gardens. The white pique vest, re-embroidered eyelets, white cottons frosted with soft lace edgings, polka dots and gingham checks further spell out important blouse news for the Easter suit.

Costume blouses are contrived to dominate the ensemble and, teamed with the new fuller skirts for spring, constitute an inspiring fashion picture. The jacket blouse emerges importantly in many forms, some double - breasted or with cardigan fronts, translated into a variety of interesting fabrics including hopsacking, burlap, raw silk, linen, sharkskin and pique. Worn with an all - around pleated skirt, the jacket blouse creates a leading ensemble look for spring.

Spring shirts feature haberdashery details, a buccaneer styling influence. Winged Riviera collars, plunging necklines, short cuffed sleeves or roll-ups, shirttails, and monograms, all glorify the tailored spring shirt. It draws on many devices, such as floral and object prints, Roman stripes, and widely - assorted checks for further fashion interest.

In general, blouses this spring are supported by a wealth of handsome details for their unusually brilliant style appeal. Neckline favorites include the wide-away scooped treatment and puritan, choir boy, peter pan, shawl and notched collars. Short set-in sleeves are popular with suit blouses while costume blouses are partial to those with more generous proportions, such as three-quarter lantern, balloon, and baby doll treatments. Dainty peplums, tab pockets, tucking, lace edgings, fringe, contour hip bands, embroidery, bows and fancy buttons add fashion significance.

Making spring headlines are roughly - textured fabrics such as pique, linen, burlap, hopsacking, sharkskin, eyelet, and nubby weaves. Warp prints with a hand-painted quality, tapestry and needlepoint effects, object and geometric prints, polka dots and gingham checks are fabric focal points. Voile, broadcloth, chiffon, pongee and batiste are preponderant in natural fibres and in easy-care miracle blends.

Warm - toned flower colors take over, either in solids or in prints. Stark white, vivid prints on white grounds, black and white treatments and pastel solids are outstanding. The American look of red, white and blue also draws a significant vote.

The actual working part of the kitchen is behind this counter, while in front of it is an open area, which may eventually hold a breakfast table or a family sitting room. 'Twould be ideal for either, with its glass wall overlooking the vista to the water's edge.

On past the kitchen is the bedroom wing. The guest room walls are painted wheat color, with a yellow and brown print used for the draperies and spread. . . Claire Campbell's room is blue, with polka dot curtains and nursery animal prints. . . The master bedroom repeats the cerulean blue of the living room, and here, too, is the glass wall with the view to the bayou. The white dressing-room-bath has a built-in table — also white — down one entire wall, and a white telephone!

Two doors down is the new home of the FRED FUDICKARS, JR., which was completed shortly before the holidays. The brick residence with the turned columns on the porch and the dormers on the roof has an Early American air. . . Immediately to the left of the brick-paved entrance hall is the livingroom, painted a pale celadon green with carpet of the same shade. Particularly inviting is a wing chair upholstered in a qualited celadon print. . . The family room across the back of the house repeats the brick flooring, used here with cypress panelling. An open fireplace and built-in bookcases fill one end of the room. At the other is the player piano which is a source of much pleasure to the Fudickars and their sons.

The green - painted cabinets in the kitchen are matched by the green flooring The breakfast tables is set up in the big bay window overlooking the bayou.

The yellow guest room with its grey bath and the celadon green master suite are downstairs, while the second story is the domain of Frederick, Riley, and Robert. A large dormitory-playroom with its own bath occupies the whole upstairs. The dormers provide the windows on the front, while at the back of the room is an extra-wide bay window with a breath-taking view.

The NAJ KLAMS entertained twelve friends at a dinner party Saturday soir. A pink cloth covered the table, which was centered with a five - branched candelabra wreathed with philodendron and camellias . . . Rock Cornish game hen was the piece de resistance of the elegant meal. With the fowl, Louise served wild rice, congealed asparagus, string bean casserole, and salad of romaine and endive. Paradise pudding was the heavenly dessert.

JEAN and JACK DAVIS and their two daughters are in New Orleans this weekend. They made a quick trip down to attend the Athenians' ball last night are due back today . . . Also in New Orleans are the FRED WESTROMS and the JACK TERZIAS, who went Thursday for the races, and will be back tonight.

An unusual menu highlighted the dinner party hosted by the LON HEUERS last Saturday night. As an appetizer, Martha served a Polynesian delicacy of candied ginger, water chestnuts, and such exotic items in sour cream. The broiled steaks, which had been marinated for twenty-four hours in a red wine sauce, were served with baked potatoes and a salad of cucumber and spinach in sour cream dressing. A chocolate pie with whipped cream and a graham cracker crust was dessert. Ten friends enjoyed the party.

Born January 17 was BERNARD ALLISON SAGER, third son of JOAN and MILES SAGER JR. Proud grandmothers are FRANCESCA BIEDENHARN and RUBY HATTEN.

It's a girl for the AMOS SHELTONS. The new arrival, born January 15, is the second daughter and third child. She has been named Virginia May, and will be called JENNY. Maternal grandparents are the W. L. HUSTEDS, SR., while the paternal grandparents are the J. W. SHELTONS of Greenboro, N.C.

The THOMAS WALTERS of Selman Drive are announcing the birth of a new daughter. The little girl has been named CYNTHIA ALISA.

STEVE HANSEN celebrated his twelfth birthday with a home dance on Wednesday night. Steve did the planning and executing himelf — a platter party, with soft drinks and doughnuts for refreshments. Twelve young people came for dancing between the hours of seven and nine.

A skating party marked JAN BAGWELL'S sixth birthday Thursday afternoon. Winning the prize for the beginner who tried the hardest was young WAKE WAKEFIELD. LAURELLE NEAL won the stop the music game. Horns were given as favors. Ice cream and cupcakes were served to about forty children attending.

ARDEN ALLEN'S sixth birthday was the occasion for a circus party at the Highland Park Country Club. Pink, yellow, and blue balloons and birthday decorations carried out the theme. The cake was trimmed with figures of animals under a tent. The group played drop the handkerchief and pin the tail on the donkey. HARLAN SAGER and CONNIE WEAVER were prize winners. Circus horns were the favors for the sixty children attending.

On her fifth birthday, CAROL DAVIS held a home party for about twenty children from the neighborhood. She looked every inch the birthday girl in a red dress with a white pinafore. The group played games, with LISA MAYO and NANCY GARRETT winning prizes. Ice cream and pink and white birthday cake were served to the little guests.

One of the most interesting performances of the current Broadway season is the "Ages of Man." This is an all-Shakespeare recital by a dinner - jacketed Sir John Gielgud alone on an unadorned stage. Giving some idea of the range and richness of the poet, Sir John plays many parts, moving from youth to old age. The evening takes its title, of course, from Jacques' lines in "As You Like It":

All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts,
His acts being seven ages. At first the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms.
And then the whining school-boy with his satchel,
And shining morning face, creeping like snail
Unwillingly to school. And then the lover,
Sighing like furnace, with a woeful ballad
Made to his mistress' eyebrown. Then a soldier,
Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard,
Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation
Even in the cannon's mouth. And then the justice,
With eyes severe and beard of formal cut,
Full of wise saws and modern instances;
And so he plays his part. The sixth age shifts
Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon,
With spectacles on nose and pouch on side,
His youthful hose well sav'd a world too wide,
For his shrunk shank; and his big manly voice,
Turning again toward childish treble, pipes
And whistles in his sound. Last scene of all,
That ends this strange eventful history,
Is second childishness and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.

VEGETABLES

One way of keeping up with the changing taste of children in eating raw vegetables is to offer an assortment along with the family meal; the children will have fun arranging the plate attractively and are sure to find one or more of the relishes to their taste.

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Martha Elizabeth Harris to Howard Fred Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey H. Jackson of Monroe, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Harris of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of Friday, March 6. Dr. Jaroy Weber of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe will officiate.

PARSLEY

The best way to mince parsley is to fold over the top leaves of a small bouquet and cut fine with a scissors; also try this on chives and fresh herbs.

CHOP SUEY

For chop suey recipes using pork, choose lean meat and slice it into narrow strips about 2 inches long; brown lightly on all sides.

The New Spring Blouse Makes The Costume

In this jet - paced world of sweeping change, fashion brings many innovations of its own, decreeing now a brilliant new importance for blouses this spring. The suit blouse and the costume blouse have emerged as top contenders for style honors, with ingenious couturier designs, glowing colors, and exciting fabrics lending strong support. The comeback of the spring suit commands star billing for compatible blouses, while the continued prominence of the two - piece ensemble has raised the costume blouse to important new fashion heights. Other style themes center about the empire look which is seen everywhere, and on the overblouse, which now takes a more fitted line.

White blouses figure importantly on the spring suit scene, while brilliantly - colored floral warp prints turn many suits into flowering spring gardens. The white pique vest, re-embroidered eyelets, white cottons frosted with soft lace edgings, polka dots and gingham checks further spell out important blouse news for the Easter suit.

Costume blouses are contrived to dominate the ensemble and, teamed with the new fuller skirts for spring, constitute an inspiring fashion picture. The jacket blouse emerges importantly in many forms, some double - breasted or with cardigan fronts, translated into a variety of interesting fabrics including hopsacking, burlap, raw silk, linen, sharkskin and pique. Worn with an all - around pleated skirt, the jacket blouse creates a leading ensemble look for spring.

Spring shirts feature haberdashery details, a buccaneer styling influence. Winged Riviera collars, plunging necklines, short cuffed sleeves or roll-ups, shirttails, and monograms, all glorify the tailored spring shirt. It draws on many devices, such as floral and object prints, Roman stripes, and widely - assorted checks for further fashion interest.

In general, blouses this spring are supported by a wealth of handsome details for their unusually brilliant style appeal. Neckline favorites include the wide-away scooped treatment and puritan, choir boy, peter pan, shawl and notched collars. Short set-in sleeves are popular with suit blouses while costume blouses are partial to those with more generous proportions, such as three-quarter lantern, balloon, and baby doll treatments. Dainty peplums, tab pockets, tucking, lace edgings, fringe, contour hip bands, embroidery, bows and fancy buttons add fashion significance.

Making spring headlines are roughly - textured fabrics such as pique, linen, burlap, hopsacking, sharkskin, eyelet, and nubby weaves. Warp prints with a hand-painted quality, tapestry and needlepoint effects, object and geometric prints, polka dots and gingham checks are fabric focal points. Voile, broadcloth, chiffon, pongee and batiste are preponderant in natural fibres and in easy-care miracle blends.

Warm - toned flower colors take over, either in solids or in prints. Stark white, vivid prints on white grounds, black and white treatments and pastel solids are outstanding. The American look of red, white and blue also draws a significant vote.

Magnolia Study Club Holds Its January Meeting

Miss Athlene Connell welcomed members of the Magnolia Study club into her South Grand Street home for the January meeting, and was assisted in extending the courtesies by Miss Ola Mae Pennington.

Mrs. L. N. Copes, club president, called the meeting to order, and called upon Mrs. R. N. Dozier for the devotional. Mrs. Dozier used the 121st Psalms for the background of her message on True Greatness.

A highlight of the meeting was a talk by Miss Pennington on "Safety," pointing out ways of avoiding accidents in the home, streets and highways.

Several items of business were transacted, and Mrs. C. C. Lucky was named as a delegate to the South Central Conference to be held in New Orleans. Mrs. R. N. Dozier, Mrs. A. T. White and Mrs. Frank Reitzel were named as the nominating committee to secure new club officers.

Mrs. P. O. Bedgood gave a parliamentary review, which was of interest.

A social period followed, with the hostesses serving an array of delectables to Mrs. P. O. Bedgood, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. R. N. Dozier, Mrs. J. W. Golson, Mrs. Floyd Mathewes, Mrs. Ed Hislop, Mr. A. T. White, Mrs. John Osterland and Mrs. Harold Gill.

Jamie Russell, Charles Bearden Exchange Vows

MRS. CHARLES DOUGLAS BEARDEN

United in a candlelight ceremony on January 16, in West Monroe, were Miss Jamie Joyce Russell and Charles Douglas Bearden. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aldo J. Russell of Linville, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bearden of West Monroe.

The Rev. W. I. Peters performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was gowned in white lace over taffeta. Tiny pearls trimmed the sweetheart neckline. The veil of white nylon net was attached to a tiara trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped by white carnations.

Miss Catherine Bearden was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dress of deep rose and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Jack Patrick was the best man and groomsman was Ted Flynn. Candlelighter was Billy Beasley.

Presiding at the punch service at the reception following the ceremony was Mrs. Yvonne Kimball. Others assisting were Mrs. Dennis Moffitt and Mrs. C. L. Hancock.

The couple will be at home in West Monroe.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 NT.	Pass	2 NT.	Pass
3 NT.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Even when there has been no adverse bidding the location of a key card can sometimes be determined to a certainty by an alert declarer. The conduct of an adversary in the defence of a hand may permit a player to read his thoughts like an open book. South for some reason or other, opened with a club, perhaps for the purpose of inhibiting the lead of that suit should he and partner reach a final no trump contract. Then, for reasons best known to himself, he spurned the diamond raise in favor of a one no trump rebid, despite his very undesirable holding in spades. He should have been aware that the no trump contract might readily play better from North's side, but it all ended happily.

West opened the king of clubs which won the trick and when the queen of clubs was permitted to hold, he shifted to the ten of spades. If declarer takes the finesse, East will win and return a spade, establishing the suit while he still holds the ace of diamonds and declarer will be defeated two tricks.

A little amateur mind reading will make it apparent to declarer that the contract can be brought home by refusing the spade finesse and winning with the ace. That the queen of spades cannot be subjected to further attack is a moral certainty for the ace of diamonds is known without any doubt to be in East's hand. If West held the ace of diamonds, surely he would have proceeded with the establishment of the club suit.

After winning with the ace of spades, declarer leads diamonds until the suit is established. East, of course, is in and can find no way to transfer the lead to partner who would like to follow through with a spade. Declarer now has nine tricks.

Miss Nelsen Is Hostess To Coterie

The A Sharp Coterie held it's January meeting in the home of Miss Marie King Nelsen at 2519 North 12th Street. After refreshments and a short business meeting, the musical program was as follows: "Ecossaises" by Beethoven played by Ginger Donold, "May Night" by Selem Polmgren played by Mary Jo Strauser, Romance by Sibelius played by Katie Young, and Introduction and Fugato in D Minor by Harris played by Diane McGee.

Mrs. W. Lynn Speaker At Bernice Club

"Basic Steps in Landscaping" was the subject of a lecture given by Mrs. W. R. Lynn to members of the Bernice Garden Club at their January meeting at the Bernice Methodist Church.

A business session under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Reeves, president, included the passing of a resolution to start a garden club library. Appointment of a nominating committee was announced as follows: Mrs. Dendy Elliott, chairman, Mrs. Minnie Baldwin, Mrs. G. E. Lindsey, Sr.

The door prize consisting of two garden implements was won by Mrs. C. C. Caldwell.

About 25 members heard the talk given by Mrs. Lynn which contained many helpful hints on when, where and how to plant trees and shrubs for the best effect. She also included information on their care.

A report from the project committee stated that landscaping of the Bernice clubhouse grounds was progressing. Members were urged to solicit new recruits for the coming year.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. J. E. Reeves, Mrs. H. M. Roberson and Mrs. M. C. Roberson.

Many Recipes Call For Grated Orange, Lemon

So many recipes call for grated orange or lemon rind, it saves time to keep a supply in the freezer.

When preparing fresh orange or lemon juice, grate the rinds, measure by tablespoon, and wrap in individual packets for freezing. Store where they may be easily located, such as in the door shelves of your freezer.

HAM

Ham takes on delicate flavor when baked in milk. Place a 1½ inch thick slice of ham in a baking dish, spread with a mixture of brown sugar and a little dry mustard, surround with milk and bake in a moderate oven about 1 hour.

MISS SANDRA KAY WEBB

Sandra Webb Is Betrothed To Terry Von Head

The marriage of Miss Sandra Kay Webb and Terry Von Head will be an event of January 30. Miss Webb is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Webb of St. Joseph and he, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Head of Newellton.

The Rev. Alvin Smith will perform the ceremony at six o'clock in the evening in the Wesley Chapel of Jonesville.

Miss Johnnie Mae Webb will serve the bride as maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Jeri Ann Cower and Miss Lynn Head. Miss Saphea Head will serve as candlelighter.

Jerry Dan Head will serve the groom as best man and the groomsmen and ushers will be Wayne Allen Spurrill, Charles Judson Gordy, Carter Webb and Jerry Clank.

Both are students of Northeast Louisiana State College.

CABBAGE

Our friend, the cabbage, is on the market the year around, but remember that it is at its price peak during the first months of the year.

Mrs. Hearne Is Hostess To The Eros HD Club

The Eros HDC held its January meeting with Mrs. Roy Hearne as hostess. After the call to order, the clud read the club collect. Then with Mrs. Hearne at the piano, the members enjoyed singing.

Reports were given as follows: Mrs. Roy Hearne, Consumer's Education; Mrs. Kenneth Salsbury, Housing; and Mrs. C. L. Salsbury, Home Management. Mrs. Jean Cloy, Parish Agent, read a very interesting account of a visit in Franklin Parish by Miss Ann Hervy from the Scandinavian Countries of Europe and the club planned to invite the visitor to Jackson Parish.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Cloy who gave an excellent demonstration on the use of patterns. Mrs. L. M. Bunn won the door prize. After adjournment refreshments were served to: Mrs. Derward Crowell, Mrs. A. K. Pylant, Mrs. O. F. Wheelis, Mrs. Keith Yeager, Mrs. Kenneth Salsbury, Mrs. C. L. Salsbury, Mrs. J. P. Ates, Miss Vera Canady, Mrs. Roy N. Hearne, Mrs. F. A. Stuckery, Mrs. L. M. Bunn, Mrs. Herschel Sharp, Mrs. Jean Cloy, and a new member, Mrs. Marshall O. Aswell, and Mrs. W. A. Downs.

POTATOES

Sweet potatoes are a fitting companion for Sunday's fried chicken. saute the cooked sweets to a crisp brown right in the fat left from frying your chicken.

SKILLET

A lid makes an electric skillet useful for long cooked dishes; the skillet is especially fine for recipies calling for browning at the beginning.

Review Club Holds Regular Monthly Meet

The regular meeting of the Review Club was held in the home of Mrs. A. L. Givens on Auburn Ave. The president, Mrs. D. W. Griffith, welcomed Mrs. W. E. Bennett as a guest for the afternoon and presided over the business meeting.

Members voted to send a contribution to the library of the Central Louisiana State Hospital at Pineville. The Alexandria Service League sponsors a "Book Coffee" each year for the purpose of replenishing the patients library.

Following the business session, Mrs. Sam Smith introduced the program for the afternoon, "Look For America". "The Crack in the Picture Window,,' by John Keats was reviewed by Mrs. Fred Hueneteld Jr. This is a humorous but disturbing view of American families living in the modern housing development suburbs.

Mrs Claude Smith gave an informative account of Vance O. Packard's, "The Hidden Persuaders".

Following the program, a dessert course was served to the members and guests.

Wear Silk Organza Right Through Spring

BY BETH BLAIR

Fabrics have undergone many changes in current time. Today we have lightweight woolens, blends of man-made fibers with natural fibers, cottons that look like silks- - to mention just a few of the materials unknown 20 years ago. Many have more than one-season wearability because of their weight and appearance:

A reader writes- - -

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a mauve silk organza dress from my daughter's wedding. How late may I wear it?

Silk organza will be appropriate right through the year with the exception of very hot summer weather. The mauve tone also adds to its no-one-season wearing possibilities. Change your accessories for the different seasons.

Jamie Russell, Charles Bearden Exchange Vows

United in a candlelight ceremony on January 16, in West Monroe, were Miss Jamie Joyce Russell and Charles Douglas Bearden. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aldo J. Russell of Linville, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bearden of West Monroe.

The Rev. W. I. Peters performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was gowned in white lace over taffeta. Tiny pearls trimmed the sweetheart neckline. The veil of white nylon net was attached to a tiara trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped by white carnations.

Miss Catherine Bearden was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dress of deep rose and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Jack Patrick was the best man and groomsman was Ted Flynn. Candlelighter was Billy Beasley.

Presiding at the punch service at the reception following the ceremony was Mrs. Yvonne Kimball. Others assisting were Mrs. Dennis Moffitt and Mrs. C. L. Hancock.

The couple will be at home in West Monroe.

SPARERIBS

Allow at least ½ pound of meat for each person when buying bony cuts like spareribs.

FLAVOR

Did you know that it is important to store unopened canned foods in a cool well-ventilated place? Flavor and food value are better preserved when the temperature is below 70 degrees and above freezing.

LEMON

When a dash of lemon juice and poppy seed is added, buttered green beans take on new flavor you will relish.

Kit Kat Klub Holds Meeting In Young Home

The Kit Kat Klub held its weekly meeting at the home of Beth Young in Ruston.

Charlotte Payton called the meeting to order. The secretary, Patsy Larance, checked the roll and the treasurer's report was given by Jo Crump. First on the agenda was the presentation of appreciation gifts to the sponsors. Mrs. L. P. Blackwell, Mrs. H. S. Moody, and Mrs. E. L. Young by the vice president. The members then decided upon a church and a date when the Klub would attend church as a group.

New officers were nominated for the coming year and these will be elected at the next meeting. Nominations were also made for candidates for the March of Dimes Queen. Ann Riser was chosen to represent the Klub.

Following this election, members discussed plans for stunt night. Committees were appointed to work on this project.

With the completion of the business session, the hostess served refreshments to the following members: Karen King, Sandra Moore, Amelia Faulk, Sandra Henderson, Andrea Farley, Elaine Barnes, Lana Moore, Ann Temple, Donna Fernholz, Mary Norris, ylvia Moody, Mary Ellen Voitr, Velsa Bryan, Sandra Chander, Linda Barnes, Judy Dunnahoe, Mary Esther Lewis, Patricia Wilks, Joan Kuprionis, Katherine Skinner, Judy Mitchell, Nancy Garrison, Mary Ellen Blackwell, Mary Fowler, Janice Lyles, Shaon Moore, Sherry Rainwater, Bobbye Boyd, Vicki Bump, Mary Jane Turner, Nancy Dunnahoe, an Ferguson, Patsy Larance, Patricia Jones, Charlotte Payton, and Kay DeFreese.

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Crusman Gillette and Mrs. Earl Mason were co-hostesses to the Bayou DeSiard Garden Club this week.

Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., gave an inspiring report on the project selected by the club as a year round activity. The twenty-five club members have accepted the responsibility for clothing a local family and the members rotate every three months as participants in this project.

Mrs. Alfred Ware, the president, conducted a brief business meeting and then introduced the speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. Mildrel Swift held the attention of the group with an informative discussion on "Landscaping For Small Yards." Her talk was cleverly illustrated with an enlarged design of a lawn she had recently landscaped.

An informal question and answer period preceded a dessert course served by the hostesses to the following members: Mesdames: Fred Plitt, Dan Cox, P. M. Edwards, R. D. Farr, Jr., R. T. Farr, E. J. Foster, Harry Graham, J. H. Huffman, John Harris, Marcus Mapp, J. A. Neill, Barney Pate, Jack Rushing, A. H. Smith, H. W. Tolson, Johnnie Usrey, Alfred Ware, J. D. Wink, Jr., and Mrs. Swift.

Smith Village Ladies Hosts Sterlington PTA

The January meeting of the Sterlington P.T.A. was held Thursday night in the A. L. Smith School cafeteria, with Mrs. Jerry Gregg presiding. The invocation was given by Mr. O. K. Bailey.

First on program were Jenny Lee Perry, who played "The Swallow" by Burgmuller, and Annelle Wood, who played "Ballad" by Burgmuller.

Mr. D. W. Layvurn, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker of the evening — Father Curran, priest of Lady of Fatima Parish. Father Curran stressed the importance of religious training of children in the home from infancy up if our nation is to fight communism.

One of the main items of business was the discussion of a barbecue dinner to be given Friday night, February 13, in the school cafeteria.

The room count was won by Mrs. Mulhern's fourth grade.

The meeting adjourned and followed by a brief social hour with the ladies of Smith Village as hostesses.

Swami Santha Darbar Holds Jan. Meeting

Girl Scout News

Looking ahead, as Scouting teaches us to do, troops are planning or taking part in programs on International Friendship, deciding on how they will participate in the Juliette Low Fund and Girl Scout Week. Neighborhoods, most of them, have started planning Girl Scout birthday programs. Questions are being asked already about summer activities and last week when the gound was frozen hard, the office received calls asking about day camp dates. All of which proves that Girl Scouts spend the cold and bad meeting days indoors, planning and learning skills to be carried on out of doors.

A new Brownie troop we'd like to mention is Troop 37, made up of third grades at Mitchell School. Organized at a meeting of a group of mothers in December, the girls managed to get in enough meetings so that Santa Claus could bring uniforms and accessories. hTe group was so enthusiastic that, unlike most troops, it met during the Christmas holidays.

Registered as leader is Mrs. Morris Chambless, assistant, Mrs. Clyde Bassett, and members of the troop committee are: Mrs. D. W. Reighney, Mrs. Robert H. Rich, Mrs. Willis F. Ward, Mrs. Jewel Henderson. Members of the troop are: Debra Albritton, Billy June Barney, Ruth Bassett, John Ellen Brown, Sharon Chambless, Kathy Grant, Vickie Ann Head, Maureen Horn, Paula Moses, Joann McClain, Mary Catherine Reighney, Pamela Rich, Mary Beth Ward, Shirley Ann White, Donna Whitehead, Sheila Ann Wyles, Pamela Accardo, Kathleen Creech.

At the recent annual meeting, Mrs. Harry Martin, District Chairman for District H, was presented a five-year pin, which she had earned by that many year's work as a volunteer in Scouting. Board Member, Mrs. S. C. Strausser, in making the presentation, cited the fact that Mrs. Martin is the mother of five girls, all of whom have been in Scouting, and that her latest contribution is that of Brownie leader for youngest daughter Martha's troop.

Also organized before Christmas, this troop is made of all Brownie age girls at St. Paschal's School. Assistant leaders are Mrs. Jesse L. Norris and Mrs. Thelma Henderson, members of the troop committee are: Mrs. Walter Krone, Mrs. Richard LeBrun, Mrs. J. S. Trichel, Mrs. Glenn Golson. Girls who have been invested and are happily going about the business of being good Brownie Scouts Linda Coates, Therese Crenshaw, Sue Danna, Sharon Daigle, Debra Ferracci, Susie Golson, Terri Golson, Janis Hatten, Martha Ann Hays, Mary Jane Hays, Pamela Henderson, Beverly Hummell, Michelle Krone, Deobrah Laviza, Gloria LeBrun, Martha Martin, Carolyn Redfern, Sandra Sims, Kristin Trichell.

Adult meetings this week are board meeting Monday night, pottery instruction, open to any interested adult, Wednesday morning, and West Monroe neighborhood Tuesday at 1:30 at Highland School. If those who attended previous pottery classes wish to come Wednesday they are promised something new. All Girl Scout adults living in West Monroe are asked to attend the neighborhood meeting. Plans for Girl Scout Week will be made, and possibly a decision made to set up two neighborhoods for West Monroe.

One Place Where Age Is An Advantage

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

If you're a woman, preferably over 40, possibly a widow and interested in investments, you can make good in Wall Street. Previous business experience is not necessary.

"Wall Street is one place where age is an advantage instead of a liability," says Mrs. Margaret Kennedy, active general partner in a Stock Exchange firm which recently added her name to its title. "There are many women who have gone into the brokerage business after middle age and are making great successes. Often they are widows suddenly faced with the responsibility of investing their own money. They start by asking advice of friends and often end up by giving advice to these same friends.

"People are likely to have confidence in someone with experience. A woman who has invested her own money wisely can give sound advice to others. On the other hand, an investor might be charmed by some cute young thing of 22, just out of college, but he woudn't take her financial advice very seriously."

Mrs. Kennedy, however, is an exception to her own rule. She has been in the investment business since the age of eight, she announces proudly.

"My father was a St. Louis lawyer who suddenly got interested in stocks, and he taught me to make a stock chart for him every day," she said. "Later, when he moved to New York and started publishing The Wall Street Analyst, I worked in his office at the age of 15 and later became editor."

Mrs. Kennedy was married at 16 and widowed at 20, at which time she started her Wall Street career in earnest. She has one son, one daughter, and two grandchildren, lives in a Manhattan apartment and spends most of her waking hours studying the market.

More and more women are getting into the business of high finance, says Mrs. Kennedy, but she does not advise it as a career for a girl just out of college.

"Wall Street isn't set up to give long-term training programs and offer pensions and security and all that, like the big corporations do," she said.

"The most successful women in Wall Street and in other brokerage houses around the country are those who have gone into it through the necessity of having to invest their own money, usually after they have reached middle age. For such women, there are increasing opportunities in the investment business, if they are willing to learn to study, to work hard, and put in long hours."

Sky's The Limit

BY DOROTHY ROE

Women can shoot the works on hats this spring.

The new spring hats shown by New York's leading milliners are often startling, sometimes nostalgic and usually flattering.

There are sailors and bowlers galore, plenty of flower-trimmed picture hats, some jet-age abstractions and lots of pretty little suit hats that hug the head, frame the face and generally make a woman look better than she does without a hat.

Milliners have decided, it seems, that women are ready for hats that are really hats once more-not wigs or scraps of veil or beanies.

You'll be seeing practically every known version of the sailor hat in the Easter parade—trim little tailored versions, big Merry Widow cartwheels, flower-trimmed pancakes and high-crowned designs that have a prim 1910 look. There is generally more height as well as more width of brim in the spring hat lineup. And one thing is certain—every woman will want a new hat this spring. The no-hat look is strictly old-hat in 1959.

Girl Scout News

Looking ahead, as Scouting teaches us to do, troops are planning or taking part in programs on International Friendship, deciding on how they will participate in the Juliette Low Fund and Girl Scout Week. Neighborhoods, most of them, have started planning Girl Scout birthday programs. Questions are being asked already about summer activities and last week when the gound was frozen hard, the office received calls asking about day camp dates. All of which proves that Girl Scouts spend the cold and bad meeting days indoors, planning and learning skills to be carried on out of doors.

A new Brownie troop we'd like to mention is Troop 37, made up of third grades at Mitchell School. Organized at a meeting of a group of mothers in December, the girls managed to get in enough meetings so that Santa Claus could bring uniforms and accessories. hTe group was so enthusiastic that, unlike most troops, it met during the Christmas holidays.

Registered as leader is Mrs. Morris Chambless, assistant, Mrs. Clyde Bassett, and members of the troop committee are: Mrs. D. W. Reighney, Mrs. Robert H. Rich, Mrs. Willis F. Ward, Mrs. Jewel Henderson. Members of the troop are: Debra Albritton, Billy June Barney, Ruth Bassett, John Ellen Brown, Sharon Chambless, Kathy Grant, Vickie Ann Head, Maureen Horn, Paula Moses, Joann McClain, Mary Catherine Reighney, Pamela Rich, Mary Beth Ward, Shirley Ann White, Donna Whitehead, Sheila Ann Wyles, Pamela Accardo, Kathleen Creech.

At the recent annual meeting, Mrs. Harry Martin, District Chairman for District H, was presented a five-year pin, which she had earned by that many year's work as a volunteer in Scouting. Board Member, Mrs. S. C. Strausser, in making the presentation, cited the fact that Mrs. Martin is the mother of five girls, all of whom have been in Scouting, and that her latest contribution is that of Brownie leader for youngest daughter Martha's troop.

Also organized before Christmas, this troop is made of all Brownie age girls at St. Paschal's School. Assistant leaders are Mrs. Jesse L. Norris and Mrs. Thelma Henderson, members of the troop committee are: Mrs. Walter Krone, Mrs. Richard LeBrun, Mrs. J. S. Trichel, Mrs. Glenn Golson. Girls who have been invested and are happily going about the business of being good Brownie Scouts Linda Coates, Therese Crenshaw, Sue Danna, Sharon Daigle, Debra Ferracci, Susie Golson, Terri Golson, Janis Hatten, Martha Ann Hays, Mary Jane Hays, Pamela Henderson, Beverly Hummell, Michelle Krone, Deobrah Laviza, Gloria LeBrun, Martha Martin, Carolyn Redfern, Sandra Sims, Kristin Trichell.

Adult meetings this week are board meeting Monday night, pottery instruction, open to any interested adult, Wednesday morning, and West Monroe neighborhood Tuesday at 1:30 at Highland School. If those who attended previous pottery classes wish to come Wednesday they are promised something new. All Girl Scout adults living in West Monroe are asked to attend the neighborhood meeting. Plans for Girl Scout Week will be made, and possibly a decision made to set up two neighborhoods for West Monroe.

One Place Where Age Is An Advantage

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

If you're a woman, preferably over 40, possibly a widow and interested in investments, you can make good in Wall Street. Previous business experience is not necessary.

"Wall Street is one place where age is an advantage instead of a liability," says Mrs. Margaret Kennedy, active general partner in a Stock Exchange firm which recently added her name to its title. "There are many women who have gone into the brokerage business after middle age and are making great successes. Often they are widows suddenly faced with the responsibility of investing their own money. They start by asking advice of friends and often end up by giving advice to these same friends.

"People are likely to have confidence in someone with experience. A woman who has invested her own money wisely can give sound advice to others. On the other hand, an investor might be charmed by some cute young thing of 22, just out of college, but he woudn't take her financial advice very seriously."

Mrs. Kennedy, however, is an exception to her own rule. She has been in the investment business since the age of eight, she announces proudly.

"My father was a St. Louis lawyer who suddenly got interested in stocks, and he taught me to make a stock chart for him every day," she said. "Later, when he moved to New York and started publishing The Wall Street Analyst, I worked in his office at the age of 15 and later became editor."

Mrs. Kennedy was married at 16 and widowed at 20, at which time she started her Wall Street career in earnest. She has one son, one daughter, and two grandchildren, lives in a Manhattan apartment and spends most of her waking hours studying the market.

More and more women are getting into the business of high finance, says Mrs. Kennedy, but she does not advise it as a career for a girl just out of college.

"Wall Street isn't set up to give long-term training programs and offer pensions and security and all that, like the big corporations do," she said.

"The most successful women in Wall Street and in other brokerage houses around the country are those who have gone into it through the necessity of having to invest their own money, usually after they have reached middle age. For such women, there are increasing opportunities in the investment business, if they are willing to learn to study, to work hard, and put in long hours."

"I'M PRACTICALLY AN ENROLLED STUDENT," comments Butch, alias Hans Frederick of Sleepy Hollow, who has adopted Northeast State College as his Alma Mater. Spending a study session in the Student Center are, left, Donald Styron, Margaret Green, Sherman Ann Smith, Butch and Dale Hoover. Where ever Butch goes on the campus he attracts attention.

"DAD CAME FROM GERMANY, but I'm studying Spanish," says the campus canine, seated next to instructor Miss Hazel Mitchell and student Richard Savage. (Staff photos by Jim S. Julien)

EXPANDING TRADITION ESTABLISHED BY IMMIGRANT FATHER

Butch, The Dog, Adopts College And Its Students

FEATURES

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

He swims Bayou DeSiard and is first one on campus each morning. . . attends Northeast College lectures in everything from Spanish to advanced chemistry . . and prevents any curious dogs from entering the buildings.

He perfers his nickname "Butch" to his fancy title "Hans Frederick", and is just "one of the boys" lounging in the Student Center between classes.

He doesn't think he's a dog. No one has told him that almost every other college in the United States also has its "special dog." Usually the canine belongs to fraternity brothers.

At Northeast, Butch thinks it's just the other way around. He adopted the college, and all its students— expanding on a tradition established by his immigrant father.

"Hans" a full-blooded registered Boxer was well-known on campus long before son Butch gave his first off-key yelp.

FROM GERMANY

The elder Hans winged his way to Monroe from Frankfurt, Germany, on an airline passage purchased by Army career-man James Dawson. Sgt. Dawson and his family arrived after navigating the ocean by boat.

Dawson was assigned to Northeast, as an instructor in the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Hans "pulled rank" and wrangled a ride to the campus each morning, after spending the nights in the Dawsons' Edgewater Gardens home.

But it was guard duty for Hans, who was leashed to a tree near the ROTC buildings. The ice was broken, though. Students eyed the ferocious-looking animal cautiously, gradually learned that a Boxer is a whole lot friendlier than he looks.

The Army took Butch and the Dawsons away from Monroe, to a new duty assignment in Shreveport, where "Hans Frederick of Sleepy Hollow" or "Fritz" arrived on the scene.

Hans apparently tipped his young son off to the joys of campus life, and the Dawsons aided the plot by giving Fritz (Butch) to their former Monroe neighbor, Mrs. O. N. McNeil.

After one year of home life at the McNeils, Fritz headed for higher education at Northeast.

"He showed up last summer. I started petting him, and now he sticks to me all the time, like a shadow," says Bobby Oden, director of Student Activities.

"It took until December to find out who owned him. Dr. Hansell Cross, assistant professor with the college biology department, gave us a clue - he said he'd seen the dog swimming the Bayou," Oden explained.

LOSING WEIGHT

"Butch had been sick and losing weight for two weeks, and we asked all around the college area, trying to find his owner. After Dr. Cross gave us the tip, we checked in the Edgewater Gardens, and sure enough we located the McNeils." Oden recalled.

By that time, "Butch"—as he had been called by the students — had completely adopted Oden, the college, and his new name.

"The McNeils can't keep him home," laugh instructors. "Butch has broken leashes, ropes and chains. . . Mrs. McNeil and her son have come over here so many times to take him home. . but they can't keep him there.

Butch has to have attention, and he likes the college kids, is the only way that Oden can explain the dog's attitude.

"The McNeils have a smaller house dog, in addition to Butch. He loves attention, and when he's at the college, he gets plenty of it. I've never heard him growl at a student," confided Oden, "but he won't let another dog into any of the buildings here."

"He'd be at the top of the list in any popularity poll. The students love him," mentioned Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl, head of the journalism department.

LIBERAL EDUCATION

The registered boxer is getting a liberal education. Besides his activities in the Student Center, he attends classes. ("If there's any place he avoids, I don't know anything about it," Oden grinned.)

Students have decided that they can 'grade' any lecture given by a professor according to Butch's reaction. "When the lecture is bad," they say, "Butch leaves."

"I've heard some of them say 'I wish I could get up and go out like Butch does'," laughed an instructor.

Each morning, when Mrs. George Woods unlocks the door to the Student Center at 7 a.m., Butch is there, waiting to enter.

He either propels himself over to Oden's office, or sprawls out in the lounge.

"He looks like he'd eat you up . . but he's so good." pointed out Mrs. Woods. "And he won't drink ordinary water—he's got to have ice water. You'd laugh to see him get on his knees and squeeze himself under the water cooler, to where some of it drips down onto the floor."

"Rex", Butch's next door neighbor, follows the college canine over to the Center, and that's as far as Rex gets. Butch won't let his friend place a paw inside the door.

But Butch shares Rex's king-size dog house at night.

An educated guess by World photographer Jim St. Julian placed Butch's weight at 75 to 85 pounds.

"He can eat two cans of dog food without taking a breath, but his favorite food is anything from candy to hot dogs. We've tried to stop the students from feeding him, but they keep buying food all the time, and the girls are worse about it than the boys," grimaced Oden.

FOOD APLENTY

"Anytime you see a girl coming through the cafeteria line, carrying two hot dogs, with one just a weiner and a bun, you know that one is for Butch," he shrugged.

"Hey, Fritz," called an athlete, as he stepped around the brown bundle occupying several feet of cafeteria space. "Fritz" never blinked an eye.

"Since everyone's found out his real name, they try it out, but he won't pay attention to any name but Butch," explained Donald Styron, Northeast track star.

Butch also took to sleeping in the boys' dormitory last fall —they'd walk in and find him draped over a bed. That little pastime didn't last long—Butch was evicted in a hurry.

Completely Student Center and classbroken, he was content to be a silent witness to campus life until he discovered a scoop tractor.

He was bone-dreaming in the office of Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions, when the tractor clanked up to the windows. That did it. Butch roared into action, ready for battle.

"He had lain there for an hour without moving. I thought he was 'dead' until then," recalls Hanna. Butch proved otherwise. He jumped, barked and growled until the tractor chugged off.

Although he doesn't go in for sports, Butch is sure to attend all the formal affairs on campus.

"He walks right in and makes himself at home. At the faculty Christmas dinner, one non-instructor was present: Butch," remarked journalism professor instructor Robert Russell.

"If there's a dance at the Student Center, Butch swings in," added Oden.

Mrs. McNeil knows of no reason why Butch began going to the campus, and believes the theory that he inherited the college spirit from his father won't hold water, since Hans had left Monroe before Butch was born.

Oden thinks he has discovered why Butch swims the Bayou, even in the coldest weather, in order to get to campus by the shortest, and quickest, route.

"His favorite place is where a lot of people are," explains Oden. "Just as long as somebody scratches him, that's what he likes . . . and he doesn't have to look far to find a friendly student."

Hussein Is Still The King

By TOM MASTERSON

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Just about every Arab ruler in the Middle East who has stood up to Egyptian President Nasser has gone down—with one notable exception.

One by one, even the mildly anti-Nasser premiers, presidents or royal rulers in Iraq, Lebanon, the Sudan, Saudi Arabia and Syria have fallen through ouster, assassination or loss of power.

The notable exception: King Hussein of Jordan.

Hussein was one of the first singled out for elimination.

Month after month, inordinately vicious attacks were aimed at him personally. Cairo even tried to goad Hussein's own people into killing him. Self-styled seers regularly predicted his imminent assassination, abdication or dethronement.

Yet Hussein has stood steadfast.

Right now he is more popular in Jordan than at any time since he became king six years ago. His people call him the "Little Tiger." Unable to budge him, Cairo has stopped its attack.

Reliable informants in Amman, Damascus and Beirut say Nasser would welcome a return to cordial relations with Hussein.

Among the Jordanians, Hussein is immensely more popular than the government, headed by Pasha Samir Rifai. Perhaps, in Hussein's own words, you can find why he has gained this popularity.

"I've never wavered," he told me, from what I believe is best for my people and country.

"I fought communism from the start because I didn't think it was good for my people.

"I fought those who wanted to see my country die and I shall always fight them.

"All I have to give is my life."

Hussein is an intense young man. He leans forward when he speaks, eager to make you understand his thoughts.

He is 24 years old.

Only two years ago, people were calling him "the playboy king" of the Middle East.

He has turned into a mature man long before his time. He is no longer jaunty, but reserved. The boyish grin has been replaced by a thin-lipped smile. The wide-eyed look has become an intent and peering scrutiny. The only trace of nervousness is the working of a muscle at the corner of his jaw.

Older, wiser and more experienced rulers in the Middle East have broken under less than what Hussein has endured. Trouble seems to have made a man of him.

More important, it has brought out a courage of a kind the bravest of men can envy.

As Hussein talked to me, the Communist menace in Iraq was worsening.

"We said this would happen," Hussein recalled, referring to the July revolution in Iraq in which his cousin, King Faisal, was murdered.

"We warned our friends. But they said, 'no'," he smiled wryly. "They disregarded our advice and they were wrong."

Hussein didn't elaborate on the advice or name the friends. But he apparently was referring to the Baghdad Pact powers.

Two Ship Shepherds Do Top Flight Work

By RICHARD M. MANSFIELD
Norfolk Virginian-Pilot
Military Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two lieutenants in a tiny, cluttered office at the Norfolk Naval Air Station exchanged pleased grins when the message came in:

"Fastest trip ever. Thanks."

It was just one of many similar messages sweated out by Albert T. Buckmaster and Hugh W. Albers. It meant the Atlantic Fleet ervice force ship Antares had crossed from Norfolk to Gibraltar n record time using a route ploted daily by Buckmaster and Albers in their cubbyhole.

Since September, when they pened their office, the two lieuenants have shepherded 100 Navy nd Military Sea Transportation ervice ships across the Atlantic. By next July they expect to hanle all Atlantic traffic for MSTS nd a major portion of the Atlanc fleet's business.

They run the Navy's Optimum hip Routing system. Based on he research of Dr. Richard W. ames of the Navy's hydrographic fice, the system seeks to overcome the ancient bugaboo of the seas—changeable currents and eather conditions which often result in reduced speed and heavy ship damage.

MONTHS

In the few months of its operation, the OSR system has improved speed of ocean transportation and saved more than one million dollars.

The program holds exciting implications for commercial shipping, where the cold facts of economy are vital.

During fiscal 1957, American shippers lost $2,665,441 in foundered and damaged ships, and $443,730 in cargo damage. During the period 1952-56, a total of $12,766,132 was recorded in ship losses and cargo damage was set at $952,020. These are commercial figures. There is no available record of monetary losses to naval vessels during the same periods.

Some shipping companies reportedly have begun providing OSR service for their own operations in an effort to reduce weather damage costs and speedup schedules.

For years scientists have been trying to devise a way of avoiding the navigational problems presented by rapid, unexpected changes in weather and currents. Dr. James' efforts, put into motion by the Navy, have produced what could be the first logical approach to a solution.

Stated simply, the James-Navy concept provides ship masters, or naval captains, with constant and controlled guidance through the potential treachery of oceanic weather.

While Dr. James concedes that weather damage cannot be entirely eliminated, he does argue that these great losses will continue unless more attention is given to recent oceanographic advances.

Armed with Dr. James' published thesis, Buckmaster and Albers labor long hours every day herding ships across the tricky Atlantic—ships they are not likely ever to see. They always keep in mind one bit of James philosophy:

"Routes based on climatic weather data normally will avoid areas of known high frequency of storm centers. But blind adherence to seasonal routes results in very poor efficiency. Weather is not static. Weather is dynamic and complex. And a route that was ideal today may be dangerous tomorrow."

As explained by Buckmaster, OSR is "a matter of improved forecasting machinery, close communications and confidence and a spot of luck." Perhaps a recent episode will serve better to explain the technical features of the system, and its end product.

On Sept. 15, 1957, the MSTS ship Buckner weighed anchor in New York harbor. Eight days later she dropped her hook at Bremerhaven, Germany. From start to finish Buckmaster and Albers called the shots.

WEATHER

Two days before the Buckner was due to depart, the two lieutenants armed themselves with a series of five-day weather prognostications — "progs" they call them. Hunching over their charting table in Fleet Weather Facility, Norfolk, they started the project.

A set of five progs gave them a fairly clear picture of the predictable weather the Buckner would face cruising eastward. The lieutenants laid out a series of first-day course legs, selected the best from all angles and passed it on to the ship, with projected tentative headings for successive days.

Previously documented tables showed them exactly how a ship of Buckner's size and configuration would react to every possible combination of wave, wind and current. As a P2R-1 type she will make 13.6 knots with a 20-foot bow-on sea and 18.9 knots with a 20-foot billowing sea.

Capt. K. C. Towne, skipper of the Buckner and a man with 40 years' sea-going experience, was on his way with what the lieutenants considered to be his quickest and safest routing to Bremerhaven.

But something happened on the second day to alter the script. The OSR team noted an alarming shift in weather when new progs developed. To the north a storm was moving down, and would lay a heavy hand on the Buckner if she plied her original course pattern.

CHARTS

Buckmaster and Albers reworked their chart and decided to send the ship more to the south, giving her a heading to skirt the storm line. So painstaking and accurate was their work that on her final leg the Buckner picked up a heavy following sea that booted her neatly home at high speed.

Veteran seafarer Towne was amazed. He conceded that at first he was a bit skeptical about the whole thing. Since that first passage the lieutenants have ushered him across five more times.

Asked how many ships they can accommodate at a given date, Albers pointed to a wall covered with clipboards. "Well, we have 60 nails up there and I guess we can drive in a few more," he said. He noted that at the time 13 ships were under surveillance and six more were preparing to depart for Europe.

Buckmaster and Albers are backed by the 44-man staff of Fleet Weather Facility, where daily more than three miles of punch tape flows in with weather symbols.

Requiring only that ships give them 48 hours notice, Buckmaster says he and Albers "keep in touch with them all the way and sweat them out." Every 24 hours a ship gives a position report and a summary of weather conditions.

Dr. James wrote in his thesis in 1956: "The inevitable result of the successful accomplishment of this task will be improved maritime economy, and progress to date strongly indicates that a reasonable solution to the problem may soon be realized."

Scots Celebrate 200th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Burns Night," celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns on Sunday will bring many Scotsmen together the world over.

Burns dinners will be held, probably featuring Haggis, that oatmeal and ground lamb concoction which Burns called "great chieftain of the puddin' race." Haggis is traditionally eaten by all Scottish societies and Burns clubs in Scotland and abroad to commemorate Bobbie Burns' birthday.

LOSING WEIGHT

“Butch had been sick and losing weight for two weeks, and we asked all around the college area, trying to find his owner. After Dr. Cross gave us the tip, we checked in the Edgewater Gardens, and sure enough we located the McNeils,” Oden recalled.

By that time, “Butch”—as he had been called by the students — had completely adopted Oden, the college, and his new name.

“The McNeils can't keep him home,” laugh instructors. “Butch has broken leashes, ropes and chains. . . Mrs. McNeil and her son have come over here so many times to take him home. . but they can't keep him there.

Butch has to have attention, and he likes the college kids, is the only way that Oden can explain the dog's attitude.

“The McNeils have a smaller house dog, in addition to Butch. He loves attention, and when he's at the college, he gets plenty of it. I've never heard him growl at a student,” confided Oden, “but he won't let another dog into any of the buildings here.”

LIBERAL EDUCATION

The registered boxer is getting a liberal education. Besides his activities in the Student Center, he attends classes. (“If there's any place he avoids, I don't know anything about it,” Oden grinned.)

Students have decided that they can ‘grade’ any lecture given by a professor according to Butch's reaction. “When the lecture is bad,” they say, “Butch leaves.”

“I've heard some of them say ‘I wish I could get up and go out like Butch does’,” laughed an instructor.

Each morning, when Mrs. George Woods unlocks the door to the Student Center at 7 a.m., Butch is there, waiting to enter.

He either propels himself over to Oden's office, or sprawls out in the lounge.

“He looks like he'd eat you up . . but he's so good,” pointed out Mrs. Woods. “And he won't drink ordinary water—he's got to have ice water. You'd laugh to see him get on his knees and squeeze himself under the water cooler, to where some of it drips down onto the floor.”

“Rex”, Butch's next door neighbor, follows the college canine over to the Center, and that's as far as Rex gets. Butch won't let his friend place a paw inside the door.

But Butch shares Rex's king-size dog house at night.

An educated guess by World photographer Jim St. Julian placed Butch's weight at 75 to 85 pounds.

“He can eat two cans of dog food without taking a breath, but his favorite food is anything from candy to hot dogs. We've tried to stop the students from feeding him, but they keep buying food all the time, and the girls are worse about it than the boys,” grimaced Oden.

FOOD APLENTY

“Anytime you see a girl coming through the cafeteria line, carrying two hot dogs, with one just a weiner and a bun, you know that one is for Butch,” he shrugged.

“Hey, Fritz,” called an athlete, as he stepped around the brown bundle occupying several feet of cafeteria space. “Fritz” never blinked an eye.

“Since everyone's found out his real name, they try it out, but he won't pay attention to any name but Butch,” explained Donald Styron, Northeast track star.

Butch also took to sleeping in the boys' dormitory last fall —they'd walk in and find him draped over a bed. That little pastime didn't last long—Butch was evicted in a hurry.

Completely Student Center and classbroken, he was content to be a silent witness to campus life until he discovered a scoop tractor.

He was bone-dreaming in the office of Dr. Clint Hanna, director of admissions, when the tractor clanked up to the windows. That did it. Butch roared into action, ready for battle.

“He had lain there for an hour without moving. I thought he was ‘dead’ until then,” recalls Hanna. Butch proved otherwise. He jumped, barked and growled until the tractor chugged off.

Although he doesn't go in for sports, Butch is sure to attend all the formal affairs on campus.

“He walks right in and makes himself at home. At the faculty Christmas dinner, one non-instructor was present: Butch,” remarked journalism professor instructor Robert Russell.

“If there's a dance at the Student Center, Butch swings in,” added Oden.

Mrs. McNeil knows of no reason why Butch began going to the campus, and believes the theory that he inherited the college spirit from his father won't hold water, since Hans had left Monroe before Butch was born.

Oden thinks he has discovered why Butch swims the Bayou, even in the coldest weather, in order to get to campus by the shortest, and quickest, route.

“His favorite place is where a lot of people are,” explains Oden. “Just as long as somebody scratches him, that's what he likes . . . and he doesn't have to look far to find a friendly student.”

Hussein Is Still The King

By TOM MASTERSON

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Just about every Arab ruler in the Middle East who has stood up to Egyptian President Nasser has gone down—with one notable exception.

One by one, even the mildly anti-Nasser premiers, presidents or royal rulers in Iraq, Lebanon, the Sudan, Saudi Arabia and Syria have fallen through ouster, assassination or loss of power.

The notable exception: King Hussein of Jordan.

Hussein was one of the first singled out for elimination.

Month after month, inordinately vicious attacks were aimed at him personally. Cairo even tried to goad Hussein's own people into killing him. Self-styled seers regularly predicted his imminent assassination, abdication or dethronement.

Yet Hussein has stood steadfast.

Right now he is more popular in Jordan than at any time since he became king six years ago. His people call him the “Little Tiger.” Unable to budge him, Cairo has stopped its attack.

Reliable informants in Amman, Damascus and Beirut say Nasser would welcome a return to cordial relations with Hussein.

Among the Jordanians, Hussein is immensely more popular than the government, headed by Pasha Samir Rifai. Perhaps, in Hussein's own words, you can find why he has gained this popularity.

“I've never wavered,” he told me, from what I believe is best for my people and country.

“I fought communism from the start because I didn't think it was good for my people.

“I fought those who wanted to see my country die and I shall always fight them.

“All I have to give is my life.”

Hussein is an intense young man. He leans forward when he speaks, eager to make you understand his thoughts.

He is 24 years old.

Only two years ago, people were calling him “the playboy king” of the Middle East.

He has turned into a mature man long before his time. He is no longer jaunty, but reserved. The boyish grin has been replaced by a thin-lipped smile. The wide-eyed look has become an intent and peering scrutiny. The only trace of nervousness is the working of a muscle at the corner of his jaw.

Older, wiser and more experienced rulers in the Middle East have broken under less than what Hussein has endured. Trouble seems to have made a man of him.

More important, it has brought out a courage of a kind the bravest of men can envy.

As Hussein talked to me, the Communist menace in Iraq was worsening.

“We said this would happen,” Hussein recalled, referring to the July revolution in Iraq in which his cousin, King Faisal, was murdered.

“We warned our friends. But they said, ‘no’,” he smiled wryly. “They disregarded our advice and they were wrong.”

Hussein didn't elaborate on the advice or name the friends. But he apparently was referring to the Baghdad Pact powers.

Two Ship Shepherds Do Top Flight Work

By RICHARD M. MANSFIELD

Norfolk Virginian-Pilot

Military Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two lieutenants in a tiny, cluttered office at the Norfolk Naval Air Station exchanged pleased grins when the message came in:

“Fastest trip ever. Thanks.”

It was just one of many similar messages sweated out by Albert T. Buckmaster and Hugh W. Albers. It meant the Atlantic Fleet service force ship Antares had crossed from Norfolk to Gibraltar in record time using a route plotted daily by Buckmaster and Albers in their cubbyhole.

Since September, when they opened their office, the two lieutenants have shepherded 100 Navy and Military Sea Transportation Service ships across the Atlantic. By next July they expect to handle all Atlantic traffic for MSTS and a major portion of the Atlantic fleet's business.

They run the Navy's Optimum Ship Routing system. Based on the research of Dr. Richard W. James of the Navy's hydrographic office, the system seeks to overcome the ancient bugaboo of the seas—changeable currents and weather conditions which often result in reduced speed and heavy ship damage.

MONTHS

In the few months of its operation, the OSR system has improved speed of ocean transportation and saved more than one million dollars.

The program holds exciting implications for commercial shipping, where the cold facts of economy are vital.

During fiscal 1957, American shippers lost $2,665,441 in foundered and damaged ships, and $443,730 in cargo damage. During the period 1952-56, a total of $12,766,132 was recorded in ship losses and cargo damage was set at $952,020. These are commercial figures. There is no available record of monetary losses to naval vessels during the same periods.

Some shipping companies reportedly have begun providing OSR service for their own operations in an effort to reduce weather damage costs and speedup schedules.

For years scientists have been trying to devise a way of avoiding the navigational problems presented by rapid, unexpected changes in weather and currents. Dr. James' efforts, put into motion by the Navy, have produced what could be the first logical approach to a solution.

James' proposition is spelled out in his thesis titled: “Application of wave forecasts to marine navigation.” The Navy has applied the doctrine in the OSR.

Stated simply, the James-Navy concept provides ship masters, or naval captains, with constant and controlled guidance through the potential treachery of oceanic weather.

While Dr. James concedes that weather damage cannot be entirely eliminated, he does argue that these great losses will continue unless more attention is given to recent oceanographic advances.

Armed with Dr. James' published thesis, Buckmaster and Albers labor long hours every day herding ships across the tricky Atlantic—ships they are not likely ever to see. They always keep in mind one bit of James philosophy:

“Routes based on climatic weather data normally will avoid areas of known high frequency of storm centers. But blind adherence to seasonal routes results in very poor efficiency. Weather is not static. Weather is dynamic and complex. And a route that was ideal today may be dangerous tomorrow.”

As explained by Buckmaster, OSR is “a matter of improved forecasting machinery, close communications and confidence and a spot of luck.” Perhaps a recent episode will serve better to explain the technical features of the system, and its end product.

On Sept. 15, 1957, the MSTS ship Buckner weighed anchor in New York harbor. Eight days later she dropped her hook at Bremerhaven, Germany. From start to finish Buckmaster and Albers called the shots.

WEATHER

Two days before the Buckner was due to depart, the two lieutenants armed themselves with a series of five-day weather prognostications — “progs” they call them. Hunching over their charting table in Fleet Weather Facility, Norfolk, they started the project.

A set of five progs gave them a fairly clear picture of the predictable weather the Buckner would face cruising eastward. The lieutenants laid out a series of first-day course legs, selected the best from all angles and passed it on to the ship, with projected tentative headings for successive days.

Previously documented tables showed them exactly how a ship of Buckner's size and configuration would react to every possible combination of wave, wind and current. As a P2R-1 type she will make 13.6 knots with a 20-foot bow-on sea and 18.9 knots with a 20-foot billowing sea.

Capt. K. C. Towne, skipper of the Buckner and a man with 40 years' sea-going experience, was on his way with what the lieutenants considered to be his quickest and safest routing to Bremerhaven.

But something happened on the second day to alter the script. The OSR team noted an alarming shift in weather when new progs developed. To the north a storm was moving down, and would lay a heavy hand on the Buckner if she plied her original course pattern.

CHARTS

Buckmaster and Albers reworked their chart and decided to send the ship more to the south, giving her a heading to skirt the storm line. So painstaking and accurate was their work that on her final leg the Buckner picked up a heavy following sea that booted her neatly home at high speed.

Veteran seafarer Towne was amazed. He conceded that at first he was a bit skeptical about the whole thing. Since that first passage the lieutenants have ushered him across five more times.

Asked how many ships they can accommodate at a given date, Albers pointed to a wall covered with clipboards. “Well, we have 60 nails up there and I guess we can drive in a few more,” he said. He noted that at the time 13 ships were under surveillance and six more were preparing to depart for Europe.

Buckmaster and Albers are backed by the 44-man staff of Fleet Weather Facility, where daily more than three miles of punch tape flows in with weather symbols.

Requiring only that ships give them 48 hours notice, Buckmaster says he and Albers “keep in touch with them all the way and sweat them out.” Every 24 hours a ship gives a position report and a summary of weather conditions.

Dr. James wrote in his thesis in 1956: “The inevitable result of the successful accomplishment of this task will be improved maritime economy, and progress to date strongly indicates that a reasonable solution to the problem may soon be realized.”

Scots Celebrate 200th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — “Burns Night,” celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns on Sunday will bring many Scotsmen together the world over.

Burns dinners will be held, probably featuring Haggis, that oatmeal and ground lamb concoction which Burns called “great chieftain of the puddin' race.” Haggis is traditionally eaten by all Scottish societies and Burns clubs in Scotland and abroad to commemorate Bobbie Burns' birthday.

AREA DRILLING ACTIVITIES

Six Producers Reported Around Monroe District

Six new producers in the Monroe district were reported to the local office of the state department of conservation for the period ending January 22. The office also recorded seven new locations, 33 active rigs and five holes plugged and abandoned in northeast Louisiana.

Business Upturn Signs Mounting

NEW YORK (AP) — Storms and floods dented the nation's industrial production this week, living costs showed a downward trend and interest rates tightened. In Washington, the first blows were exchanged in the annual battle of the budget. And a Russian bid for a larger slice of U. S trade was turned down.

These were highlights of a week that found investors, businessmen and top Washington officials betting even more heavily than before on operation upturn.

Ice-clogged rivers overflowing their banks closed steel mills, flooded coal mines and stalled shipments of steel, coal, sand and gravel on inland waterways. In the Pittsburgh area, one of the hardest hit, thousands of workers were made idle.

Auto production slowed down a bit, but the week's total—estimated by Automotive News at 130,190 cars — showed a 21 per cent rise over the same week last year.

There was encouraging news from the American Steel Warehouse Assn. Steel buying from warehouses has picked up substantially, ad warehouse shipments for the first quarter may top the year-ago rate by 25 per cent. Some buyers are reportedly stocking up in anticipation as a steel strike in July.

Living costs inched lower last month. The December decline amounted to only two-tenths of one per cent in the government's consumer price index but it was the first dip since August. You paid a little less for oranges, eggs, poultry, coffee and new cars (auto dealers gave larger discounts). Used car prices, rail and transit fares, rents and medical costs moved up.

As living costs retreated, factory workers' pay advanced. Average take-home pay for a worker with three dependents hit a new high of $79.60 a week.

Business borrowing costs went up another notch this week as dealers in commercial paper boosted their rates. Commercial paper is used by companies seeking to borrow large amounts of cash on a short-term basis.

Stock sales totaled 19,297,700 shares in the latest week compared to 21,105,080 shares in the previous week and 11,621,370 in the same week last year.

Bond sales had a par value in the latest week of $34,717,000 against $38,405,000 the week before and $33,122,000 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Last week, President Eisenhower held out hope of possible tax reductions in late 1960 if the federal government lives within its income during the next 18 months. This week the President submitted a 77-billion-dollar budget predicted on a general business rise. It calls for higher federal taxes on railroads, life insurance companies, cooperatives, gasoline, jet fuel and diesel oil during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Democrats opened fire on the budget almost before the ink was dry.

Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) called it a "propaganda budget" that doesn't contain "a ghost of a promise of a tax cut" anywhere. Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), chairman of a 50-member committee holding hearings on the budget, declared: "There seems to be no hope of a tax cut in the foreseeable future. . . . There seems to be no immediate hope that government spending will not continue to rise."

The President's economic report, geared to the theme of prosperity without inflation, seemed less likely to stir violent controversy. Eisenhower called on business and labor to forego extravagant price and wage increases. He also added a new weapon to his anti-inflation aresenal — a watchdog committee of economic experts who will keep an eye on government spending. Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, the President's top economic adviser, is expected to be named chairman.

Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan went home this week — and apparently he didn't get what he came here for. The day after Mikoyan's departure, Washington sources reported that Adm. Lewis Strauss, the new commerce secretary, favors tighter curbs on U. S. trade with the Soviet Bloc.

Under Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon told Congress that Mikoyan didn't show the slightest interest in increased trade "except on his own terms."

Briefly over the business scene: Defense Secretary Neil McElroy said the Pentagon plans to have 12 Polaris missile-carrying submarines under construction late next year. . .New mergers are shaping up. One would link Aluminum Co. of America and Rome Cable Corp. The other — still in the talking stage — would combine Manufacturers Trust Co. and Bankers

State Taxpayers Face Heavy 'Bite'

WASHINGTON (Special) —The council of state chambers of commerce said Friday Louisiana will pay a record - breaking $939,400,000 in federal taxes in the 1960 fiscal year.

The council's breakdown of the administration's 1960 budget shows that although spending will be down slightly, tax revenues are expected to total slightly more than $70 billion, the highest ever.

The whopping tax bite on Louisiana represents 1.55 per cent of the total revenue — Louisiana's normal share. The near-billion - dollar estimate assumes that President Eisenhower's predictions of tax income are correct — although some economists say he is too optimistic.

Oil, Airline Stocks Make Best Strides

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and airlines made strides this week in a market which was virtually stalemated on average.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose a trifling 20 cents to $219.50 during the week. This kept intact a string of advances which has now gone to eight in a row.

The market rose on two days, declined on two days and was unchanged on average the other day. On the two sessions of rising prices the market once again stepped into historic high ground by narrow margins.

The AP 60 stock average touched a record of $220.20 but closed the week moderately below that.

Turnover during the week totaled a brisk 19,297,700 shares. It was a considerable decline from the unusually high 21,015,090 shares of the week before.

Brighter prospects for jet age passenger travel and a favorable ruling by the Civil Aeronatutics Board on premium fare for jet passengers helped the air carriers. They met some respectable investment buying as did the oils, which were highly recommended in some Wall Street quarters.

While the business and economic news remained favorable there seemed to be a growing hesitancy, based to some extent on unconfirmed rumors that the Federal Reserve Board would stiffen interest costs by raising the discount rate again. Some Wall Street pundits advised taking profits.

Despite the decline of investment grade issues, the corporate market wound up higher on balance. Trading slacked off a bit. Rails, industrials and utilities edged higher. Foreign dollar liens were steady.

Volume declined to $34,717,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $38,405,000 the previous week. A year ago it was $33,122,000.

BAR GROUP PANELISTS — Participating in the panel discussion sponsored by the Junior Bar Section of the Louisiana State Bar Association at the eighth Louisiana Conference of the Local Bar Associations and meeting of the House of Delegates of the Louisiana State Bar Association this weekend, were a number of prominent speakers. They are, left to right, Ralph N. Jackson of New Orleans, H. Alva Brumfield of Baton Rouge, Thomas C. Wicker, Jr., of New Orleans, Thomas N. Davenport of Monroe, and Judge H. W. Ayres of Jonesboro. Topic of the panel was "Proposed Limitations of Appellate Review to Questions of Law in Our State Courts." (See story on page 1-A)

Cotton Mart Price Gains Are Scored

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices showed mixed tendencies this week but closed with all deliveries in higher ground.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished with net gains of 50 cents to $2.60 a bale. Nearby July scored the biggest advance.

The market faltered at the start of the week, but stiffened when the Commodity Credit Corp. reported an unexpectedly large increase in cotton pledged to the government loan. Distant positions were added by the prospect of a more aggressive export program next season.

The report on loan entries was by far the strongest influence on the market. It showed that 450,000 bales were pledged to the loan in the week ended Jan. 16—an all-time record. This total — much larger than most traders had looked for—strengthened the possibility of a tight supply of "free cotton" toward the end of the current crop year.

By Jan. 16, the CCC reported, 5,967,000 bales had been pledged under the 1958 loan program. Allowing for withdrawals of 95,000 bales, this left a net loan stock of 5,872,000. Many in the trade said they expected a total of 7,257,000 bales to be pledged this season. This would be a record high.

Domestic consumption of cotton in December averaged 29,100 bales per day, compared to a daily rate of 33,600 in November and 28,500 in December a year ago. Mill use of the staple during the current season may total 8,300,000 bales as compared to slightly less than 8 million in 1957-58.

Exports of U.S. cotton in the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 75,000 bales, compared to 2,677,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

With exports lagging far behind the year-ago pace, trade quarters are now predicting a full season total of only 3 to 3½ million bales as compared to 5,700,000 in 1957-58 and 7,600,000 in 1956-57.

ECONOMIC SQUEEZE

Pay Hikes Spread Over Oil Industry

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The economic squeeze the oil industry has faced the past 18 months drew a bit tighter this week.

Offers of a 5 per cent wage hike for refinery workers spread throughout the industry despite weak prices for crude and petroleum products.

The situation caused the head of the huge Texas affiliate of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) to warn that the pattern of wage increases can only feed an inflationary trend.

Morgan J. Davis, president of Humble Oil & Refining Co., indicated Humble was making the 5 per cent offer only because it had become evident a general increase will prevail and because of company policy to pay at least the prevailing rate.

Crude prices are 18 per cent higher than in 1948 and products 5.1 per cent. Industry and government sources estimate wages increased over 100 per cent during the same period.

Henderson Supplee Jr., president of Atlantic Refining Co., said recently the general increases the past 12 years have raised his company's wage payments over 100 per cent and that improvements in such benefits as shift differential, holidays, hospitalization and insurance have added another 25 per cent.

A spokesman for another major company said wage scales have doubled and that fringe benefits have added another 30 per cent.

Other costs also have jumped sharply. Industry sources say oil well steel casing prices have increased over 15 per cent since 1956, that oil field machinery has increased over 7 per cent.

The Chase Manhattan Bank estimates that the costs for oil finding and developing by a group of major companies increased 57 per cent between 1946 and 1957.

This prompted L. F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil Co., to state in November the only line of attack for the oil industry to use against the many economic pressures bearing upon it is an aggressive, imaginative program of cost reduction.

The average 1948 wholesale price for gasoline was 10.5 cents a gallon. Today's average is 11.6 cents. The average crude purchase price 10 years ago was $2 59 a barrel, compared to today's $3.06.

Grain Prices Score Gains During Week

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all trade considerations in the grain futures market favored the bullish side this week and price gains were the broadest and most uniform in more than two months.

The advances generally exceeded a cent a bushel with two rye contracts, one wheat and one soybean contract ranging out to two cents or more higher for the week on the Board of Trade.

The Department of Agriculture started the week off with a report that virtually all grains in the government loan as of Dec. 31 were at record highs for that period and with movement of corn and soybeans still going in that direction at a fast clip as the year ended.

Brokers were encouraged particularly with the report which showed almost 20 per cent of the 1958 soybean crop already in the loan. Other reports and advices since then have indicated the pressure of surplus beans has been further relaxed by additional heavy loan commitments.

Another development which the trade construed as significantly bullish was the department's decision to offer one-year loan extensions on farm-stored soybeans.

Business Upturn Signs Mounting

NEW YORK (AP) — Storms and floods dented the nation's industrial production this week, living costs showed a downward trend and interest rates tightened. In Washington, the first blows were exchanged in the annual battle of the budget. And a Russian bid for a larger slice of U. S trade was turned down.

These were highlights of a week that found investors, businessmen and top Washington officials betting even more heavily than before on operation upturn.

Ice-clogged rivers overflowing their banks closed steel mills, flooded coal mines and stalled shipments of steel, coal, sand and gravel on inland waterways. In the Pittsburgh area, one of the hardest hit, thousands of workers were made idle.

Auto production slowed down a bit, but the week's total—estimated by Automotive News at 130,190 cars — showed a 21 per cent rise over the same week last year.

There was encouraging news from the American Steel Warehouse Assn. Steel buying from warehouses has picked up substantially, ad warehouse shipments for the first quarter may top the year-ago rate by 25 per cent. Some buyers are reportedly stocking up in anticipation as a steel strike in July.

Living costs inched lower last month. The December decline amounted to only two-tenths of one per cent in the government's consumer price index but it was the first dip since August. You paid a little less for oranges, eggs, poultry, coffee and new cars (auto dealers gave larger discounts). Used car prices, rail and transit fares, rents and medical costs moved up.

As living costs retreated, factory workers' pay advanced. Average take-home pay for a worker with three dependents hit a new high of $79.60 a week.

Business borrowing costs went up another notch this week as dealers in commercial paper boosted their rates. Commercial paper is used by companies seeking to borrow large amounts of cash on a short-term basis.

Stock sales totaled 19,297,700 shares in the latest week compared to 21,105,080 shares in the previous week and 11,621,370 in the same week last year.

Bond sales had a par value in the latest week of $34,717,000 against $38,405,000 the week before and $33,122,000 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Last week, President Eisenhower held out hope of possible tax reductions in late 1960 if the federal government lives within its income during the next 18 months. This week the President submitted a 77-billion-dollar budget predicted on a general business rise. It calls for higher federal taxes on railroads, life insurance companies, cooperatives, gasoline, jet fuel and diesel oil during the fiscal year starting July 1.

Democrats opened fire on the budget almost before the ink was dry.

Senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) called it a "propaganda budget" that doesn't contain "a ghost of a promise of a tax cut" anywhere. Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), chairman of a 50-member committee holding hearings on the budget, declared: "There seems to be no hope of a tax cut in the foreseeable future. . . . There seems to be no immediate hope that government spending will not continue to rise."

The President's economic report, geared to the theme of prosperity without inflation, seemed less likely to stir violent controversy. Eisenhower called on business and labor to forego extravagant price and wage increases. He also added a new weapon to his anti-inflation aresenal — a watchdog committee of economic experts who will keep an eye on government spending. Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, the President's top economic adviser, is expected to be named chairman.

Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan went home this week — and apparently he didn't get what he came here for. The day after Mikoyan's departure, Washington sources reported that Adm. Lewis Strauss, the new commerce secretary, favors tighter curbs on U. S. trade with the Soviet Bloc.

Under Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon told Congress that Mikoyan didn't show the slightest interest in increased trade "except on his own terms."

Briefly over the business scene: Defense Secretary Neil McElroy said the Pentagon plans to have 12 Polaris missile-carrying submarines under construction late next year. . .New mergers are shaping up. One would link Aluminum Co. of America and Rome Cable Corp. The other — still in the talking stage — would combine Manufacturers Trust Co. and Bankers

State Taxpayers Face Heavy 'Bite'

WASHINGTON (Special) —The council of state chambers of commerce said Friday Louisiana will pay a record - breaking $939,400,000 in federal taxes in the 1960 fiscal year.

The council's breakdown of the administration's 1960 budget shows that although spending will be down slightly, tax revenues are expected to total slightly more than $70 billion, the highest ever.

The whopping tax bite on Louisiana represents 1.55 per cent of the total revenue — Louisiana's normal share. The near-billion - dollar estimate assumes that President Eisenhower's predictions of tax income are correct — although some economists say he is too optimistic.

Oil, Airline Stocks Make Best Strides

NEW YORK (AP)—Oils and airlines made strides this week in a market which was virtually stalemated on average.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose a trifling 20 cents to $219.50 during the week. This kept intact a string of advances which has now gone to eight in a row.

The market rose on two days, declined on two days and was unchanged on average the other day. On the two sessions of rising prices the market once again stepped into historic high ground by narrow margins.

The AP 60 stock average touched a record of $220.20 but closed the week moderately below that.

Turnover during the week totaled a brisk 19,297,700 shares. It was a considerable decline from the unusually high 21,015,090 shares of the week before.

Brighter prospects for jet age passenger travel and a favorable ruling by the Civil Aeronatutics Board on premium fare for jet passengers helped the air carriers. They met some respectable investment buying as did the oils, which were highly recommended in some Wall Street quarters.

While the business and economic news remained favorable there seemed to be a growing hesitancy, based to some extent on unconfirmed rumors that the Federal Reserve Board would stiffen interest costs by raising the discount rate again. Some Wall Street pundits advised taking profits.

Despite the decline of investment grade issues, the corporate market wound up higher on balance. Trading slacked off a bit. Rails, industrials and utilities edged higher. Foreign dollar liens were steady.

Volume declined to $34,717,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $38,405,000 the previous week. A year ago it was $33,122,000.

BAR GROUP PANELISTS — Participating in the panel discussion sponsored by the Junior Bar Section of the Louisiana State Bar Association at the eighth Louisiana Conference of the Local Bar Associations and meeting of the House of Delegates of the Louisiana State Bar Association this weekend, were a number of prominent speakers. They are, left to right, Ralph N. Jackson of New Orleans, H. Alva Brumfield of Baton Rouge, Thomas C. Wicker, Jr., of New Orleans, Thomas N. Davenport of Monroe, and Judge H. W. Ayres of Jonesboro. Topic of the panel was "Proposed Limitations of Appellate Review to Questions of Law in Our State Courts." (See story on page 1-A)

Cotton Mart Price Gains Are Scored

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices showed mixed tendencies this week but closed with all deliveries in higher ground.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished with net gains of 50 cents to $2.60 a bale. Nearby July scored the biggest advance.

The market faltered at the start of the week, but stiffened when the Commodity Credit Corp. reported an unexpectedly large increase in cotton pledged to the government loan. Distant positions were added by the prospect of a more aggressive export program next season.

The report on loan entries was by far the strongest influence on the market. It showed that 450,000 bales were pledged to the loan in the week ended Jan. 16—an all-time record. This total — much larger than most traders had looked for—strengthened the possibility of a tight supply of "free cotton" toward the end of the current crop year.

By Jan 16, the CCC reported, 5,967,000 bales had been pledged under the 1958 loan program. Allowing for withdrawals of 95,000 bales, this left a net loan stock of 5,872,000. Many in the trade said they expected a total of 7,257,000 bales to be pledged this season. This would be a record high.

Domestic consumption of cotton in December averaged 29,100 bales per day, compared to a daily rate of 33,600 in November and 28,500 in December a year ago. Mill use of the staple during the current season may total 8,300,000 bales as compared to slightly less than 8 million in 1957-58.

Exports of U.S. cotton in the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 75,000 bales, compared to 2,677,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

With exports lagging far behind the year-ago pace, trade quarters are now predicting a full season total of only 3 to 3½ million bales as compared to 5,700,000 in 1957-58 and 7,600,000 in 1956-57.

ECONOMIC SQUEEZE

Pay Hikes Spread Over Oil Industry

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The economic squeeze the oil industry has faced the past 18 months drew a bit tighter this week.

Offers of a 5 per cent wage hike for refinery workers spread throughout the industry despite weak prices for crude and petroleum products.

The situation caused the head of the huge Texas affiliate of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) to warn that the pattern of wage increases can only feed an inflationary trend.

Morgan J. Davis, president of Humble Oil & Refining Co., indicated Humble was making the 5 per cent offer only because it had become evident a general increase will prevail and because of company policy to pay at least the prevailing rate.

Crude prices are 18 per cent higher than in 1948 and products 5.1 per cent. Industry and government sources estimate wages increased over 100 per cent during the same period.

Henderson Supplee Jr., president of Atlantic Refining Co., said recently the general increases the past 12 years have raised his company's wage payments over 100 per cent and that improvements in such benefits as shift differential, holidays, hospitalization and insurance have added another 25 per cent.

A spokesman for another major company said wage scales have doubled and that fringe benefits have added another 30 per cent.

Other costs also have jumped sharply. Industry sources say oil well steel casing prices have increased over 15 per cent since 1956, that oil field machinery has increased over 7 per cent.

The Chase Manhattan Bank estimates that the costs for oil finding and developing by a group of major companies increased 57 per cent between 1946 and 1957.

This prompted L. F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil Co., to state in November the only line of attack for the oil industry to use against the many economic pressures bearing upon it is an aggressive, imaginative program of cost reduction.

The average 1948 wholesale price for gasoline was 10.5 cents a gallon. Today's average is 11.6 cents. The average crude purchase price 10 years ago was $2 59 a barrel, compared to today's $3.06.

Grain Prices Score Gains During Week

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all trade considerations in the grain futures market favored the bullish side this week and price gains were the broadest and most uniform in more than two months.

The advances generally exceeded a cent a bushel with two rye contracts, one wheat and one soybean contract ranging out to two cents or more higher for the week on the Board of Trade.

The Department of Agriculture started the week off with a report that virtually all grains in the government loan as of Dec. 31 were at record highs for that period and with movement of corn and soybeans still going in that direction at a fast clip as the year ended.

Brokers were encouraged particularly with the report which showed almost 20 per cent of the 1958 soybean crop already in the loan. Other reports and advices since then have indicated the pressure of surplus beans has been further relaxed by additional heavy loan commitments.

Another development which the trade construed as significantly bullish was the department's decision to offer one-year loan extensions on farm-stored soybeans.

National Concern
Is Now Expanding
$735 Per Month

IF you qualify — Person must be neat in appearance, able to converse easily. Sales experience helpful, but not necessary. Apply to Mr. Lew Towner, Star Motel, Sunday 1-5, Monday 9-12, Tuesday 9-12.

Unusual Opening
Available Feb. 16

Our growing organization requires one more good man to join our sales force where producers earn from $13,500 to $42,000 in a year.

The man we want must be a self-starter . . . age about 40 . . . and has a good character and background.

Unusual future for growth as district manager with increased earnings . . . plus liberal bonus incentives.

We want to interview the interested party now to allow ample time for complete training before starting in the Monroe territory.

Write confidential letter to M. U. Swallow, President, Southwestern Petroleum Company, Box 789, Fort Worth 1, Texas.

ELIZABETH

EVERY BRICK, BOARD, NAIL, AND FINISH was hand picked by the builder - owner of this beautiful brick home. It's quality throughout with its: drapes in both the living room and dining area; pine paneled kitchen proudly presents scrumptious select birch cabinets with Formica tops, built - in stainless steel Tappan oven and range, ventahood, and pantry. There's 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets —master bedroom has built-in chest — another bedroom is paneled in Oriental ash and can be used as den. The full ceramic tile bath has dressing table, shower over tub — the ½ bath is also ceramic tile with dressing table. For added quality there's: sliding doors of select birch, full insulation, central heating, attic fan, termite contract, double carport, storage, and 100 ft. lot with fenced back yard. We'll proudly show anytime!

MILL ST.

"BANG-UP" VALUE! In fact, this home is selling below the FHA apprasal, and we'd like you to see it! There's oak floors in the living room and separate dining room; kitchen has built-in fold up table, ventahood; 3 bedrooms (one's 12x19 and can be used as den) . . . plus screened front porch, 42 in. attic fan, blinds, termite contract, double carport, outside storage, and fenced back yard with trees including plum, bearing orange, and Japanese plum. Right now's the time to see!

NORTH 8TH

UNBEATABLE COMBINATION! Of good location and a newly decorated home. Just look what $400 and closing buys: living room with fireplace, drapes; dining room; kitchen with metal cabinets a-plenty, large pantry; 2 bedrooms (master bedroom has double sliding door closet with built-in chest). Other plus features are: 1½ ton air conditioner, oak floors, wall furnaces, blinds, attic fan, termite contract, and pleasing 75x150 lawn with trees and partly fenced back yard. P. S. The attached garage is ceiled and can easily be made into a step - down den or 3rd bedroom. Ready for that long look?

NORTH 11TH

A HUMDINGER OF A BUY is to be found in this home! For only $250 and closing buys the following: drapes in the living room, kitchen with plastic counter tops, ventahood, 2 bedrooms, side screened porch . . . newly finished oak floors, floor furnace, 42 in. window fan, 220 wiring, blinds, washer plumbing, and shady lot. Don't tarry!

SWISS ST.

PERFECT GEM of a home — it's new— it's brick! And you'll like every inch of its: spacious (26 ft.) living room-dining area; kitchen with an excellent array of natural finish cabinets, Formica counter tops, built-in oven and range, ventahood; 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets; ceramic tile bath with dressing table, shower over tub. Plus attic fan, central heating, carport, storage, and large (111 ft.) lot, 4 blocks of Highland School. It's worth your time to see!

DRAGO

ASPARAGUS IS MOSTLY A BUNCH OF TIPS, and here's a tip you shouldn't ignore . . . and that's to see this centrally air conditioned and heated home today! The living room (19x14) is carpeted, large (26x11) den has fireplace, kitchen with very good cabinet space, Formica tops; both bedrooms carpeted . . . and more: shower over tub, attic fan, blinds, drapes, carport, storage, and large (125 ft.) lot with trees. It's 1 block of school and can be seen anytime!

NORTH 12TH

PARK YOUR CAR in the circular drive and enter this buff brick home. Inspect every one of its 1584 sq. ft.: overlooking lake on the back is the living room (14x24) with draw drapes, hardwood block floors; pine paneled kitchen has excellent cabinet space, ventahood; 3 bedrooms (one carpeted—one includes drapes), 2 baths (one with shower over tub). There's also these "pluses" central heating, attic fan, pastel colored blinds, 8 closets, phone jacks, double carport, storage, and large lot (252 ft.) with trees. A call will provide you with a look-see!

SPLANE DRIVE

THE THEME HERE IS ROOMINESS! For this year old masonary home has 1710 sq. ft. consisting of: entertaining size (15x25) living room; kitchen - dining area with built-in Tappan oven and range, natural finish cabinets with Formica tops; utility room 10x11, and 3 bedrooms. Other features: vinyl plastic floors, central heating, attic fan, blinds, 10x20 covered patio, double carport, large (105x206) lot with tall shade trees. And "to boot," there's a 26x30 steel frame shop building. You'll wanta' see — just name the time!

I JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHAT GOES WRONG!
WHAT'S THE MATTER, BROTHER?
MY CONFOUNDED BANK ACCOUNT! I CAN NEVER KEEP THE BALANCE STRAIGHT. I NEVER KNOW HOW MUCH WE HAVE IN THE BANK.
WELL, YOU'LL HAVE TO CLEAR OFF THAT TABLE NOW SO I CAN SET IT. DR. BRAYNE IS COMING TO DINNER.
WHO'S DR. BRAYNE?
YOU KNOW PERFECTLY WELL, BROTHER, THAT DR. BRAYNE WAS MY MATHEMATICS TEACHER AT YIPPAHOOPPEE COLLEGE
MATHEMATICS? DID YOU SAY MATHEMATICS?
YES. HE'S CONSIDERED ONE OF THE FOREMOST MATHEMATICIANS IN THE COUNTRY.
OBOY! MAYBE HE WILL SHOW ME HOW TO KEEP MY BANK ACCOUNT STRAIGHT!
HE'LL BE GLAD TO, I'M SURE.
LATER
DR. BRAYNE! DELIGHTED TO SEE YOU! MORE THAN DELIGHTED.
STILL LATER..
ER, BY THE WAY, DOCTOR. I... UH... I'VE GOT A LITTLE PROBLEM THAT MAYBE YOU COULD HELP ME WITH.
GLADLY, MY BOY! GLADLY! WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

The PHANTOM
By Lee Falk and Wilson McCoy
YOU SAVED THE PHANTOM'S LIFE, DR. WORTH. THEREFORE I PLACED MY MARK OF PROTECTION ON YOUR WRIST.
50 YEARS AGO, OUR PHANTOM'S GRAND-FATHER~
YOU~ AND YOUR DESCENDANTS~ WILL HAVE THE PROTECTION OF THE PHANTOM ALL YOUR LIVES~WHERE EVER THE MARK IS KNOWN.
BUT~WHO~OR WHAT IS THE PHANTOM?
YOU WILL HEAR MANY TALES ABOUT THE PHANTOM, DR. WORTH. SOME OF THEM ARE TRUE. NOW~~
YOU CAN'T GET UP YET~~ YOU NEED WEEKS OF REST!
NO TIME FOR THAT. I'VE TOO MUCH TO DO. BESIDES, I FEEL FINE.
THANK YOU FOR THE CARE, DOCTOR. GOOD-BYE, AND GOOD LUCK.
NOT AT ALL. (GULP)

WELL, YOU'LL HAVE TO CLEAR OFF THAT TABLE NOW SO I CAN SET IT. DR. BRAYNE IS COMING TO DINNER.
WHO'S DR. BRAYNE ?
MATHEMATICS? DID YOU SAY MATHEMATICS?
YES. HE'S CONSIDERED ONE OF THE FOREMOST MATHEMATICIANS IN THE COUNTRY.
OBOY! MAYBE HE WILL SHOW ME HOW TO KEEP MY BANK ACCOUNT STRAIGHT!
HE'LL BE GLAD TO, I'M SURE.
LATER
DR. BRAYNE! DELIGHTED TO SEE YOU! MORE THAN DELIGHTED.
STILL LATER..
ER, BY THE WAY, DOCTOR. I... UH... I'VE GOT A LITTLE PROBLEM THAT MAYBE YOU COULD HELP ME WITH.
GLADLY, MY BOY! GLADLY! WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM ?
1·25
WELL, YOU SEE, I NEVER SEEM TO KNOW JUST HOW MUCH I HAVE IN THE BANK, AND I ... ER....
ROSCO THOUGHT PERHAPS YOU COULD GIVE HIM A TIP ON HOW TO KEEP HIS BANK BALANCE STRAIGHT.
WHY, TO BE SURE, MY BOY! IT'S SIMPLE!
I'LL GIVE YOU MY SECRET SYSTEM. WHENEVER I GET FOULED UP WITH MY BANK STATEMENT, WHICH IS EVERY FEW MONTHS, I SIMPLY CLOSE OUT MY ACCOUNT IN THAT BANK AND OPEN A NEW ACCOUNT IN ANOTHER BANK.

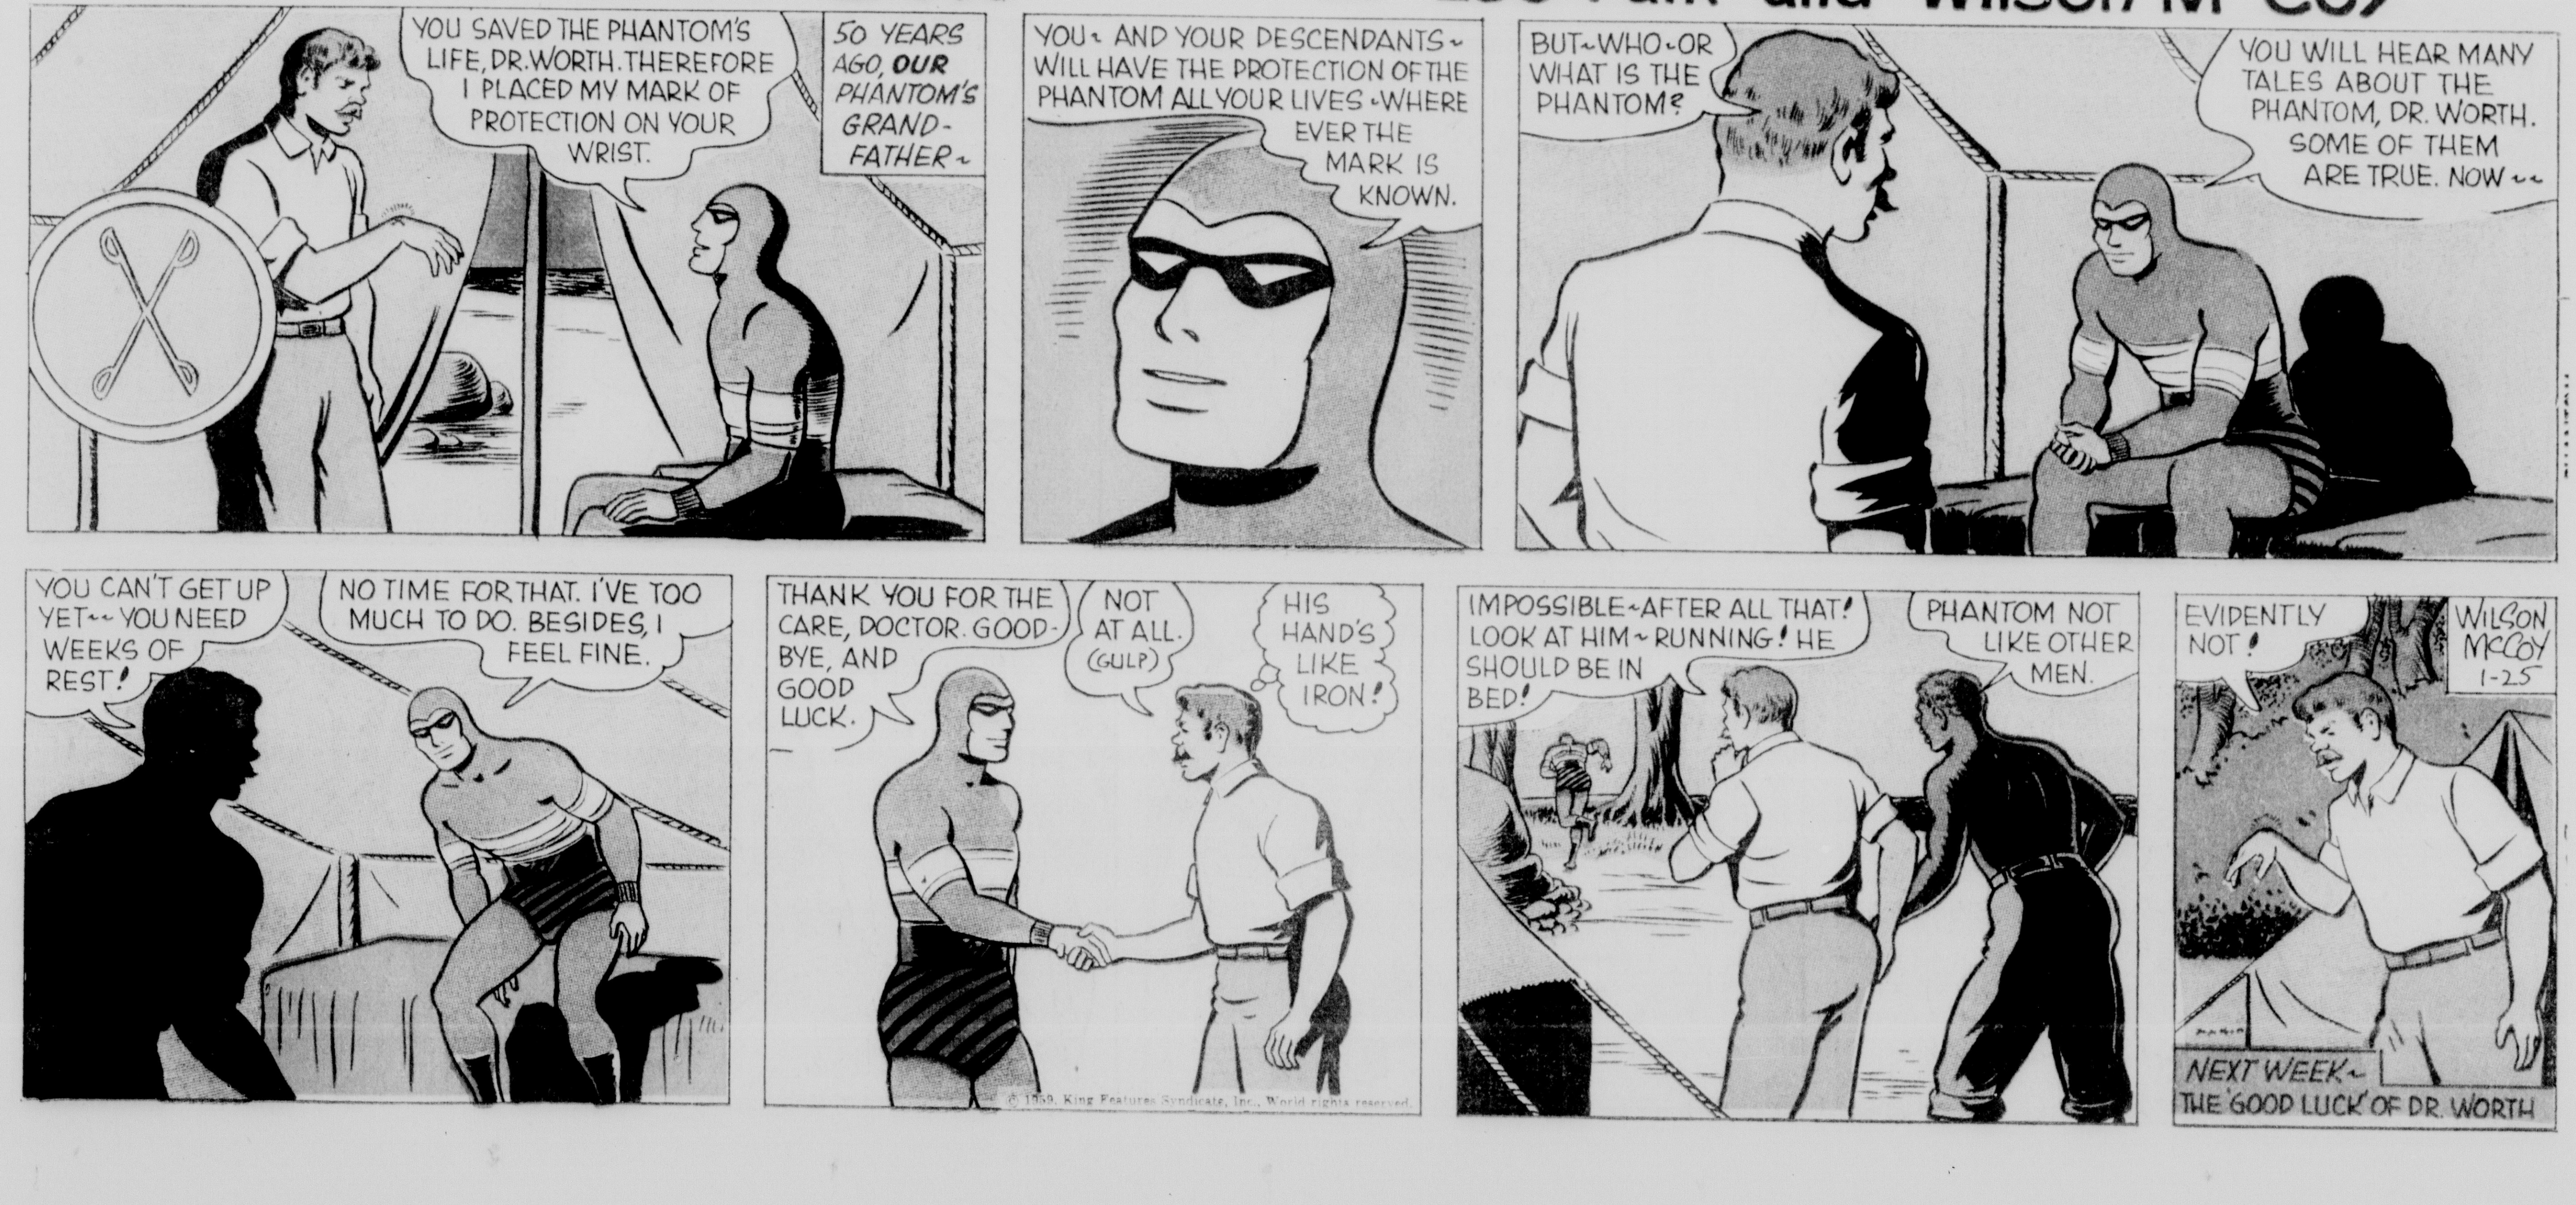
The PHANTOM

By Lee Falk and Wilson McCoy



YOU SAVED THE PHANTOM'S LIFE, DR. WORTH. THEREFORE I PLACED MY MARK OF PROTECTION ON YOUR WRIST.
50 YEARS AGO, OUR PHANTOM'S GRAND-FATHER~
YOU~ AND YOUR DESCENDANTS~ WILL HAVE THE PROTECTION OF THE PHANTOM ALL YOUR LIVES~WHERE EVER THE MARK IS KNOWN.
BUT~WHO~OR WHAT IS THE PHANTOM?
YOU WILL HEAR MANY TALES ABOUT THE PHANTOM, DR. WORTH. SOME OF THEM ARE TRUE. NOW~~
YOU CAN'T GET UP YET~~ YOU NEED WEEKS OF REST!
NO TIME FOR THAT. I'VE TOO MUCH TO DO. BESIDES, I FEEL FINE.
THANK YOU FOR THE CARE, DOCTOR. GOOD-BYE, AND GOOD LUCK.
NOT AT ALL. (GULP)
HIS HAND'S LIKE IRON!
IMPOSSIBLE~AFTER ALL THAT! LOOK AT HIM~RUNNING! HE SHOULD BE IN BED!
PHANTOM NOT LIKE OTHER MEN.
EVIDENTLY NOT!

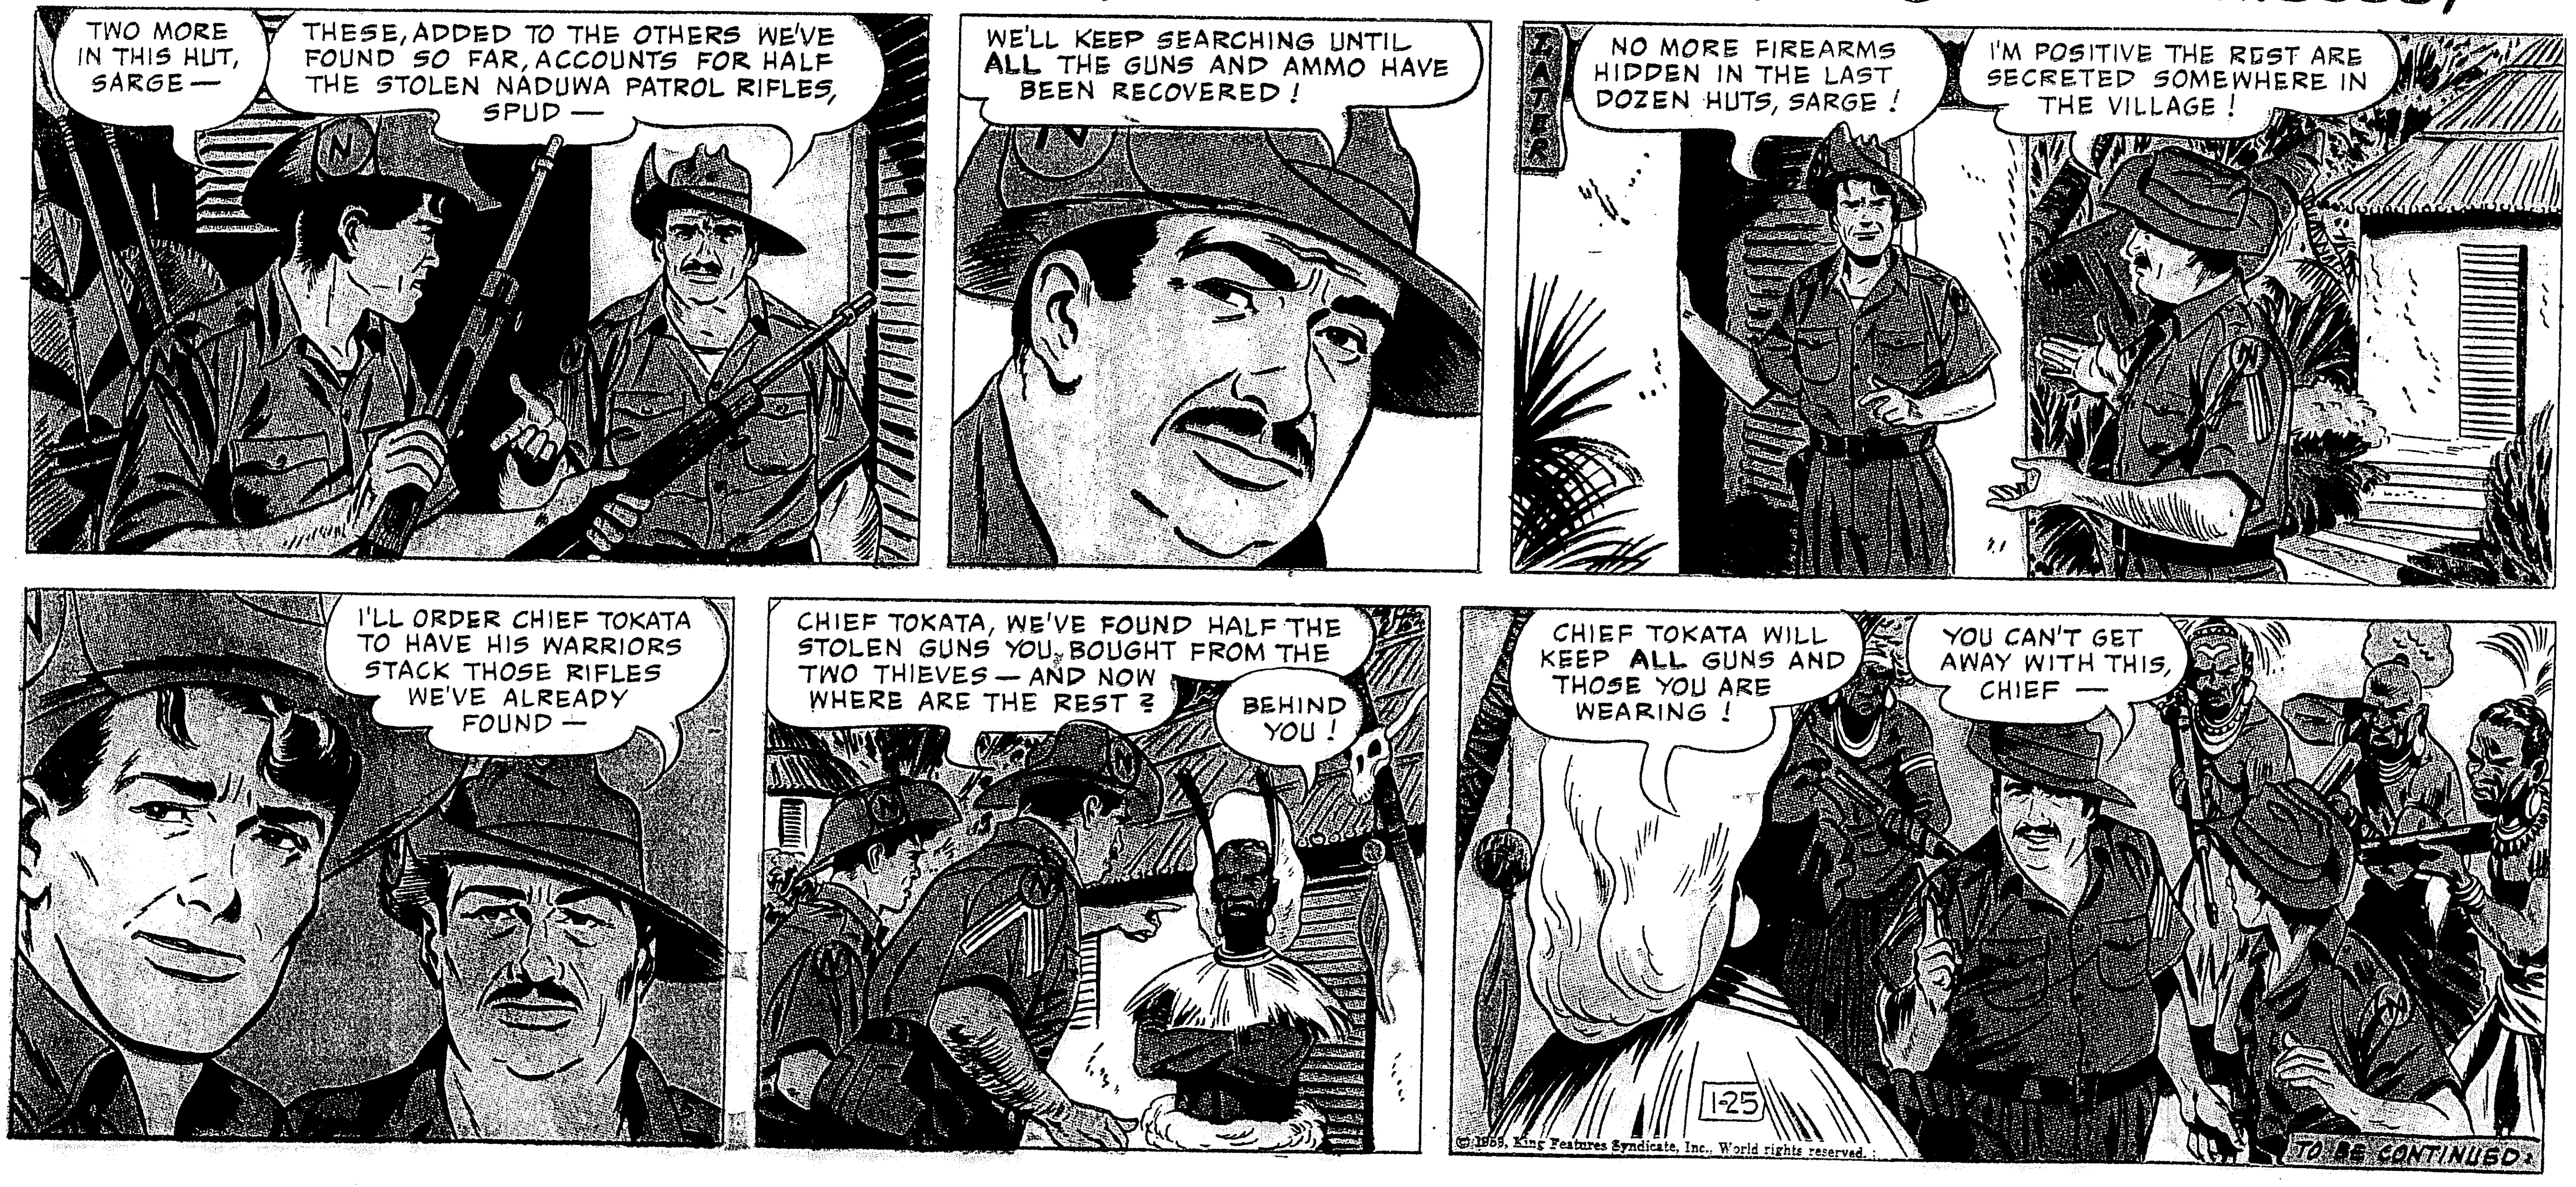
TIM TYLER'S LUCK

by Lyman Young and Tom Massey



TWO MORE IN THIS HUT, SARGE —
THESE, ADDED TO THE OTHERS WE'VE FOUND SO FAR, ACCOUNTS FOR HALF THE STOLEN NADUWA PATROL RIFLES, SPUD —
WE'LL KEEP SEARCHING UNTIL ALL THE GUNS AND AMMO HAVE BEEN RECOVERED!
LATER
NO MORE FIREARMS HIDDEN IN THE LAST DOZEN HUTS, SARGE!
I'M POSITIVE THE REST ARE SECRETED SOMEWHERE IN THE VILLAGE!
I'LL ORDER CHIEF TOKATA TO HAVE HIS WARRIORS STACK THOSE RIFLES WE'VE ALREADY FOUND — CHIEF TOKATA, WE'VE FOUND HALF THE STOLEN GUNS YOU BOUGHT FROM THE TWO THIEVES — AND NOW WHERE ARE THE REST?
BEHIND YOU!
CHIEF TOKATA WILL KEEP ALL GUNS AND THOSE YOU ARE WEARING!
YOU CAN'T GET AWAY WITH THIS, CHIEF —
1-25

MOON MULLINS by Ferd Johnson
KAYO, THERE'S SOMETHIN' ABOUT TH' NURSE I GOT A DATE WITH THAT'S REALLY DIFFERENT.
THAT'S WHAT I FIGURED WHEN SHE GIVE YOU A DATE, MOON.
AW, NURSES TRIP OVER FLOWERS ALL DAY AT TH' HOSPITAL, MOON-- BUY HER SOME CANDY!
SAY, TH' KID'S RIGHT. NEVER MIND TH' POSIES, PAL.
WELL, AIN'TCHA GOIN' TO GIVE ME A HUNK OF CANDY?
I'LL GIVE YA A PUNT IN TH' PANTS IF YA DON'T BEAT IT, KAYO.

I'M SORRY, SIR, BUT YOU'VE GOT TO ADMIT YOU COULDN'T PICK A HANDIER PLACE TO GET HIT.
QUIET PLEASE HOSPITAL ZONE
AW!
DON'T LIFT THAT MAN! HE'S INJURED!
HEY! YOU'RE MOVIN' HIM!
WE GET PAID FOR IT.
IF YA ASK ME, MOON, THERE'D BE A LOT LESS ACCIDENTS AROUND HERE IF THEY DIDN'T LET THEM GOOD-LOOKIN' NURSES WALK OUT IN FRONT, WHERE GUYS CAN GAPE AT 'EM.
YEH, AND THAT "QUIET PLEASE--HOSPITAL ZONE" SIGN AIN'T ANY HELP EITHER, KAYO. THAT DRIVER COULDN'T BLOW HIS HORN TO WARN ME.
SAY, YOU DON'T SUPPOSE THAT'S TH' WAY HOSPITALS DRUM UP BUSINESS, DO YOU?

LEA-LEA, I'VE HEARD NASTY RUMORS THAT YOU'VE BEEN DATING AN AMERICAN OFFICER. ARE THESE REPORTS TRUE?
I CAN'T ANSWER THAT, PAPA--- BUT SUPPOSE IT WERE TRUE
SMILIN' JACK
I'M OVER EIGHTEEN---I'M OLD ENOUGH TO MAKE MY OWN DECISIONS!
I MAKE YOUR DECISIONS, AND I DEMAND YOU MARRY MARCEL, THE SON OF MY BEST FRIEND!
AND I STILL REFUSE TO MARRY HIM! HE IS BAD!
MARCEL IS A GOOD MAN! HE HATES AMERICANS ALMOST AS MUCH AS I DO!
OH, PAPA---WHY DON'T YOU TRY TO UNDER-STAND AMERICANS? THEY HELP PROTECT WORLD FREEDOM!
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: © 1959 by News Syndicate Co. Inc.
PAPA, IF YOU'D LEARN MORE ABOUT AMERICANS PERHAPS YOU'D BEGIN TO LIKE THEM AS I DO!
IF I EVER CATCH YOU DATING AN AMERICAN, I'LL NOT ONLY BREAK HIS NECK, LEA-LEA, BUT--- I WILL TAKE YOU TO THE "GARDEN OF NO RETURN"!
"GARDEN OF NO RETURN"? OH, NO! NOT THAT, PAPA!
